800 Democratic Bolters Perfect Permanent Organization.

WILLIAM M. BROWN NAMED FOR GOVERNOR

CANNON'S PLATFORM ADOPTED AS WRITTEN

6,000-Word Document Asserts Prohibition Is Apex of Human Achievement.

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Staff Correspondent of The Washington Post).

Roanoke, Va., June 18.—Up over the town's fish and produce market and beneath a blazing Dixie sun, the seeds of another rebellion—a political one, that of Southern Democrats—were sown here today.

Approximately 800 anti-Smith Democrats from every one of the State's ten congressional districts and virtually every one of its 100 counties, perfected a permanent organization, nominated the psychology teacher of Washington and Lee, Prof. William Moseley Brown, for their gubernatorial candidate, and called for the sympathetic attention of other Southern States, proffering aid if needed in the organization of a "national" party.

A candidate for attorney general was also named, Capt. C. C. Berkley, of Norfolk. The third position on the State ticket, that of lieutenant governor, was left unchallenged. No official explanation was forthcoming, but "Jim" Price, up at Richmond, the regular Democrats' candidate, is a thirty-third degree Mason and admittedly would be hard to beat.

Then again, as the delegates put it, "Jim sort of held his tongue in his cheek when he supported Smith, anyway."

"State Machine" Attacked.

Support of Smith in the last campaign was the test and the avowed grievance of the half dozen speakers with the more immediate purpose being the riddance of the "present State machine." The climax of "its dynastic rule, of high taxes, of passing offices around to friends and of perpetuating its own existence," was its effort, it was charged, to turn Virginia over to Smith and Tammany and Raskob "when it was known that their victory would have been considered a mandate to lessen up in the enforcement of the liquor laws."

There was a telegram from Bishop James Cannon, jr., father of the movement at Washington, with his son, David, and other lieutenants here looking after his interests. He disavowed any desire for office.

The issue, he declared, "is Raskobism versus Southern Democracy." He and speakers at the convention repeated the Democratic national chairman's declaration at the recent dinner in Washington to Jouett M. Shouse, chairman of the party reorganization movement, that he did not intend to resign.

Referring to the two leading candidates for the State Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the August primary, William M. Mapp and John Garland Pollard, both dry, the former author of the State's first dry law, one speaker, Arch H. Williams, of Wytheville, declared:

Lyon Announces Consecration.

"A person may get wet and a person may get dry, he may get dry and he may get wet but when these two gentlemen stepped out in the last campaign they were so doused with the aroma of the highly perfumed Smith that they will never get away from it as long as they live."

It was Williams, a grizzled, toothless man, very fond of his chewing tobacco, who put Brown, the 35-year-old collegian, into nomination. And incidentally, the senatorial nomination a year hence, was "offered" to Frank Lyon, of McLean, Va., up near Washington. Lyon, a mainspring in the movement, said today that he was ready to devote his "life and property" to it, and has served as chairman of the State committee of ten which got the convention together.

Out of a clear sky a gubernatorial boom developed for him this morning when it was announced that his Eighth District was behind him. The word went around that Lyon, having arrived here and contemplated the initial success of his enterprise in the material atmosphere of a band playing "Dixie" and other Southern airs, decided he wanted to be the candidate. J. Cloyd Byars, of Arlington County, nominated him and Capt. T. N. Hamilton, of Alexandria, seconded the nomination. Only the Eighth District delegates stood up. Hamilton cajoled the rest of the convention, saying that he was a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars, and no one had suffered as he and Lyon in wrestling their conscience

Underhill Pessimistic on Chances for Measure to Be Approved.

Congress starts its summer vacation today with apparently no idea as to just what it is going to do with the resolution for Washington's proposed municipal airport. The prospect is that the resolution will spend considerable time in a pigeon hole, if, indeed, it is not forgotten altogether.

Representative Underhill (Republican), of Massachusetts, who introduced the resolution in the House, was extremely pessimistic yesterday over its chances of being adopted. Approval of the measure today, he said, seemed out of the question. Moreover, he said, there is considerable doubt as to whether it ever would be approved.

The resolution, which was drafted by the Congressional Airport Commission after extensive hearings, provides for a Federal appropriation of $500,000 toward the airport project, but specifies that future appropriations for it shall be carried in the regular District of Columbia appropriation bills.

The first fault found with the resolution was its failure to provide for a greater Federal contribution toward the airport—that is, a greater percentage of the total cost, which is expected to reach $6,000,000. The District Com-

WILLARD TO BE SOLD DURING JULY, REPORT

L. M. Boomer, Hotel Chain Head, Reveals Deal and Withholds Buyer's Name.

HOSTELRY WIDELY KNOWN

Negotiations are in progress for the sale of the Willard Hotel with expectations that the deal will be consummated during July.

This announcement was made in New York yesterday to a representative of The Post by L. M. Boomer, president of the Capital Hotel Company and head of the Boomer-du Pont hotel interests, owners of the Willard. Boomer declined to comment further on the present negotiations or to make public the name of the company or individuals seeking the property.

Reports that a group of prominent Washington men were contemplating the purchase of the well-known hostelry have been current here for the past several weeks, but Boomer would not discuss the verity of these rumors.

These individuals include Julius Garfinkel, owner of the large department store here bearing his name, and who at present is constructing new headquarters for his company across from the Willard at the northwest corner of Fourteenth and F streets northwest; Edward F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman from the District of Columbia and prominent attorney, and Frank Hight, who has served as manager of the hotel here for many years.

Both Garfinkel and Hight yesterday unequivocally denied any participation in any negotiations regarding the hotel and professed surprise at the report that a deal for the sale of the structure was under way. Colladay, in his absence from the city, could not be reached.

HOOVER TO PUSH DRY WAR, DESPITE DEATHS

President Deplores Slayings, but Says Border Traffic Must Cease.

SENATE EYES DIPLOMATS

(United Press.)

The Government's attitude toward prohibition enforcement, as revealed yesterday under pressure of protests regarding fatal shootings, is that taking of life is deplored and to be avoided if humanly possible, but that efforts to suppress liquor traffic must go forward.

President Hoover, in answer to inquiries from the press yesterday, said he deplored the taking of life but he urged citizens on the border to assist the Government in efforts to suppress international law violators to whom he traces current enforcement troubles.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman rejected suggestions that Federal agents be disarmed, to prevent fatalities, saying that professional liquor violators were dangerous men and that the Government could not leave its officers without means of self-defense.

The Senate turned to the diplomatic liquor situation yesterday by adopting a resolution by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, calling upon Washington police authorities for a list of diplomats who had been arrested or warned for driving while drunk. The request was the outgrowth of an episode involving a member of the Turkish Embassy staff.

While telegrams of protest regarding recent shootings were said to outnumber those which sustained Government officers, the administration received new assurances of support in its enforcement program yesterday. The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Philadelphia appointed a "national loyalty commission" to call on the President and give him the

2 "Coquette" Girls Qualify For Post-Fox Screen Test

Others, Ambitious to See Names Emblazoned in Film World, Enroll.

Cinderella, famous in the fairy tales to which all of us have listened at one time or another, was found by a fairy prince and attended a wonderful party, all through a dainty little slipper into which only her foot would fit.

In the city of Washington and nearby territory there are thousands of would-be Cinderellas, awaiting the arrival of a prince, with a slipper, who will open for them a land of fame and riches.

The Washington Post, the Fox Washington Theater and the Fox Film Corporation are going to be fairy princes for ten of these residents of the Capital, and the slipper in this instance will be a real screen test. The land of fame and fortune which will be opened to the fortunate ten is the motion-picture industry.

For there is now in course The Post-Fox Screen Test Contest, and, although it is only a few days old, it is enrolling

SENATE VOTES REVOCATION OF SECRECY RULE

ROBINSON RESOLUTION IS APPROVED, 68 TO 5

SENATORS PERMITTED TO TELL OWN BALLOT

Norris Measure for Mandatory Publication of Roll Calls Is Defeated.

The Senate yesterday voted overwhelmingly to modify its 140-year-old secrecy rule, and beginning today will consider all presidential nominations and treaties with foreign governments in open session unless a majority asks that the doors be closed.

The Robinson amendment to modify the rules was adopted 68 to 5, and represented a compromise between the advocates of full publicity and the upholders of the old order of dark secrecy.

To the proponents of full publicity, the amendment adopted yesterday was disappointing in that it fails to provide for mandatory publication of all roll calls, although it does permit an individual senator, without violating the rules, to tell how he personally voted.

Couzens Wants Complete Publicity.

The five senators who voted against the Robinson amendment were Patterson (Republican), of Missouri; Waterman (Republican), of Colorado; Couzens (Republican), of Michigan; Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, and Smith (Democrat), of South Carolina.

With one exception, these senators took their stand against the amendment because they were in favor of continuing the system of considering nomination in secrecy.

The exception was Senator Couzens, who declared that the amendment did not go far enough. In a defiant tone, he shouted that he held it to be his right to tell how and why he voted in a secret session. The Senate, he said had no right to bind him to secrecy with respect to the public's business.

Session to Start in Open.

Under the rules as they stood until yesterday's action, the Senate considered all nominations and treaties in secret executive session unless the proceedings were thrown open by a two-thirds vote.

The new rule reads that all the business of the Senate pertaining to nominations and treaties shall be considered in open session unless the Senate, by a majority vote taken in closed session, decrees otherwise.

Thus, whereas now such sessions start in secret, in the future they will start in the open. To get a vote on the question of closing the doors, it will be necessary for one senator to make the motion, another to second it and a majority to approve a secret session.

Freedom Granted Members.

The new rule further stipulates that the injunction of secrecy may be removed as to all or any part of the proceedings by a majority vote, and that any senator may tell how he voted.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, sought to have the new rule provide for the official publication of all roll calls taken in secret session, but his amendment was beaten, 39 to 34. His amendment was opposed on the ground that it would be unfair to senators to publish a roll call without publishing all the reasons and facts behind their votes.

The vote on the Norris amendment was regarded as the most significant one of the day. Party lines were broken, with the independent Republicans generally siding with Norris, and with the conservatives of both parties, generaly speaking, lined up against him.

Senate Follows House's Lead.

In the beginning, both the House and the Senate held all sessions in secret. The House abolished secrecy in three years, but the Senate continued to function behind closed doors for eight years. Finally, the Senate decided to meet in the open except when considering nominations and treaties.

In the last session of the Seventieth Congress, the Senate confirmed Roy O West as Secretary of the Interior in an executive session. In some manner Paul R. Malion, of the United Press, obtained or compiled what purported to be the roll call on the nomination, and it was printed by The Washington Post and other newspapers. A demand for the abolition of secret sessions was then voiced by the liberal members of the Senate.

Then came the publication of the roll call vote on the nomination of Irvine L. Lenroot to be a judge of the Customs Court of Appeals. This was directly responsible for the action taken yesterday.

Malion was barred from the Senate floor and then was called before the

CATHOLIC EMISSARIES AGREE TO PROVISIONS

Vatican Reply Is Expected at Capital Wednesday by Conferees.

ANSWER WILL DECIDE END OF PRIESTS' EXILE

Ambassador Morrow Assists in Negotiations, Talking With President.

Mexico City, June 18 (A.P.).—A basis for settlement of the Mexican religious controversy, it was learned authoritatively tonight, has been agreed upon and cabled to the Pope at Rome for his approval.

The basis for settlement received the final approval of President Portes Gil and the Roman Church emissaries, Archbishop Ruiz y Flores and Bishop Pascual Diaz, yesterday and was cabled to Rome last night.

Nothing further toward a settlement will be done until the Pope's reply is received, which it is hoped here will be some time Wednesday.

No Changes in Laws.

No changes of the existing Mexican religious law are involved in the agreement, which has to do only with their interpretation.

If the Vatican should approve, the Catholic clergy which abandoned the churches of Mexico in August, 1926, may return to their posts, permitting resumption of services.

The agreement was approved by the president and the bishops separately, not in joint conference.

Ambassador Morrow has acted as intermediary, between the president and the bishops since their last conference last Thursday. He conferred with both President Gil and the two bishops again separately today.

Morrow Talks With Gil.

Mr. Morrow was two hours with the president yesterday and an hour and a half with him Saturday, later Saturday conferring with the bishops at their residence for an hour and a half.

In the event that the Pope should withhold his agreement to the approval, it was admitted frankly from authoritative sources here that there was little possibility of an agreement being reached for some time to come.

Kellogg Pact Wins Favor of Japanese

Privy Council Is Expected to Ratify Report of Subcommittee.

(United Press.)

Official advice that a subcommittee of the Japanese privy council yesterday voted a favorable report on the Kellogg antiwar treaty was received with undisguised feeling of relief in official circles, both American and Japanese, here.

The subcommittee's action, which is considered certain of acceptance by the privy council as a whole, is taken to presage an early end to the lengthy and delicate negotiations initiated by former Secretary Kellogg in cooperation with Premier Briand of France.

Only Japan's delay in signing the treaty has prevented it from becoming effective, as the other fourteen signatories have deposited their formal ratifications with the State Department.

38 in Colombian Towns Killed by Landslide

Popayan, Colombia, June 18 (U.P.).—A great landslide destroyed all but three houses in the Village of Sevilla, State of Cauca, according to advices received here today.

The dispatches said 38 persons had been killed. A large number of residents of the village were injured and were under care of relief groups, which went to Sevilla from nearby towns. Thousands of tons of earth blocked the Quiloace River, causing a flood which did not recede until late this afternoon. Residents of the town attempted to flee, but many were trapped.

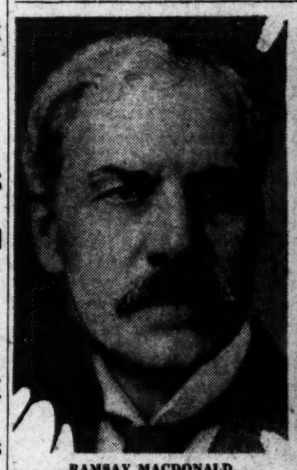
DAWES AND M'DONALD, IN WORLD PEACE PLEA AS EXAMPLE TO GLOBE



RAMSAY MACDONALD.

CHARLES G. DAWES.

American Envoy Asserts Naval "Yardstick" Is Possible.

PARITY IN SEA POWER IS SACRED TRADITION

Prime Minister Says That All Nations Are Invited to Enter Negotiations.

London, June 18 (A.P.).—The chosen spokesmen of two peoples, those of Great Britain and the United States, simultaneously tonight made official calls for world peace in which these two nations should be an example and encouragement for other nations.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald delivered his pronouncement to residents of his native Lossiemouth, Scotland; United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes made his maiden public speech in that capacity at the Pilgrims dinner in London.

A message from the premier read at the Pilgrims dinner said that the two English-speaking countries desire no alliance "either of common offense or of future defense;" they only want mutual good will which will be an example and encouragement for other nations to come into "the same companionship."

Finds No "Great Issue."

"Moreover," said his message, "we are placed in an extraordinary position in that our coming together in no way means we are leaving somebody else out. It is a great world impulse to put side by side which both America and ourselves are feeling."

The prime minister found no great issue with the United States, but rather a similarity to neglected roads between two men "with a slightly rough surface and some overgrowth, but with men determined to smooth them out."

Gen. Dawes declared that an early agreement on naval reduction was of outstanding importance at the present time. "My theme," he said, "is what method of procedure had best be adopted between the nations—a step so important to the peace of the world and the happiness hereafter of mankind."

The ambassador compared at length the experiences of economic experts and statesmen in wrestling with the problem of war reparations and those of naval experts and statesmen with the even more inclusive problem of armaments. The ambassador, whose name was given to the first successful plan for dealing with the first problem, concluded that upon the statesman "lies the duty of peace making, and in these negotiations he must hold the initiative. He is the one to build up the new order and to start the new policy, guided as he goes by the advice of those competent and patriotic naval experts who serve him.

Calls "Yardstick" Possible.

"At the beginning of the work the contribution of the naval experts to the problem should be a definition of abstract equality. It is certainly possible to naval experts to arrive at a definition for evaluation of the fighting strength of ships. * * * These ships might differ in displacement, size of guns, age, speed and other characteristics, and yet such an agreed properly weighted value might be given to each of these different characteristics as to make it possible to compare, for example the cruiser fleets or combined fleets of the two navies.

"If the naval experts rise to a proper sense of their responsibility, the use by statesmen of their yardstick will not be one which will invite peril from those

CAPITOL EMPLOYES GET WAGE INCREASE

$12,000 YEARLY SOUGHT

Capitol employes were voted a raise in pay yesterday, and an announcement was made that a raise soon will be sought for their employers.

Just before the Senate passed the bill to distribute $877,897 in increases among the 2,496 employes in the legislative branch of the Government, Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, announced that he was going to introduce legislation to boost the pay of senators and representatives from $10,000 to $12,000 a year.

McKellar at first planned to provide for this raise in an amendment to the bill for the employes' raises, but in the end withdrew it in order to allow the latter measure to pass.

The Tennessee senator pointed out that every Federal job Congress has created recently has called for a salary of $12,000. Consequently, he said, he did not see why the members themselves should not get that much. He said he would initiate legislation to provide the increase at the earliest opportunity.

The senators and representatives last voted themselves a raise in the Sixty-eighth Congress. Before that they had been receiving $7,500 a year and before then $5,000.

Chairman Warren, of the Senate appropriations committee, put through the pay bill for the employes yesterday only after a grueling debate. Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, declared that there were glaring inequalities in the bill and announced that he would seek to have them corrected after the recess.

Boy of 19, Sentenced To Die in Chair, Faints

Macon, Ga., June 18 (A.P.).—Earl Manchester, 19, convicted yesterday of murder of James Parks, 25, in an alleged insurance plot, fainted in court today after hearing Judge H. A. Mathews sentence him to die in the electric chair on August 14. The condemned youth, who was calm through his trial yesterday, upon recovering from his faint he broke into sobs.

Defense attorneys announced they would file a motion for a new trial some time today.

U. S. AND GERMANY TO FORM OWN PACT

ALLIED REGRET FORECAST

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover announced at the White House yesterday, in response to inquiry, that the United States will not be a signatory to the Young reparations agreement. There will, therefore, be no necessity for submitting the agreement to Congress, but congressional approval will be required to make the revised German payments to America effective.

The President's statement yesterday was as follows:

"I have a question as to whether the administration would submit the Young reparations agreement to Congress or not, or whether we become a signatory to it. Our Government is not a party to that agreement, and therefore would not be a signatory to it. There is no occasion to submit the agreement to Congress. The only point for congressional action is an authority to the administration to reduce Germany's treaty obligations in respect to the comparatively minor items of army occupation costs and mixed claims."

The understanding here is that a separate agreement between the United States and Germany will cover the reduced payments worked out under the Young plan and this agreement will have to run the gantlet in both the Senate and the House. But there may be nothing in this agreement to link the United States with the debt cancellation features of the Young plan.

After the full report of the Young plan had been examined here it became evident that the United States would become a party to the conditional debt cancellation project if a representative of the government signed the agreement. Senators noted this and doubt was expressed as to whether the agreement could be ratified. At the same time it was believed that President Hoover would not sanction signing the report and the President's statement of yesterday has cleared the atmosphere and removed apprehension and anxiety at the Capitol.

Officials of the Treasury Department here have been in favor of a separate agreement with Germany and against signing the Young report. A different view prevailed at the State Department, where it has been feared that foreign opinion would be adversely affected if America seemed to withdraw from the Farther along in his speech Gen. Dawes declared that "in the inarticulate consciences and hearts of the two great English-speaking peoples there is upheld, sacred and inviolate, the principle of equality between them of naval strength." He said:

"Their attitude upon this question—unmistakable—assumed as out of the realm of debate even by nationalistic demagogues of both countries—while decorated by reason, is based under the providence of God upon fundamental human instincts and a comingling of the blood. * * * In the joint hands of these same English-speaking people rests not only their secure guarantee but as well the ark of the covenant of human freedom."

The British prime minister at Lossiemouth spoke in general terms of the historic meeting which he had with Gen. Dawes on Sunday, declaring that its purpose was looking toward the hope that it might be instrumental in "preparing a board around which other nations might ultimately sit in cooperative friendship studying the arts and ways of peace." Of the meeting he said:

"We found each other taking the same general views of world peace. The hands we clasped were not cold with official correctness, but warm with a friendship inspired by common enthusiasm for service in the cause of international good will and common sense.

"We did not meet to threaten other nations, to dominate other peoples, nor indeed did we meet to form alliances and pacts. We had no intention of presenting to the other nations an accomplished fact they can take or leave. * * *

"I hope that neither the large states nor the small ones will have any doubt that they (the Anglo-American conversations) are not exclusive—they are inclusive."

Right to Enter U. S. Called Trotzky Aim

Berlin Hears That A. F. of L. Will Be Requested to Assist Him.

Berlin, June 18 (U.P.).—An unconfirmed Telegraphen Union dispatch from Constantinople tonight said Leon Trotzky, exiled leader of the Soviet Red armies, will apply for permission to enter the United States.

The dispatch asserted that Trotzky, who lived in New York before his rise to power in the Bolshevik ranks, will ask the American Federation of Labor to support his application.

The dispatch said that if the federation obtains permission from the State Department at Washington for Trotzky to enter the United States, the former Red leader will formally apply to the United States consulate at Constantinople for a passport.

Trotzky has made advances toward various European countries, including Germany, Sweden and Great Britain, in a futile effort to obtain permission to establish residence where he may write and have proper medical attention.

Trotzky, if admitted to the United States, plans to resume publication of the New York newspaper Movy Mir, which he published in 1914, the Telegraphen Union dispatch said.

Robert Forrest, colored, 25 years old, 918 Four-and-a-half street southwest, was exonerated of the death of Frederick Summerville, 46, colored, of 406 Smithson court southwest, at a coroner's inquest at the Morgue yesterday. Summerville was struck last Friday night at Four-and-a-half and H streets southwest and died at Emergency Hospital Monday.

DAWES' SPEECH ON PARLEY PROCEDURE

The speech of Ambassador Dawes follows:

"We are in a period when mankind, emerged from its greatest cataclysm—the World War—is lifting its eyes from the darkness of the past toward the sunlight of international peace and tranquillity. It is the era of effort for world construction—moral and material.

"The ratification of the Kellogg peace treaty, which is the agreed upon expression of a world intention, has one of its first effects in a pronounced change in the form of international discussion of the world's peace. The closing of the discussion upon the form of the expression of the principle and the inception of the discussion of the practical methods by which to make it effective prove the existence of the general determination to make the treaty not a mere gesture, but the foundation of an era of 'peace on earth and good will toward men.'

"The matter of first importance at the present time is that the friends of the world's peace move unitedly toward that objective with a clear understanding among themselves that any effort which is not an united effort, is liable to be ineffective and tending toward disintegration.

Order of Procedure Necessary.

"To avoid confusion and delay endangering their common objective, they new should not only unitedly consider what steps should be taken toward it, but the order in which those steps are to be taken.

"The importance of an early agreement on naval reduction by nations is of outstanding importance at the present time, and it would seem to be the next step to be taken toward world peace.

"As to any other controverted questions between any nations, or between Great Britain and the United States, their future peaceful settlement, either way, will not be endangered by the cessation of an enormously expensive naval competition in progress during their discussion.

"Congress has already by law committed the United States to an immediate naval program involving over $250,000,000, giving, however, to the President the power to suspend it in the event of an international agreement for the limitation of naval armament.

Huge Construction Costs Cited.

"On May 31 last the Secretary of State of the Uited States Said: 'I have in my possession a memorandum for the director of the budget showing the cost of the program recommended by the Navy Department in case the policy of naval reduction which the President advocated is not adopted. That memorandum shows that the authorized and contemplated naval program for the construction of new ships alone amounts to $1,170,000,000.

"'When it is borne in mind that the foregoing figures involve the construction program of only one nation, and that if it proceeds other nations will be impelled to follow suit, the burden of unproductive expenditure which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next fifteen years can to a certain extent be realized.'

"My address tonight concerns itself with suggestions as to a change in method for future negotiations for naval disarmament.

World Participation Needed.

"Agreement upon a method of negotiation must concern, from the very beginning, all interested naval powers and should have not a partial but a world sanction. While, in the course of the discussion I may refer to the principle of equality of naval power as between Great Britain and the United States only because the outcome of previous conferences showa that this is the agreed policy of both governments.

"My theme is, what measure of procedure had best be adopted between the nations—a step so important to the peace of the world and the happiness hereafter of mankind.

"Edmund Burke in his 'Observations on a Late Publication of the Present State of the Nation' once made the profound remark about politics which he could have made with equal truth of law, of government systems, and of dealings with international relations of all kinds, including methods of negotiation for reparations settlements or reduction in naval armament.

Human Nature Important Factor.

"'Politics,' said he, 'ought to be adjusted not to human reasonings but to human nature, of which the reason is but a part, and by no means the greatest part.'

"The long time which elapsed after the ending of the great war before a proper method of negotiation for reparations settlements was evolved, was because the first method was adjusted to human reasoning and not to human nature. That method was to have the recommended settlement prepared by the continuing and concurrent work of economic experts and statesmen combined.

"Since the reparations settlement involved, in each one of the nations interested, both an economic and a political problem, it was reasonable to suppose that it would be best determined by the joint effort of statesmen and economists working together.

Chaos Barely Avoided.

"This futile effort continues so long before its abandonment that all Europe was brought to the brink of economic and political chaos, and then only, in the latter part of 1925, did the reparations commission as an experiment decide upon the separate formation of the first committee of experts.

"This expedient, viewed at that time as almost hopeless by most economists and entirely so by all politicians—then designated by one great member of the reparations commission as the 'prescription of a pill for an earthquake'—proved successful.

"The formation of that committee was not a triumph of intellect—it was a triumph of despair. It was adopted because nothing else had worked. Its success was due to its unconscious, but proper adjustment to the law of human nature.

Proper Method Found By Accident.

"What happened thereafter demonstrated that by accident the world had discovered that the proper method of settling an international problem, involving a separate economic and political problem in each country, was to use independent experts whose suggestions involved their interpretation of the correct and fundamental economic principles involved in the situation. Their formula then to be handed over to statesmen who, reinforced by the general public confidence in the impartiality of expert opinion, could better bring the respective public sentiments into acceptance of the necessary wording of the compromise between political expediency and economic principles.

"In committees formerly composed of collaborating statesmen and economists the economists had always stood rigidly for conclusions endangering the statesmen and the acceptance of the plan, and the statesmen for conclusions which would stultify the economists and endanger the success of the plan.

"Under such circumstances the arrival of a constructive compromise was well-nigh impossible. The method was not adjusted to the law of human nature.

"Economic and technical problems are one thing—governmental and political problems are another.

"The rigid attitude and determined expressions of international economic and technical specialists, as to the inviolability and sacredness of technical principle, is perhaps praiseworthy, but we must remember that these expressions are always incident to a doubtful embodyment of them in a personal interpretation of their applicability to international political situations, of which experts are not always competent diagnosticians.

"One who is inclined to believe that economists and technicians, claiming to be guided in their intellectual voyages by the stars and compasses and high lighthouses of fixed principles, never compromise, as do the alleged unworthy politicians, is lacking in experience in international negotiations.

Army of Experts Reports.

"For six years after the war the unhappy reparations commission, besides its other misfortunes, was surrounded by an army of economic experts representing different nations interested in the problem. These experts delivered innumerable written ultimatums as to the correct economic principles which underlay their divergent recommendations, which filled vast untouched libraries and molded in their unruffled dust.

"The disagreements of these experts with each other, swearing devotion to infallible principles, were as complete and overwhelming as those which characterized the deliberations of supposedly less worthy, entirely confused, but fully as determined politicians and statesmen.

"I remember during the last two weeks of deliberation on the part of the first committee of experts appointed by the Reparations Commission that, as the inside export committee was laoring with the formulation of its conclusions, almost all of them more or ess the result of a compromise, they faced a snowstorm of protesting papers lled with voluminous but disagreeing dvice of outside experts removed from he field of negotiations.

Naval Negotiations Involved.

"What I have said has a most direct earing upon the question of the method of conducting the great negotiations for naval disarmament soon justly to occupy the attention of the world.

"The question is how best to adjust the methods of negotiation to accord with the laws of human nature so that a successful outcome, so vital to the welfare of the world, may not be unnecessarily endangered.

"International naval reduction is a task, the successful accomplishment of which requires cooperative employment of two distinctly unrelated talents—that of naval technical experts and of statesmen.

"Important as is a preliminary expert examination of economists to report to statesmen on an international problem involving both an economic and political phase, it is even more important where naval technicians and statesmen confront a problem involving both a technical and a political phase.

Human Nature Again Recalled.

"But here we must keep in mind the law of human nature. In the case of preliminary use of economic experts, their prime objective is a formula which will recognize the dominance of economic law, and the success of a statesman in reaching the second objective of accommodating the expert formula to the political conditions in the respective countries, is something as much desired by the economic experts as by the statesmen themselves.

"That later achievement only will crown with success the preliminary expert effort. This attitude has recently been twice demonstrated. So anxious was the first economic committee of experts, the reparation commission in 1924, that their report should be the basis of a successful settlement that they were engaged continually during their work in adjusting the form of their statement to the expected political repercussion.

"It was their constant endeavor to frame their conclusions in such language as would make them easily understood and be as inoffensive from a political standpoint as was possible. This effort to adjust economic necessity to political expediency led them to many collateral individual conferences for advice from European statesmen during their work.

No Changes Necessary.

"As a result, when the report of the first committee of experts was delivered to the statesemen of the London conference, the latter found it unnecessary to change the plan but only to supplement it by collateral international agreements relating to it, making it politically acceptable to all the nations concerned.

"And thus it was with the world-important report of the second committee of experts just completed. It was their intensive desire to have a constructive outcome of their work, as much as because the work itself was a diplomatic as well as an expert employment, that led them to consult constantly with leading European statesmen during their epoch-making labors.

"This desire on the part of these economic committees accorded with the law of human nature.

"But in the case of naval technical experts, working for a formula for naval equality, the law of human nature runs contrary to such an attitude.

Harder Problem Faced.

"It would be vastly more difficult, other things being equal, for a mixed commission of Navy technicians and statesmen to agree on a plan for naval disarmament than for a mixed commission of economists and statesmen to agree upon a reparations settlement, practically impossible as history has shown the latter to be.

"A naval expert is qualified to define accurately the principles which should determine abstract naval equality. But the law of human nature decrees that his opinion is relatively not as safe in a program which he formulates as a practical interpretation of these principles applied to a partial destruction of his own Navy.

"The proper pride of a naval officer's life is his Navy. His whole professional career impels him to think of a Navy only in terms of victory.

Wants Superior Navy.

"He not only instinctively feels but he is rightly taught to feel, that he must strive not for equal navies, but for a superior Navy.

"It is difficult for him to forget that with a superior Navy victory is probable—with an equal Navy, doubtful, and with an inferior Navy, almost hopeless.

"Other things being equal, I fear no naval officer inherently favors equality. The naval officer has his duty to perform to his state, and it is primarily to secure it against attack. He therefore trusts to his ships and his armament.

"It is the duty of the statesman to remove from his state the danger of attack.

Latter Must Take Initiative.

"Under the latter primarily lies the duty of peacemaking, and in these negotiations he must hold the initiative. He is the one to build up the new order and to start the new policy, guided as he goes by the advice of those competent and patriotic naval experts who serve him.

"What differences there are in their respective duties can be coordinated into a policy of statesmanship. And that alone is what I have in mind in what I now say. I have no knowledge of the qualifications and records of any naval officers heretofore engaged in these negotiations, or acquaintance with them. I am concerned only that the methods under which this work is to be done, whoever may do it, shall be adjusted with the laws of human nature.

"At the beginning of the work, the contribution of the naval experts to the problem should be a definition of abstract equality. It is certainly possible to naval experts to arrive at a definition for the evaluation of the fighting strength of ships. Thus, for instance, one might find a yardstick with which to determine the military value of individual ships. These ships might differ in displacement, size of guns, age, speed and other characteristics, and yet such an agreed properly weighted value might be given to each of these different characteristics as to make it possible to compare, for example, the cruiser fleets or combined fleets of the two navies, and establish a parity between them.

Intelligent Solution Expected.

"If the naval experts rise to a proper sense of their responsibility, the use by statesmen of their yardstick will not be one which will invite peril from those extreme pacifists and extreme militarists who form the 'lunatic fringe.'

"But again in connection with the method of preparing the naval yardstick, let us consider the law of human nature. Should a commission composed of the representatives of each navy concerned meet to reach an agreement upon this yardstick, they would be asked to agree upon something, the use of which will reduce in number the idols of their hearts—the ships of their navies. I am casting no reflection here upon naval officers when speaking of the law of human nature which subconsciously influences actions of all mankind, learned or ignorant, good or bad, rich or poor, skilled or unskilled, great or humble, old or young, of every race and nationality of the world.

"I have already spoken of the fallibility and the lack of agreement of expert and economic opinion as exemplified by the experience of the reparations negotiations. I will say frankly that from a commission of naval experts of the respective nations meeting together and called to evolve a final definition of the naval yardstick, I personally should expect a failure to agree. It would seem that to adjust to human nature the method of arriving at naval reduction, each government might separately obtain from their respective naval experts their definition of the yardstick and then the inevitable compromise between these differing definitions, which will be expressed in the final fixation of the technical yardstick, should be made by a committee of statesmen of the nations, reinforced from the beginning by these separate expressions of abstract technical naval opinion and able again to seek further naval advice if necessary before the final fixation.

Same Statesmen Should Complete Work.

"These statesmen should further be the ones able again to seek further naval advice if necessary before the final fixation. These statesmen should further be the ones to draw up for the world the terms of the final agreement upon naval reduction, which should be couched in those simple terms understandable to the ordinary man on the street, which, while the pet aversion of the casuist, are the highest expression of true statesmanship. That final agreement, covering the quantitative dispositions, will go to the nations for approval or rejection.

"If this should be the outcome, let those entrusted with the last draft of the conclusions of the last conference be men born with the facuity of clear and concise statements, for that document must appeal to the composite will of the peoples of the nations, and in order to make a proper appeal it must be read generally and understood. There again we remember the operations of the law of human nature and will hope that in these men the temptation to show erudition will be subordinated to writing that which, while properly covering the cause, may be understood by their audience, a clear statement of the case, understandable by all, should mean success.

"And here let me anticipate possible comments of those whom we have always with us on both sides of the ocean—the social purveyors of the trivial in international discussion who talk so continually about good relations and do so little to forward them. In all I have said tonight I intend nothing in derogation of the absolute necessity for consideration and presentation of the naval side of this question by its ablest experts the world over, and on the other hand, nothing in derogation of the absolute necessity of bringing to the political side of it the highest qualities of statesmanship which the world can provide. But to properly solve the problem we must adopt the methods which bring the full weight of both of these classes of men to bear upon it without unnecessary collisions during the first formulation period when they are properly concerned with two separate objectives.

No Ulterior Motive.

"Again, and also anticipating certain comment, let me say that while it is the fashion of these sensational days to attribute to any statement of irritating fact by a public man some malevolent purpose toward individuals, there is nothing of this in my mind.

"The committee from the governments which met at Geneva to agree upon naval disarmament was a mixed commission of statesmen and naval technicians, and in my judgment that was the reason for its failure. The method was adjusted to human reasons, but not to human nature. We should not look upon the failure at Geneva in 1927 as the failure of individuals but of the method under which they were asked to function. This may be said, however, that under the laws of human nature probably 90 per cent of Englishmen think the American delegation was responsible for the mistake, and 90 per cent of the Americans think that the British members of the commission were responsible for the mistake. The great overwhelming and sole satisfying fact about it is that the British and American people are a unit in agreeing that, whoever was responsible for it, a mistake was made.

Equality Is Upheld.

"And of what is this significant? It means that in the inarticulate consciences and hearts of the two great English-speaking peoples there is upheld, sacred and inviolate, the principles of the equality between them of naval strength.

"Their attitude upon this question—unmistakable—assumed as out of the realm of debate even by nationalistic demogagues of both countries—while decorated by reason, is based under the providence of God upon fundamental human instincts and a comingling of the blood.

"Under these circumstances, let us be hopeful for the cause of world peace and the progress of civilization, for in the joint hands of these same English-speaking people rests not only their secure guaranty, but as well the art of the covenant of human freedom."

Both Want Nations to Study Art of Maintaining Good Fellowship, British Leader Tells Town Council, in Relating Sunday's Talk.

Lossiemouth, Scotland, June 18 (A.P.).—Premier MacDonald, making his anxiously awaited speech with reference to his recent talk with Ambassador Dawes, tonight told the Lossiemouth town council at a dinner in his honor that the meeting had been inspired by the hope that they might be instrumental "in preparing a board around which other nations might ultimately sit in cooperative fellowship studying the arts and the ways of peace."

The prime minister told his hosts what took place at Logie House Sunday when he conferred with the newly arrived American Ambassador. His speech was as follows:

"Be the merits or demerits of government what they may, I can claim one which will not be disputed. We lost no time in gettting into harness. We, at any rate, take no easy complacent view of the needs of the nation. I have made it clea- both before and during the election that I put our relations with the United States in the forefront in national concern. As regards them, we have not let the grass grow under our feet.

Same General Views, He Says.

"Gen. Dawes, the new ambassador, has been good enough to take a long journey here to see me and have a talk with me about them. He saw some of the beauties of Morayshire. He heard some of its historical stories and I hope these were, in part at any rate, a recompense for his weariness of body.

"We found each other taking the same general views on world peace. The hands we clasped were not cold with official correctness, but warm with a friendship inspired by common enthusiasm for service in the cause of international good will and common sense.

"We did not meet to threaten other nations, to dominate other peoples, nor indeed did we meet to form alliances and pacts. We had no intention of presenting to other nations an accomplished fact they can take or leave. A more genial, humane and democratic spirit than that was in Logie House last Sunday afternoon.

"We met, inspired by the hope that we might be instrumental in preparing a board round which other nations might ultimately sit in cooperative fellowship, studying the arts and the ways of peace, gaining sense of security, not by arms, but by absence of arms.

None Barred, He Declares.

"Symbolizing the openness of our hearts and our purpose, the sunshine poured through the great windows of the room in which we sat. With it came the song of birds and the murmur of the morn, and I believe human eyes watched us as we sat talking and penning notes.

"As to the wide world purpose of what is known as the Anglo-American conversations, I hope that neither the large states nor the small ones will have any doubt that they are not exclusive—they are inclusive. The mighty republic across the Atlantic will enter into no European entanglements and alliances. But no one ought to suspect that it will decline to serve the common interests of peace and democracy.

"There are obstacles to be surmounted, differing interests to be reconciled, some historical inheritances to be soothed, rivalries, which are legitimate, to be confined to their proper channels, uch considerations, for instance, as hose mentioned by Mr. Churchill the other day to be studied and adjusted. That is the glorious task which the hapy conversations which the American Ambassador and I had together at Logie opened up, and I would pray the whole nation, irrespective of party, to share and help fully in our labors, to give us its confidence, and to enable us to carry the work to a successful conclusion."

French Cabinet Votes To Approve Young Plan

Paris, June 18 (A.P.).—The cabinet at a meeting today unanimously approved the Young reparations plan, evolved at the recent conference of experts here. It was decided to take steps for ratification in conjunction with other interested governments.

The government also outlined a declaration that will be made before the various commissions of the Chamber of Deputies regarding both debts and reparations as a preliminary to the debate on these two questions next Tuesday provoked by interpellation. Nearly the entire session of the cabinet today was devoted to this subject as Foreign Minister Briand's report on the meeting of the council of the League of Nations at Madrid also bore necessarily on preliminaries to an eventual conference on evacuation of the Rhineland.

Dawes Speech Is Seen Here As Revealing Hoover Views

(Associated Press.)

The speech of Ambassador Dawes before the pilgrims in London was interpreted in official circles last night as indicating President Hoover is determined the mistakes of the tripartite naval conference of 1927 shall not be repeated in future naval reduction negotiations.

President Hoover and Ambassador Dawes discussed the general trend which the latter would take in his speech in conferences before Mr. Dawes sailed. It was said in official circles that therefore the sentiments expressed by Mr. Dawes were those of the President.

To those who had expected something in the nature of a bombshell in the ambassador's speech, it was disappointing. High officials and diplomats, however, said they considered it unusually important, and the general reaction in Washington seemed to be satisfactory.

In referring to the taking of the naval question out of the hands of experts and placing it with "statesmen," Mr. Dawes expressed an idea different from those which have so far been put forward by American officials. The general interpretation last night was that the speech foreshadowed a continuation of consideration of the reduction question by the league preparatory commission, and not the setting up of any additional or new machinery.

At present this commission is confined to working out naval formulae by the experts of the interested powers on the basis of the suggestions put forward by American Ambassador Gibson during the commission's recent session. After these formulae have been completed, they will be submitted to the preparatory commission, and, with this done, a conference of "statesmen" to effect a compromise between the diversion of viewpoints would be in order. It was said on high authority last night that doubtless this was what Ambassador Dawes had in mind.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, presented a resolution in the Senate yesterday to authorize President Hoover to call a conference of the representatives of the nations of the world to consider reduction "of armaments on land, on sea and in the air."

There seemed to be some question in circles which are usually informed on such questions whether this would be a practical step at present. The consensus of opinion was that the best method of proceeding with disarmament discussions is with the machinery of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, which is now operating, and in which the United States has taken a full part.

CONGRESS TO START ITS VACATION TODAY

BIG TARIFF FIGHT IN FALL

Tired and irritable, members of Congress will make their getaway from Washington today for their summer recess. Under the terms of a concurrent resolution adopted by both bodies yesterday, the Senate will return August 19 and the House September 23.

Whether the rest they are about to take has been well earned is a question, of course, on which Republicans and Democrats would never agree, but that the rest will be needed must be conceded by all, for the members will come back to face one of the grandest tariff fights in history.

There are some observers, indeed, who confidently predict that this fight will prevent the enactment of any tariff legislation at the special session, and that the whole question of revision will have to go over to the regular session beginning in December.

Exodus Already Begun.

The exodus of House members had begun yesterday even before the recess resolution had been adopted, and so few were there remaining that at one time in the afternoon it was impossible to recruit a quorum.

Today the House leaders hope to put through their one remaining piece of unfinished legislation—the resolution postponing the date of payment of France's debt of $400,000,000 to this country for war supplies. The resolution, which postpones the date of payment from August 1 next to May 1, 1930, pending ratification of a funding agreement, was called up yesterday but was blocked by Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, and Representative Howard (Democrat), Nebraska.

At the end of the day, Majority Leader Tilson issued a statement in which he defended the tariff bill passed by the House, saying that, "on the whole," the rates prescribed therein were justified.

Big Clash Inevitable.

With House leaders taking this stand, a terrific clash over the bill next fall is inevitable. This was presaged Monday by the heavy support that Senator Borah mustered for his resolution to limit tariff revision to agriculture and related products.

The group of independent Republicans and Democrats that supported the Borah resolution and came within a single vote of putting it through is convinced that the summer recess will serve to convert many others to limited revision. When those who voted against Borah get back home and find out what the people are thinking and saying, this group contends, they will come back with a clearer definition of what limited revision means.

Thus far President Hoover has not elaborated on the suggestion he made in his message to the special session with regard to the tariff, and there are many members who are truly in the dark as to just where he stands. In his message he asked for tariff revision limited to schedules to help the farmers and those industries that had suffered depression and unemployment as a result of foreign competition. Critics of the House bill declare that, judging from its schedules, just about every industry has so suffered.

Hoover May Take Hand.

It is expected that, eventually, President Hoover will have to take a hand in the tariff fight, either directly or indirectly.

In his statement yesterday, Majority Leader Tilson declared that tariff protection, in order to justify itself, must be applied to all products of American labor which can be efficiently manufactured or produced in this country with reasonable economy.

"Agriculture products," he said, "are entitled to the same kind of protection given manufactured articles, but not a different kind. The industrial sections of the country have shown no disposition to deny equality of protection to agriculture, but I am sure they will resent any effort to make the tariff policy sectional.

"We hear considerable 'inspired' criticism of the rates in the House bill, but very few facts are submitted to support such criticism. There may be some few rates in the tariff bill which do not substantially reflect the differences in the cost of production here and abroad, but on the whole the rates are sustained by the facts."

Many amendments to the House tariff bill were introduced in the Senate yesterday, and Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, announced that he would offer a new export debenture plan as anamendment to the bill.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, introduced an amendment to levy a 5 per cent tax on all stock exchange transactions involving securities held less than 60 days. Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, offered an amendment to take away the right of domestic millers to import Canadian wheat free of duty, mill it in bond and export it as flour. Under this, a 42 cents a bushel duty would have to be paid on thousands of bushels of wheat brought into the United States annually.

There were other amendments to increase the House duties on hides, to place a duty on cigars and to transfer oil and gasoline to the free list.

In a tabulation made public yesterday, the Tariff Commission compared the average rate of protection, based on 1928 import values, granted by the existing law and the House measure, and showed that the sugar schedules are increased nearly 24.51 per cent and agricultural schedules, 11.29 per cent.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

HIRAM JOHNSON, whose single vote defeated the Borah resolution on Monday, and thus made it fairly certain that some time next fall Congress will lay a carefully log-rolled tariff bill on President Hoover's doorstep, is a perfect illustration of what happens to a Progressive when local interests in his State see a chance to push right up to the pie counter, shoulder to shoulder with the "Special Interests."

Lobbyists for sugar, cement, shoes, shingles, chemicals and what not went around yesterday with broad smiles on their faces. All had agreed that Borah's proposal had a good chance to pass, and further, that if it did pass there would be no tariff bill from this session of Congress.

Further—and most of the lobbyists are pretty well informed (why wouldn't they be)—most of them seemed to know that such an outcome would bring very little distress to the White House.

* * * *

WHAT has happened to Hiram Johnson is precisely what happened to that stalwart Democratic Progressive, Senator John B. Kendrick, of Wyoming. Enmeshed in the logrolling jam by the beet sugar and wool interests of his State, Mr. Kendrick voted on every schedule during the consideration of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, which now adorns the statute books, just as his Republican neighbor Smoot did, and just as Sereno Payne would have done had he been alive and voting.

It is exactly what happened to that charming daughter of William Jennings Bryan, who was nominated for Congress after a series of redhot protection speeches. Asked by a friend if her father would not turn over in his grave if he could hear what she was saying, she retorted that conditions had changed.

Little things like development of early vegetables, which come in competition with Cuba, not to mention the big sugar development right in Mrs. Owen's district, sure to change things.

It is this sort of thing which at one and the same time makes it harder to tell a Republican from a Democrat by his votes on Capitol Hill, and yet proves a stumbling block in the path of the proposed third party. We have been hearing a lot about this proposed third party in the last few weeks around Washington.

It comes chiefly from the anti-Raskob, anti-Smith, bone-dry Democrats. They are eager to merge the old Solid South Democracy with the Progressives of the Northwest. They want to combine with Norris, La Follette and Frazier, and smite the wicked Raskobs, the Tammany Tiger, and the haughty Republican tariff barons.

THE so-called Progressives are all for that sort of thing. They might even consent to the third party idea if they could attain anything approaching the degree of solidarity with which they united on the elder La Follette for President in 1924.

One might have thought the idea was given a fair chance by the Borah resolution. But what happened? Remember that sugar, wool and early vegetables are all farm products. The wording of the Borah resolution would not have hurt them. Yet Kendrick, of Wyoming, was paired against the resolution. Trammell, of Florida; Broussard and Ransdell, of Louisiana, and even Heflin, of Alabama, voted against it.

In figuring out their motives, consider a scene at the Senate finance committee. Senator King, of Utah, progressive Democrat, but representing a big wool and sugar State, moved to confine the hearings to the agricultural list. Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, a big manufacturing State, moved at once to amend this by dropping the proposed increase in the sugar duty overboard.

* * * *

MR. REED merely applied a neat reverse English on the old logrolling, "you tickle me, I'll tickle you" legislative game. It was he warning served by that motion in committee which doomed the Borah resolution.

The only way for a senator to be sure of getting ample duties for the products of his State, especially if there happen to be very few States wanting those particular duties, is to vote to protect a great many products of other States. Hiram Johnson learned that back in the Fordney-McCumber days. The highly intelligent chambers of commerce of his State pointed the way, and there was no insurgent movement against him in California because he voted to protect a few Pennsylvania and New England industries in exchange.

But the little Northwestern group of Progressives still regard him as a traitor. He sold his birthright, they harged, for a mess of citrus fruits, nuts and whatever that California wanted protected.

* * * *

HIRAM was not always so practical. Twice at Chicago, in 1920, he declined a vice presidential nomination that hindsight now shows was a perfectly good ticket to the White House. Having been a running mate with Theodore Roosevelt, in 1912, he could not bring himself to run with such reactionaries as Philander C. Knox, or Warren Harding.

But if any one thinks California products are not well protected now—let them look at the schedules.

HOOVER EXPRESSES REGRET AT KILLINGS

There Will Be No Respite in Dry Warfare on Border, He Makes Known.

moral support of the Presbyterian Church. In Denver, the annual Baptist convention adopted a resolution commending President Hoover's efforts toward law enforcement.

Following is the official text of the President's statement, which was in response to an inquiry from newspaper men.

"I have some questions as to the incidents on the border. I deeply deplore the killing of any person. The Treasury Department is making every effort to prevent the misuse of arms. Any case of misuse will be determined by the orderly proceedings of the Department and the courts. I hope that the communities along the border will do their best to help the Treasury in the systematic war that is being carried on by international criminals against the laws of the United States. It is these activities that are at the root of all of our difficulties."

The White House made known the fact that President Hoover expects to reply to protests from International Falls, Minn., against the shooting by a customs officer of Henry Virukkula, a confectioner, who was not found to have had liquor in his car. The Minnesota delegation in Congress held a conference yesterday on the case, but after thorough discussion decided to make no formal protest. The delegation, however, agreed to support a bill by Representative Goodwin (Republican), Minnesota, which would prohibit the use of sawed-off shotguns or other weapons shooting scatter slugs. Representative Pittinger (Republican), from the International Falls district, offered a resolution to pay the widow and two children of Virukkula $10,000 each.

That the enforcement branch is not relenting under fire was plainly indicated by Secretary Lowman. He said that an unprecedentd mobilization of bootleggers has appeared on the Canadian border from Vancouver to the Atlantic seaboard. As soon as sufficient progress has been made in the Detroit sector to permit the withdrawal of special agents now concentrated in that territory, defenses will be strengthened at other border points.

Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Otedal in Los Angeles said it is not permissible to shoot at a liquor violator who is attempting to escape. Prohibition Commissioner Doran's orders are to shoot only in self-defense or to prevent the taking of a life.

Customs agents, however, have more leeway—they may shoot not only in self-defense, but to prevent the commission of a felony, which, under the Jones law, includes what formerly were minor infractions of the prohibition laws. Lowman, however, has urger caution and deliberation in the use of firearms upon all customs agents and has ordered them not to use shotguns and rifles, but only service pistols.

A new angle to the prohibition problem was suggested by the situation in Wisconsin, where a constitutional amendment has been proposed in the legislature which would authorize the State to engage in the liquor business. The author of the measure, State Senator Gettleman, believes the States are exempt from the prohibition amendment and is seeking to submit the issue to the voters of Wisconsin through a referendum.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran said the Wisconsin proposal was an idle gesture declaring that the Supreme Court decided in the Rhode Island case that the eighteenth amendment is binding on all legislatures, courts and citizens. This decision has been construed as preventing any State from setting aside the eighteenth amendment. This view also was held at the Department of Justice.

A new prohibition incident, with international aspects, developed when the chief of police of Sandwich, Ontario, reported to the Ottawa government that an American Coast Guard boat had fired on a speed boat in Canadian waters which contained a woman passenger. One report was that the boat was chased a mile and a half later refusing to halt at command.

At LaSalle, Ontario, the constable announced he would arrest American dry agents if property owners charge them with trespassing although he would not interfere if agents carried on their investigations properly and unarmed.

Local officials investigating the killing of Arthur Gordon near Mooers, N. Y., a few days ago complained to Lowman that Federal customs officers would not cooperate. Lowman replied suggesting the Federal officers be subpenaed.

SLAYING DRY AGENT TO GET STATE TRIAL

Officer, Who Killed Autoist, May Not Face Court Until October.

PROTESTS STILL POUR IN

International Falls, Minn., June 18 (U.P.).—Virtually assured the State will have charge of the case, County Attorney David Hurlburt today began preparations of plans to prosecute Emmett J. White, border dry officer, charged with second degree murder in the slaying of Henry Virkkula.

Hurlburt, who went to St. Paul yesterday to confer with the attorney general's office in making a "State case," said today that although it may be taken to the Federal court, the prosecution would rest with the State of Minnesota. He further was assured by the opinion of James E. Markham, Deputy Attorney General at Washington, in a letter to Gov. Theodore Christianson.

The county attorney anticipates that White will waive preliminary examination when arraigned July 2 and will be bound over to the October term of county district court. Hurlburt also expects that the patrolman may ask that his trial be transferred to Federal court at Duluth.

The ruling of the Treasury Department limiting use of firearms by border customs agents to revolvers was praised by the county attorney.

Virkkula, Big Falls confectioner, was fatally wounded by a shotgun charge fired by White. The officer claimed that Virkkula, who was riding on the International highways with his wife and two children, failed to heed a command to halt.

The shooting caused leading business and professional men of International Falls to send telegraphic protests to President Hoover.

"The great bulk of letters received daily at my office," County Attorney Hurlburt said, "gives evidence that the recent prohibition shootings here and elsewhere have aroused one of the greatest controversies in the history of dry law enforcement.

"Almost without exception the letters condemn the system under which such shootings could take place."

Customs border agents here have practically abandoned their weapons in the past week, Hurlburt said, adding that the feeling among the citizens since the Virkkula shooting may have been responsible.

Emerson Defends Act in Debarment

Capital Attorney Denies He Told Witness to Withhold Reply.

Bertrand Emerson, jr., well-known Washington attorney, yesterday defended his position Monday in Baltimore before United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee.

The action of Supplee debarring Emerson came after Aaron Trachtenberg, of Tenth street and Rhode Island avenue, of Washington, as a witness in the case of Edward Martin, colored, charged with resisting arrest, using an automobile as a deadly weapon and causing the death of Dano M. Jackley, prohibition agent, on June 14, near Berwyn, Md., had told the court Emerson instructed him "to keep his mouth shut."

Emerson denied yesterday that he had given any such advice, but said he had merely instructed Trachtenberg, if asked by the commissioner whether or not he was owner of the automobile, regarding his constitutional rights in testifying. The commissioner declined to proceed with the case because of Emerson's "conflicting interest" in the case.

"Duddington Pasture" Suggested for Airport

In calling this property to the commission's attention its sponsors pointed out that it is centrally located, accessible to the Union Station and all sections of Washington and can accommodate sea planes as well as land planes.

RAIL WORKERS GIVEN RAISES BY SOUTHERN

5 AND 6 CENT INCREASES

Shopcraft employes of the Southern Railway, who voted to strike last March when the carrier did not raise their wages as requested, will not strike. This was determined yesterday when a board of arbitration awarded wage increases to the men.

Under the award 4,600 men will receive an increase of 6 cents an hour and 4,400 men will receive an increase of 5 cents an hour. The new scale is effective as of March 1, last. This means that the workers will receive approximately three and one-half months back pay based on this scale.

The award was made by a board of arbitration composed of six men, two representing the railroad, two, the employes, and two being neutral. Members of the board were: Homer B. Dibell and Victor S. Clarke, neutral arbiters; R. B. Pegram and L. S. DeRamus, representing the railroad, and H. J. Carr and F. H. Snipes, representing the shopcrafts.

Those affected by the increases are machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, electrical workers, carmen, apprentices and helpers. Transportation men, such as engineers conductors, brakemen, telegraphers, flagmen and dispatches, are not affected.

The award brings to an end a controversy over wage increases that has been waged since May 10, 1928. On August 16, 1928, the shopcraft employes appealed to the Federal Board of Mediation for an increase and when no action was forthcoming the appeal was withdrawn on January 25, last. The shopmen held conferences March 6, 9 and 14 last, and decided to take a vote on strike-sentiment. This vote, which was concluded March 31, was predominantly in favor of a strike and the dispute then was referred to the board of arbitration.

Fate of Japanese In Eruption Veiled

Large Numbers Are Missing as Population Flees Active Volcano.

Tokyo, Japan, June 18 (A.P.).—Large numbers of persons were reported missing tonight in the vicinity of Komagatake Volcano, which has been in violent erup on, but it still was impossible to obtain any official estimate of the number of the dead and injured.

The Governor of Hokkaido today reported that the eruption was now subsiding. During its violent phase villages were covered a foot thick by hot ashes and stones and shaken as though by an earthquake. Some of the ashes fell as far away as Hakodate.

The whole population of the affected districts fled in terror, and this exodus threw a heavy burden on the authorities. They are attempting to provide food and necessities and to direct the fleeing people to refuge. They were being accommodated temporarily in temples and police stations. There were 1,300 of the refugees at Mori.

The minister of war has ordered the Seventh division of the army to place its surplus provisions, blankets and medicines at the disposal of the refugees. This eruption was the first in ten years. The last serious eruption was in 1856.

Plane Pilot Is Charged With Drunken Flying

Wilmington, Del., June 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—After arresting David McDonald Wallace on the charge of driving an airplane while drunk, the State highway department found out that there was no law to cover the offense. Federal officers were consulted and Wallace was turned over to them for a hearing.

Wallace, who denies the charge, was piloting a plane carrying two passengers from Baltimore this afternoon. He landed in a wheat field on the Cavanaugh farm at Summit Bridge. Two highway policemen took charge of Wallace and brought him before Dr. J. H. Niles, of Townsend, for examination. The doctor said Wallace was intoxicated. The passengers were not detained and refused to give their names

The yacht was said to have carried 31 passengers, each of whom paid $400 to be landed secretly in the United States. Miguel Sastre, alleged ring leader, was arrested.

All-Night Parking Target of Citizens

Columbia Heights Forum Is Occupied With Debate on "Storage."

Traffic conditions on Fourteenth street, between Harvard street and Monroe street northwest, were discussed but no action was taken at a meeting of the Columbia Heights Forum last night in the Wilson Normal School. Suggestions were made that traffic lights be changed to speed up traffic; that left turns be no longer permitted on green lights from Park road into Fourteenth street; and that a special yellow light be placed in operation to protect pedestrians there.

The forum also held a lengthy discussion of a proposal to have District officials enforce a law of 1898, prohibiting the use of public streets and alleys for the storage of personal property—including automobiles. The matter was referred to the committee on public safety.

Two additional members were named on legislation and the committee was ordered to report a suitable bill at the next meeting to present to Congress in connection with the prevention of occupancy of areas occupied by one race by another race.

BRAKEMAN IN POISON CASE NOT TO RETURN

NO CHARGE AGAINST HIM

Belair, Md., June 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—James E. Aberts, the 29-year-old railroad brakeman, who is wanted because of his association with Mrs. Hattie Stone, accused of the murder of her 15-year-old son, George, was found today in the train dispatcher's office in Philadelphia.

It was expected that Aberts would willingly return to Maryland for questioning, but he refused to come with the officers. Aberts is an "extra" and the dispatcher said he would be given a run if occasion required, but he would not be sent into Maryland. So far there is no charge against Aberts.

Aberts had left his own wife and children to board with Mrs. Stone. Arrested on a charge of nonsupport, he was ordered to leave Havre de Grace, but soon returned. When found later by detectives in connection with the Stone death he had his grip packed.

Telling Truth, Says Mrs. Stone.

It is because of the testimony of Mrs. May Baker that Mrs. Stone had confessed to her having poisoned her son George to get his insurance money so that she could leave the State with Aberts that the latter is so eagerly wanted in Belair.

In her cell today Mrs. Stone, who was yesterday committed, accused of murder, after her habeas corpus petition was denied, declared with vehemence, "I wish I could get my hands on that sister-in-law of mine. I would do more than pull her hair."

When told of this remark, Mrs. Baker said, "I told nothing but the truth."

"I can not understand why she should have lied about me when I have been so kind to her. I shielded her for a long time.

"The very night she said I made the confession to her she and I made a trip to the grave of my dear son George. Does any one believe she would have gone with me to pray beside George's grave if I had told her I had poisoned the boy?

Sees Help in Story.

"I felt terribly bitter toward her when she said those lying words—but since I have been back here in my cell I have come to the conclusion her story may help me in the end. I don't believe any one thought she was telling the truth."

It was learned today that when Mrs. Aberts obtained a warrant charging her husband with desertion and nonsupport the report was taken to Mrs. Stone that the bail in the case would be fixed at $1,000. According to authorities in Havre de Grace, she made several efforts to raise the money, and failing to do so, paid a midnight visit to Oxford, Pa., where Aberts was at the time and warned him to come to Havre de Grace immediately or he would be arrested.

The exhumation of the bodies of at least three other members of the Stone family, who died suddenly, is reported to have been decided upon by the authorities, although this move will not be made at this time.

Brown Completes Postal Service Staff

Former City Postmasters Are Named Assistants in Department.

(Associated Press.)

Reorganization of the executive staff of the Postoffice Department was completed yesterday by appointment of Arch Coleman, of Minneapolis, and John W. Philip, of Dallas, as First and Fourth Assistant Postmasters General, respectively.

Both are former city postmasters. Postmaster General Brown declared he intended to fill all department positions concerned chiefly with postal administration with postmasters who have "distinguished themselves by their industry, grasp of postal affairs and executive ability."

Mr. Brown hopes to have Congress abolish the numerical designation for assistant postmasters general.

"Their duties and responsibilities are substantially equal," he said.

Of the other two assistants, W. Irving Glover has been retained from the previous administration. He has charge of railway and air mail and international postal service. The Third Assistant, Frederic A. Tilton, was recently appointed from outside the Government service.

Key Made From Pocket Comb Used to Flee Jail

Modesto, Calif., June 18 (U.P.).—That "stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage" is nothing less than the truth, if you only possess a pocket comb.

That was proven here by Jack Burnett, 22, wanted on nine counts of larceny and burglary.

Burnett opened his jail door with a key fashioned out of a comb. His absence was discovered within half an hour and his description broadcast. A few minutes later he was reported entering a residence by a rear door. Police Capt. Arington answered the call. Arington and Burnett discovered each other simultaneously. The youthful bandit proved clever not only with a comb, but also with his feet. He outdistanced the law officer and was still at liberty at the last report.

Stock Trading Tax Is Asked in Senate

Glass and Brookhart Request 5 Per Cent Assessment on Transactions.

(Associated Press.)

Proposals for a 5 per cent tax on certain stock market transactions were advanced yesterday in the Senate as amendments to the tariff bill by Senators Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, both members of the banking committee.

The amendments were referred to the finance committee, which is now studying the House measure, and will be considered after the the bill comes up for revision in the committee next month. The banking committee previously had decided to defer until the fall consideration of the resolution of Senator King (Democrat), Utah, proposing an investigation of the credit situation and stock market conditions.

Senator Glass, a former Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, informed the Senate yesterday he hoped his amendment would serve as an abating influence to the "increasing volume of gambling which constitutes a menace to legitimate business."

The 5 per cent tax would be applied under the Glass amendment to all transactions in which the securities are held for less than 60 days. By that limitation, Glass said he hoped to draw a distinction between what is carried by some people as legitimate investments and what others regard as "pure gambling in stocks."

Hoover Oil Policy Satisfies Wilbur

Interior Department Not to Recommend Change in Order, He Says.

Palo Alto, Calif., June 18 (A.P.).—Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur today said that after a careful study of all factors involved in the handling of the public domain in relation to conservation of oil the Interior Department does not contemplate recommending a change of President Hoover's order withdrawing public lands from oil prospecting.

The Interior Department head said he had given careful attention to reports of attacks on the order, which reached their climax in the recent governors' conference on oil conservation at Colorado Springs, but could find nothing which would justify any other policy in dealing with the public domain.

"Through affidavits of expenditures on permits and applications for permits," the Secretary said, "the department has been able to decide upon equities of those who have spent money in oil development and those qualities have been and will continue to be recognized."

Since its issuance March 12 the Interior Department has modified the order to allow the granting of permits to applicants who have spent money geologizing public lands and also has allowed for the extension of permits already granted where money has been spent to develop the land, either through surveys or in the building of roads and installation of equipment. Secretary Wilbur has been here in his capacity as president of Stanford University, where he made the commencement address.

POISON KILLS GIRL, BOY; PARENTS HELD

TWO OTHERS NEAR DEATH

Chicago, June 18 (A.P.).—An 8-year-old girl joined her 9-year-old brother in death today, while two younger sisters and a brother made what seemed to be a losing fight against a slow-acting poison.

Agnes Kwaitkowski died at the county hospital as her mother and stepmother hysterically disclaimed responsibility for her death and that of her brother, Chester.

"I didn't do it," Edwin Markowski, a painter, repeatedly told the police. "She did it herself—my wife did it."

Mrs. Verna Markowski, informed of the accusations of her second mate, turned on him.

"He did it," was her reply.

Further questioning of the husband revealed that he brought home a can of poisonous solution last week. He explained he was a painter and used the solution to remove the paint from his hands.

Dr. F. J. Hoffman, after examining the contents of the stomach of the boy, who died last night, said he believed that was the poison which caused death. Chester died in convulsions after being taken to the hospital.

Markowski is father of the two younger children, Loraine, 3 years old, and Doris, 17 months. Only one stepchild remains alive, Richard, 6 years old.

Watchman Shoots Boy Who Disobeyed Order

Chicago, June 18 (A.P.).—An 11-year-old-boy, playing with a group of children about a school building under construction, was shot and seriously wounded late yesterday when the children refused to obey a watchman's commands to leave the building. The watchman, George Meservey, was arrested and charged with the shooting. Police were told he had fired one shot into the group.

MAN SLAYS FRIEND, THEN HIS OWN WIFE

HUSBAND IS TAKEN LATER

Atlanta, Ga., June 18 (A.P.).—Sam F. Aiken shot and killed his wife and a neighbor, Boyce Hunter, in the kitchen of his home here today and surrendered to a posse of policemen an hour later in a clump of woods 4 miles away. He claimed a "wrecked home" was responsible for his act.

Aiken used a double-barreled shotgun which he had borrowed yesterday from his wife's brother, Jesse Cates, to go hunting. He shot Mrs. Aiken twice through the head. A single charge took effect in Hunter's heart. Neighbors told the police that Aiken spent last evening with Hunter in the latter's home, just across the street from the Aiken home. They listened to the radio and appeared to be on good terms.

Shortly after breakfast this morning Aiken walked across the street and invited Hunter to "come over to my house a while." A few minutes later neighbors heard two shots and after a brief interval another shot.

Aiken then ran into the home of his brother-in-law, Jesse Cates, and thrust three notes into Mrs. Cates' hand, saying, "I have killed my wife and Hunter." Mrs. Cates said the shotgun was in his hand. Aiken ran through the Cates home and disappeared down a back alley.

Residents found Hunter dead in the kitchen, of the Aiken home, sprawled upon the floor. Mrs. Aiken's body was on the ground in the back yard, her head almost blown away by the two charges.

Aiken has two sons, Buster, 20, and Fritz, 17. Hunter was unmarried. Mrs. Aiken was 37 years old.

HONEYMOON VOYAGE ENDED BY LINDBERGH

TO WATCH TESTS TODAY

New York, June 18 (A.P.).—The honeymoon voyage of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh ended today when their cruiser, the Mouette, dropped anchor in the cove of Sands Point, N. Y.

The famous flyer-yachtsman and his bride, who for three weeks had sailed the waters along the New England coast, were guests on the estate of Daniel Guggenheim in the forenoon, and after luncheon they left there in a closed automobile headed for New York City.

It is expected that Col. Lindbergh will make a three-week tour of the Transcontinental Air Transport Line, which will take him as far west as the Pacific Coast.

Col. Lindbergh tomorrow will attend the first flight tests at Mitchel Field for the $150,000 prizes for safe aircraft, offered by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Harry Guggenheim, president of the fund, announced today. He said the colonel would be present as a trustee and adviser of the fund, but not as a judge.

The first of the ships entered by twelve American and foreign designers to be tested will be the Brunner-Winkle bird biplane in which Elinor Smith made her early endurance flights.

A capital prize of $100,000 will be given the winner and other awards will be presented to runners-up in the competition. Entries will be received until October 1, when the tests end.

A foolproof plane is to be sought through the tests. Requirements of the competition include level flight at a speed not greater than 35 miles an hour, ability to glide three minutes with engine shut off at 38 miles an hour, a landing within a 100-foot space; a 300-foot take-off; a variable speed in normal flight of 45 to 100 miles an hour; ability of the plane to fly "hands off," and ability to gain an altitude of 25 feet within 500 feet of point of starting the take-off.

PEN WHICH SIGNED CITY CENTER BILL

Dougherty Given Pen Used In Signing City Center Bill

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, president of the board of District Commissioners, yesterday received from President Hoover the pen with which the Chief Executive last Saturday signed the bill providing $3,000,000 for the immediate beginning of the municipal center.

The pen was sent the Commissioners through Lawrence Richey, secretary of the President. The pen is an ordinary one, of red wood, with a hard rubber finger grip and ordinary point such as are used by school children.

Commissioner Dougherty regards the launching of the municipal center for the District as the beginning of a new epoch in the history of the city and as the outstanding achievement of himself and his colleagues on the present board of Commissioners. He plans to have a special case made for the pen, with a glass top and an explanatory inscription. For the present it will be placed on the wall of his office, and eventually it will probably find a fitting place in the principal building of the proposed new municipal center.

MRS. HOOVER REBUKE PASSES TEXAS HOUSE

Moody Will Sign Protest to Entertaining of Mrs. De Priest.

BARS ANTI-SMITH CHIDE

Austin, Tex., June 18 (A.P.).—Only Gov. Dan Moody's signature was required tonight to complete the Texas Legislature's rebuke to Mrs. Herbert Hoover for entertaining a negro representative's wife at a White House tea. The governor said he would sign the resolution, but indicated he would do so with some reluctance.

The House of Representatives today concurred in the Senate resolution proposing that "we bow our heads in shame and regret and express in the strongest and most emphatic terms at our command our condemnation and humiliation at said conduct, if true, on the part of the mistress of the White House and her associates."

The vote was 99 to 10. The Senate passed the resolution last Friday.

An effort by Representatives George Purl, of Dallas; B. J. Forbes, of Weatherford, and others to divide the resolution and vote on inclusion of a reference that chided Southern Democrats, who left the party last November to vote for Hoover, was voted down. In the election Texas was in the Republican column for the first time since reconstruction days.

Mrs. Helen Moore, of Texas City, expressed sympathy for Mrs. Hoover.

"She is merely the agency for a great political scheme," she said. "It is a part of the most unscrupulous political move on the part of Republican leaders since reconstruction days."

SHOUSE SEES NOLAN WIN AS G. O. P. RIFT

INROADS ARE POINTED OUT

In a statement issued yesterday, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, declared that the recent congressional election in the Fifth District of Minnesota was "a moral victory for the Democrats, and exemplifies the depth of the rift in the G. O. P. consequent on the farm relief struggle, and the resentment roused by the proposed tariff bill.

"The latest figures show that Lieut. Gov. W. I. Nolan received 23,336 votes; Einar Hoidale, the Democrat, 19,755, and Ernest Lundeen, who ran on the Farmer-Labor ticket, 6,533, which means that Nolan is a minority victor due to the third candidate, who was kept in the field merely to divide the Progressive vote," the statement said.

Chairman Shouse pointed out that the district is "generally estimated as safely Republican by 25,000, and that the inroads made in this majority in the recent election indicates how the Republican party is suffering in the Northwest.

"Obviously, it forecasts Democratic gains in both houses in next year's election, for not all the Northwest districts are normally 25,000 Republican, nor can the three-way expedient be worked to our disadvantage everywhere," the statement concluded.

STOWAWAY BARRED BY FRENCH AVIATORS

SCHREIBER FEELS REGRET

Paris, June 28 (A.P.).—The round of official receptions that occupied the three-man crew of the Yellow Bird all today will continue tomorrow. They are to be received by Premier Poincare and then by President Doumergue. It was understood tonight that the Legion of Honor was to be bestowed on each of them.

The original announcement today was that only Pilot Jean Assolant and Navigator Rene Le Fevre would receive the decoration, but Minister of Aviation Laurent-Eynack declared, "It was an error to omit the name of Armeno-Lotti, jr. (radio man and backer) from yesterday's communique. All three shared the danger and should share the honors."

Stowaway Not to Attend.

The air minister said further, "I consider the Yellow Bird's trip as a great performance, but I can not help insisting, as Col. Lindbergh wrote in an article, that I believe exploits of this sort should be attempted only with multimotored seaplanes in order to insure all possible security. However, the French heroes deserve all our admiration."

Officialdom was puzzled as to whether Arthur Schreiber, of Portland, Me., the stowaway, should be invited to attend the visits of state tomorrow. Decision was left with the three aviators, and it was negative.

It was evident from the behavior of the youth that some one had spoken plainly with him today. He was greatly subdued and spoke in a depressed tone instead of his exhuberant shouting of the last few days.

At last contrite he said tonight, "I know I did wrong. I ought not to have risked the lives of the French aviators. I recognized they have been very generous to me and asked nothing better than that they reap the whole benefit of their adventure. I got into the plane of my own volition without knowledge of any member of the crew. I did it without realizing the danger that resulted from the additional weight. I am sorry."

Lotti interrupted the stowaway and declared that Schreiber goes back to the United States on Thursday "with all our sympathy."

Schreiber Becoming Worried.

"I can not deny the conditions which resulted from his presence aboard the Yellow Bird," he said, "but he was an American, and that meant a lot to us. We took off to a height of from 12 to 20 feet and remained at that height until Schreiber came out of his hiding place. But when we landed after all the hardships endured together we considered the stowaway as a member of the crew."

Schreiber, as the times comes to take a steamer home, has begun to worry about what people at home think of his act. He is particularly anxious that all Americans be informed before he lands of the good treatment he received from the Yellow Bird crew and the French in general.

Rotary Club Holds Good Roads Dinner

Plans Are Discussed to Do Away With B. & O. Grade Crossing.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 18.—The giving of further impetus to the good roads movement was the object of the dinner last night given by the Cumberland Rotary Club at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Members of the State roads commission, G. Clinton Uhl, chairman, Howard Bruce and John K Shaw, Harry A. Williams, jr., chief engineer of the State roads commission, the road directors of Allegany County, various county officials and Cumberland city officials were special guests. Prominent business and professional people were included in the guest list of 50.

Fulcher P. Smith, president of the Rotary Club, was toastmaster and the principle address was delivered by Howard Bruce.

This afternoon the State roads commission met with the mayor and city council and a committee of the chamber of commerce in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to discuss plans for the elimination of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad grade crossing at Baltimore street, over which the national highway passes into Cumberland. This project has involved much engineering difficulty. It will be very expensive, with the burden of the cost to be borne by the railroad company and the State roads commission. The city of Cumberland has set aside more than $50,000 toward the project.

MRS. SNOOK GRILLED IN MURDER OF COED

NARCOTIC INQUIRY STARTS

Columbus, Ohio, June 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen M. Snook, wife of the deposed Ohio State University professor, Dr. James H. Snook, who is held for investigation in the hammer murder of Theora Hix, 24, coed, became the dominant figure in the inquiry today when she was submitted to a four-and-one-half-hour quizzing by County Prosecutor John J. Chester, jr.

The murder investigation passed its fourth day with Federal authorities taking a hand to determine if narcotics had any part in the murder, the announcement of the discovery of a kitchen knife near the place where the body was found, and the continued detaining of Dr. Snook and Marion T. Meyers, graduate student at the university, who have been in jail since last Saturday.

Mrs. Snook was reported on the verge of collapse near the end of her questioning. Two policewomen rushed to the room where the quizzing was in progress with a glass of water. One of the policewomen remained. The other returned, saying that Mrs. Snook was "overcome and in a bad way."

Details Are Gone Over.

The prosecutor revealed that he went over all details of the crime with Mrs. Snook and said that she was unable to provide any new information. She said that she did not know that her husband and Miss Hix had shared a Northside apartment until she read about it in the papers. Dr. Snook has admitted that he and Miss Hix shared the room, posing as man and wife.

Chester said that Mrs. Snook detailed her actions last Thursday night, when Miss Hix was murdered, stating that she had been at the home of a neighbor until 8:30 p. m. and that she went to bed at 9:30. She said that about that time she heard a downstairs door slam and concluded that her husband had come home. She said she did not see him until 11 p. m., when she arose to put down windows when a storm broke.

A short time later Mrs. Snook was permitted to go home.

Narcotic Supplies Checked.

William J. Ford, Federal narcotic agent, started a check on Dr. Snook's narcotic withdrawals to determine what disposition had been made of the drugs. His entrance into the investigation came simultaneously with an announcement from John F. Seidel, one of Snook's attorneys, who said he believed Miss Hix had been killed by an addict who was seeking drugs.

Mrs. Snook occupied the attention of Prosecutor Chester most of the day. Neither Dr. Snook nor Meyers were taken from their cells.

The knife found at the murder scene was turned over to Police Prosecutor Hensel, who said he would have stains on it analyzed to see if they were caused by blood.

Trenton, N. J., June 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Henry Colin Campbell, 61-year-old writer, engineer and sales promoter, will not be executed July 15.

A writ of error filed here today, almost simultaneously with Campbell's secret arrival at the State Prison death house under heavy guard, will act as a stay of the sentence imposed upon the slayer of Mrs. Mildred Mowry, whose burned body was found at Cranford, N. J., February 23.

Campbell will remain in the death house here until the court of errors and appeals passes upon the validity of his conviction. The court will not sit again until October, so that Campbell will probably occupy his cell near the electric chair until early next year.

Prison attaches said the enfeebled condition of Campbell's health makes it problematical whether or not he will live to be executed. They said, however, that his physical condition seemed to be improved since he resigned himself to his fate.

Campbell's sole companion in the death house is Peter Kudzinowski, the Scranton, Pa., railroad laborer, who kidnaped and killed Joseph Storelli, 7, from the street near his home in New York last November.

The transfer of Campbell by automobile from Elizabeth to Trenton was kept secret until after his arrival to avoid curious crowds, according to Sheriff Samuel H. Todd.

3 WOMEN AMONG 14 HELD IN MILL DEATH

Strikers' Plea for Habeas Corpus Denied; Eight Are Accused of Assault.

GRAND JURY GETS CASES

Charlotte, N. C., June 18 (A.P.).—Fourteen strikers, strike sympathizers and union leaders charged with murder were denied writs of habeas corpus in Mecklenburg Superior Court today by Judge W. F. Harding and ordered held without bail for the grand jury. The charges grew from the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police, in a clash with strikers at Gastonia headquarters of the National Textile Workers Union on June 7. Bail for eight other prisoners charged with assault with intent to kill was fixed at $750 each. None had made bail late today.

The action followed a day of hearings in which both sides presented versions of the incidents of the night Aderholt was fatally wounded when he, with three patrolmen, who also received wounds, went to the strike headquarters.

The State presented evidence that none of the officers had fired a shot and that they had been suddenly fired upon without warning.

Charge Officers Staggered.

From witnesses for the petitioners came evidence that the first shot was fired by an unnamed officer and that two of the officers "staggered and smelled of whisky" when they came to the union headquarters.

One of the armed guards at the headquarters building, W. M. McGinnis, was pointed out by Otto Mason, a State witness, as the man who fired the first shot. Mason said he lived next door to the Union building and saw the shooting from his porch. No witness gave testimony as to the man who shot Aderholt.

Of the fourteen charged with murder, seven are officials of the union or outsiders who came to Gastonia to aid in the strike. Three are women. They are Fred Erwin Beal, Southern organizer for the National Textile Workers Union, and K. O. Byers, his aid; George Carter, of Mispah, N. J.; Vera Bush, of New York, union leader; Joseph Harrison, of Passaic, N. J., union organizer; Amy Schechter, of New York, agent of the Workers International Relief, and Sophie Melvin, of New York, representative of the Communist Youth League.

The seven Gastonia men, strikers from the Loray mill, charged with murder, are W. M. McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin, J. C. Heafner, Robert Allen, Russell Knight, N. F. Gibson and K. Y. Hendricks.

Charged With Assault.

Those charged with assault and allowed bail were Ernest Martin, Walter Lloyd, Clarence Townsend, D. E. McDonald, Robert Litoff, C. M. Lell, J. R. Pittman and Clarence Miller. All save Miller are strikers from the Loray Mills. Miller, from New York, is a representative of the Communist Youth League.

Half a dozen witnesses for the prisoners testified Beal, Miss Schechter, Miss Bush and the other union leaders were inside the inner office of the Union Building at the time of the shooting. Estimates of the number of shots fired varied from half a dozen to 80. Z. B. Brooks, resident of the Loray mill section, testified he heard "75 or 80" shots fired.

Testimony that Officers Gilbert and Roach seemed intoxicated when they came to the headquarters was given by Mrs. Gladys Wallace, a striker. She said she smelled whisky on them and that they staggered when they alighted from the police car.

A. B. Hord, Gastonia detective, and now acting chief of police, took the stand after Mrs. Wallace and denied the men were intoxicated. He said they gave no evidence they had been drinking. Both patrolmen were wounded in the clash with strikers and now are in hospitals.

Virginia Officials Take Part in Celebration at New $500,000 Plant.

Orange, Va., June 18.—Approximately 1,000 people attended the official opening here today of the $500,000 plant of the American Silk Mills, Inc., under auspices of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce. Prominent among those attending were John R. Saunders, attorney general; E. R. Coombs, State comptroller; John Hopkins Hall, State commissioner of labor; H. W. Furlow, assistant commissioner of labor; James M. Hayes, motor vehicle commissioner; Milton H. Rubin and John R. Rubin, of New York City, vice president and general manager of the silk mills; A. W. Higgins, general manager of the Virginia Public Service Co.; Senator Floyd King, chief counsel; Howard D. Porter, of the public relations department, and John R. Woods, chief engineer.

Inducements for the new plant, a subsidiary of the American Silk Mills, Inc., of Paterson, N. J., is the major achievement during the past twelve months of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce.

Maryland Woman Badly Hurt When Hit by Auto

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 18.—Mrs. Ida Whorten, wife of George E. Whorton, Piney Grove, was admitted to Allegany Hospital, suffering from a probable fractured skull, the result of having been struck by the car operated by H. P. Kernen, Baltimore, on the National highway, this morning.

Kernen stopped and summoned Dr. John A. Watson, of Piney Grove. Mrs. Whorten was in a semiconscious state when admitted to the hospital. The driver of the car reported to the police and gave his adress as the Y. M. C. A., Baltimore, and his occupation as Eastern representative of Anona Cheese Co., of Chicago. He was not held.

in the last campaign, trying to determine whether to support Smith or break away from the party of their forefathers. His was a typical jury argument. He said that when he got through he wanted every delegate in the hall to cheer Lyon whether they voted for him or not, because he had worked hard. They did, too.

G. O. P. Assistance Probable.

Then Lyon, invoking the spirit of Patrick Henry, Jefferson and other first-generation Virginians, withdrew. Subsequently, after the nomination of Brown had been gotten out of the way, somebody recalled that "next year we will be able to go after still bigger things, the senatorship," and instantly everybody said, "Lyon, Lyon, Frank Lyon, of McLean."

"You took the words out of my mouth," the original speaker said. Lyon's friends then explained that this was the purpose of his gubernatorial boom.

This would seem to conflict with the reports that a definite agreement has been entered into with the Republicans whereby the latter will join with the anti-Smith people this year to elect a governor and the coalition will give the Republicans the senatorship next year. There is no doubt, however, but that a tacit understanding exists all around that the Republicans meeting in Richmond next Monday will indorse Brown and Berkley. Next year probably is to take care of itself.

Just before, the convention, at Lyon's instance, adopted a resolution, leaving it to the executive committee to name a candidate for lieutenant governor if it should later see fit. It is possible that this place may be given the Republicans, but the more prevalent belief is that "Jim" Price's popularity is the reason. His name is James Hubert Price.

Cannon's Platform Adopted.

A platform 6,000 words in length was adopted as written by Bishop Cannon and his lieutenant, the Rev. Sidney J. Peters, Methodist minister at Norfolk and former head of the State Anti-saloon League. Not a word was sought to be added to it; there was no discussion. This was not because it was steam-rollered, however. It was simply that about ten men were the only ones concerned with the work of the convention. It carried a ringing denunciation of the wets, but covered the full range of State subjects as well, from domestic felicity to the continued building of better roads, but at a less expense than the present administration is building them; the development of the State's oyster beds, big and better schools and the like. It particularly denounced the short ballot system which Gov. Byrd sold to the State in a referendum last year and by which only the governor, lieutenant governor and the attorney general are elective officers.

Of prohibition, the platform declared it to be the "high-water mark of human achievement." It favored the "maintenance and tightening of prohibition enforcement, whatever the cost."

It denounced "antiprohibitionists who clamor loudly because persons have been killed by prohibition officers."

"It is regrettable," the platform continued, "that innocent persons have been killed, but the few such cases do not justify demands that the Constitution shall be trampled under foot."

DePriest Incident Pops Up.

Then there was a platform plank apropos the recent entertainment of Mrs. Oscar DePriest by Mrs. Hoover.

"We stand for racial integrity, and while official relations must be maintained we deplore any social relations between whites and blacks."

This was not strong enough for Delegate I. C. Trotman, of Suffolk County, who wrote the President several days ago complaining against the DePriest incident. Losing his fight before the platform committee for a more direct statement, he withdrew early in the day to the onlookers' gallery.

The resolution seeking to spread the movement to other Southern States was introduced by Byars. It provided for the establishment of a committee in Washington "to encourage civic righteousness and independence of action among the voters of this and other States, and, if deemed necessary, to perfect a permanent national organization to combat every form of political serfdom."

Before its adoption one practical-minded delegate developed that no money was provided in the resolution for such a committee, whereupon he withdrew his objection.

Cannon and Peters also wrote the keynote address of S. Howie Williams, of Lynchburg, who used to win prizes for public speaking at school.

Judge J. Kirk Matthews, of Richmond, was permanent chairman of the convention, and Ed Booge, of York, was secretary.

Brown appeared before the convention just before it closed and accepted the nomination and the platform. He announced that he had resigned from Washington and Lee.

Pair Facing Trial On Assault Count

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 18.—Otis Patterson, of Chesterfield County, and Miss Cora Snyder, of Rawley Springs, Va., were indicted yesterday by a Rockingham Circuit Court grand jury on charges of felonious assault and attempted robbery. The charges grew out of their alleged attack upon George Frye, recluse and antique dealer, at his secluded woodland home, 3 miles east of Harrisonburg, on the night of April 29.

Frye was struck on the head and chest and knocked down by rocks hurled by intruders when he answered a knock at the door. He managed to frighten off the attackers with an old musket, and walked to Harrisonburg to notify officers. The couple, arrested near the West Virginia line in a small truck on the morning following the attack, claim that they went to the Frye home to collect some money which they allege Frye owed the mother of Miss Snyder.

Sixteen indictments were returned by the grand jury, ten persons being charged with prohibition violations, eight with housebreaking, three with felonious assault and one with forgery. The cases will be heard at the June term of court.

Staunton Rotarians Push Meeting Plan

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., June 18.—Staunton's Rotary Club today appointed committees and furthered plans for entertaining the assembly of the fifty-sixth Rotary District here July 16-18.

The assembly is composed of district officers and officers of the fifty-two clubs in the district. They will arrive here on the evening of July 16. The local club will extend them a reception, business sessions will be held on the two days following and a dinner meeting is planned for the visitors on the night of July 17.

Charles K. Brown, who takes office as vice president of the Staunton Club next week, has been named general chairman of the organization that will entertain the district assembly. Maj. L. L. Sutherland is president of the Host Club.

Offer Made on Danville Works.

Danville, Va., June 18 (Special).—Mayor Harry Wooding today received a letter from P. Mink & Co., Inc., of New York, public utilities operators, offering the city tentatively $4,000,000 for its water, gas and electric works. The offer was made on a cash basis and was referred to the city power commission, which is sifting offers made by several other competing concerns.

COLORED APPOINTEE STIRS SMITH'S FOES

EXPLANATION BY G. O. P.

Special to The Washington Post.

Norfolk, Va., June 18.—Bolting Democrats who helped ease Virginia into the Republican fold in the presidential election last November and who had planned to vote the anti-Smith Republican State ticket in the forthcoming gubernatorial contest had much of their enthusiasm dampened today when it was announced from Washington that Thornton G. Nightingale, colored, had been appointed postmaster at Blenheim, Albemarle County, Va. The appointment was made on recommendation of Representative J. A. Garber, of Harrisonburg, a Republican, it was stated. It was claimed that there were no available white candidates for the office.

The anti-Smiths were trying to live down the speech of Representative De Priest here last Friday and the entertainment of Mrs. De Priest at tea at the White House when the announcement of Nightingale's appointment was received.

"That cures me," said J. H. Trotman, of Suffolk, a leader in the anti-Smith movement.

Representative Garber says Nightingale was recommended by the Albemarle County Republican organization, stating that he was the "only satisfactory candidate for the office."

Fire in Emmittsburg Destroys Four Garages

Frederick, Md., June 18.—Four garages, owned by Robert Topper, Thornton Rodgers, Miss Lillian Gelwick, and Charles Shorts, in Emmittsburg, were destroyed yesterday by fire of unknown origin. The flames spread quickly from one structure to the other and on account of the close proximity of dwelling houses calls were sent to Thurmont and Taneytown for assistance.

Front Royal Robber Sentenced to Prison

Jury Fixes Penalty at Two Years in the Case of Lawrence Hall.

Front Royal, Va., June 18.—In the case of the Commonwealth against Lawrence Hall, charged with being one of the parties of a conspiracy to break and enter the factory of the Old Virginia Packing Co. to steal 800 pounds of sugar, which was called for trial here on Monday, the jury today found Hall guilty as charged and fixed his sentence as two years in the penitentiary.

Hall was the only one of the four who were charged with the theft of the dynamite and sugar to ask for a jury trial, the other three, Olive Hounshell, James Dodson and Paul Ruffner, pleading guilty before Judge Williams and receiving their sentences of six, eight and five years, respectively, at the April term of court. At the last term of court, when Hall was tried for being a party to the stealing of the dynamite, he was given two years, making a total of four years on the two charges.

Don't let Rheumatism make an invalid of you.

THOSE muscular pains, commonly called rheumatism, are generally due to a run-down condition, with the number of red-blood-cells below the normal count.

S.S.S. aids the system in building up these red-blood-cells and in getting rid of the condition of which the rheumatism is but a symptom. The body becomes strong and disease-resistant, and the rheumatic pains go.

Pains in your muscles and joints make you miserable, less efficient, interfere with your working hours, ruin your sleep. If allowed to continue, as the years pass the danger increases.

But what a change with rich, red-blood-cells in your body—Nature's building material—making the flesh firm—giving strength to the vital organs.

You can't rub rheumatism out. It is deeper than that. It must be knocked out. And the sure way is by helping the fighting blood—the red-blood-cells!

Increase your army of "workers" (red-blood-cells), and those muscle and joint pains, commonly called rheumatism, vanish. S.S.S. has brought this change about for thousands. Why not for you?

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine." R. L. Busic, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous; had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man." William Osborne, 2406 Sloan Street, Flint, Mich.

THE FEDERAL FARM BOARD.

Congress having promptly appropriated $150,000,000 for the use of the Federal Farm Board, besides $1,500,000 for expenses of organization, it is assumed that President Hoover will make recess appointments and direct the board to begin its work without waiting for the reassembling of Congress.

The expedient of appointment during recess may be expected to save some time, but it may be unfortunate for some of the members of the board. The situation in the Senate is such as to insure a wrangle over these appointments. The President is required to take into consideration the special qualifications of members in the handling of leading commodities, their experience in marketing, finance, &c. The pressure for the appointment of "dirt farmers" is very strong, but nothing is more certain than that a board composed exclusively of dirt farmers would be a colossal failure. Mr. Hoover will try to prevent such a calamity by selecting men skilled in finance and international trade as well as men cognizant of farm problems.

When the time comes for the Senate to confirm the selections the appointees will have been in office. Objections to their confirmation will naturally have a bad effect upon their individual and joint efforts, as was the case with the Federal Radio Commission when its personnel was under fire in the Senate. No commission can be expected to initiate and execute such a bold experiment as the farm relief law contemplates, when it is subjected to open and secret attack by senators and left in doubt as to its permanence in office.

The Republican party is in the minority in the Senate. Mr. Hoover is in a position similar to that occupied by Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, who is dependent upon the good will of political opponents in carrying on his administration. The Democrats and pseudo Republicans of the Senate, however, have shown no such cooperative spirit as that displayed thus far by the Liberals and Conservatives of Britain. Mr. Hoover has beaten these opponents on the farm bill after a bitter fight, and it is not to be expected that they will fail to harass him in the matter of nominations to the Federal Farm Board. Their opposition will doubtless impair the efficiency of the board, even if they fail to bring about the rejection of some of the nominations.

DIPLOMATIC IMMUNITY.

The Senate adopted yesterday a resolution introduced by Senator Caraway calling upon Maj. Pratt to "furnish the names and the nationality of all representatives of foreign countries attached to or employed by foreign legations who have been arrested or warned for operating automobiles in the District of Columbia while under the influence of liquor or for other traffic violations." Senator Caraway pointed out that the resolution did no more than ask for information, and he asked for unanimous consent for its immediate enactment. The Senate, in its wisdom, adopted the resolution without debate.

Does Senator Caraway expect to receive from the chief of police a lengthy list of names and nationalities? If so, he is doomed to disappointment. Very few diplomats, or employes of embassies and legations, have run afoul of Washington's multitudinous traffic regulations. What does Senator Caraway expect to do with the list when he receives it? Possibly he plans a dramatic speech based upon the information he expects the list to contain, calling for the enactment of legislation to curb diplomatic immunity. Nothing could be more futile.

Diplomats, by courtesy and respect, generally observe the laws of the country in which they are stationed, but they are not subject to these laws, and the comity that exists between nations would be destroyed were attempts made to hold diplomats amenable to the law. There is, however, an effective means of punishing a diplomat who violates the law. The State Department can ask for his recall. More than once the State Department has been asked to proceed against a member of the Diplomatic Corps, and when the machinery for recall is put into operation it moves inexorably. What better punishment could there be for a diplomatic law-breaker than to be handed his passports? But this is not a matter in which Congress should meddle. If Senator Caraway plans to agitate for a change in the status of diplomatic immunity, he is embarking on a foolish campaign.

VACATION FOR MR. HOOVER, TOO.

The easiest decision for Congress to make these days is to take a vacation. The Senate will return to Washington on August 19, in time to take up the tariff bill as soon as the finance committee has completed it. The arrangement allows the Senate a month for debate of the measure before the reassembling of the House on September 23. If a longer time is required, the House will take a series of three-day recesses so that the mischief of a session with no business before it may be avoided.

Nothing could be accomplished by holding members of the Senate and House in Washington during the heat of the summer. The farm relief and census-reapportionment bills are now laws. Enactment of the tariff bill could not be hastened by keeping Congress in session. A vacation may prove highly beneficial, since it will tend to clear the political atmosphere. Both senators and representatives should return to their posts in a more amiable mood after an interval of travel or vacationing at home.

President Hoover has announced that he is "condemned to work this summer and stay in Washington." The announcement was made before the decision of Congress to adjourn had been reached, and at a time when it appeared probable that the squabble over the farm bill and the tariff would keep it in session all summer. There now appears to be no reason why Mr. Hoover should stay in Washington all summer. A vacation would invigorate him for a hard year's work ahead.

The President is reported to be in fine physical condition. Week-end trips to his favorite fishing haunts and his medicine ball cabinet have helped to keep him fit. But hot weather is unfavorable for medicine ball workouts, and week-end trips are not sufficient for one whose work is so arduous. It has been suggested that President Hoover is inclined to follow the example of President Coolidge by staying in the White House for his first summer. Unlike the former President, Mr. Hoover is a traveler. An entire summer in the White House might prove very irksome to him.

The President could establish in some attractive mountain retreat not far from the Capital, if he is not inclined to a longer vacation. If problems before him are so pressing that he feels he must give most of his time to them this summer, he could no doubt study them more effectively in cool, attractive surroundings. Then he would return to the Capital with renewed strength.

The President's health is of vital concern to the Nation. The whole country will be gratified if he should decide to take a real vacation.

ZIEGFELD'S PHANTOM FOLLIES.

With the entry of Florenz Ziegfeld into the vocal picture field an improvement in artistic productions may be expected. It is no secret that Ziegfeld has been considering the possibilities of motion pictures for some time. His productions have been on such a lavish scale that they have become economically unprofitable and a year or so ago he announced that rather than cheapen the product he would withdraw from the field of extravaganza production. However, the movies would give him a means of obtaining wider distribution, and wide distribution would make possible the spreading out of production costs.

Last week Mr. Ziegfeld announced the formation of a partnership with Samuel Goldwyn for the production of vocal color pictures. The announcement means that Ziegfeld is satisfied that it is possible to produce artistic phantom extravanganzas and revues. With Ziegfeld lending his experienced fingers to their development it is certain that fine spectacles will be produced.

NICARAGUA CANAL SURVEY.

The progress of the engineering party which President Hoover will dispatch to Nicaragua to survey the proposed route for a new waterway between the Atlantic and Pacific will be watched with interest throughout the country. The project is one which vitally concerns the commerce between the two American coasts as well as that with foreign nations. It is one of the huge engineering enterprises of the future. When Congress takes up the project two years hence it should have accurate information on which to base its conclusion.

The Nicaraguan route via the San Juan River and Lake Nicaragua was favored over the Panama route by many engineers who made surveys for the first interoceanic canal. The principal interest in the survey will center on the probable cost and the necessity for a second isthmian canal. It has been estimated that the waterway would cost $189,864,000, compared with $144,233,358 for construction of the Panama Canal. No doubt the report of the Army engineers on the probable cost will be an important factor in the decision of Congress.

Experience with the Panama Canal indicates that if shipping is sufficient to justify the project, any reasonable initial cost is warranted. Last year tolls collected from ships traversing the Panama route amounted to nearly $26,000,000. The total expenses for operation and maintenance from the opening in 1915 to June 30, 1927, were approximately $238,000,000. Total revenue during the same time amounted to $318,000,000, leaving an average annual profit of $6,000,000. If the cost of military defense is deducted from this figure, the canal still appears to be a paying proposition. Traffic is increasing rapidly, having doubled in the last six years, and profits may be expected to increase proportionately.

The basic question on which the construction of a new isthmian canal should be based is one of necessity. It has been estimated that the Panama Canal will be handling its capacity of shipping by 1960. But the need of a new canal may be obviated by enlargement of the Panama channel, addition of locks and increase of the water supply. Under the terms of the Edge resolution the Army engineers will also study the feasibility of increasing the capacity of the Panama Canal. It has been estimated by the Governor of the Canal Zone that a third set of locks costing about $100,000,000 would increase the capacity of the canal fourfold. If such a plan is practical it may be preferable to another interoceanic waterway. Whether the Panama channel is to be further developed or a new canal built through Nicaragua depends largely on the findings of these engineers. They are charged with a public responsibility of the foremost importance.

COAL MERGER BARRED.

Organization of a gigantic holding company which would supervise the entire bituminous coal industry of the Eastern States is reported to be under consideration. Representatives of the industry in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee are working on the problem of harmonizing this extensive merger with the antitrust laws. It is reported that the question has been taken up with Government officials and that no way of avoiding a clash with the Sherman and Clayton acts has been found.

There have been a number of mergers in the soft coal industry in recent months, but the effect on the industry has not been marked. The coal men are confronted with the necessity of curtailing production to eliminate waste, and under the present competitive system they have found that to be impossible. Neither the producers nor the people of the United States are willing for the Government to take over regulation of the industry, as was proposed following a congressional investigation. It seems that the only alternative is cooperation among the producers themselves, and this method of rehabilitating their business is denied them by the antitrust laws.

The proposed merger would give a holding company authority to control production and distribution and the allocation of labor. Production would be stabilized and limited to market requirements. Employment in the mines would become more regular. The holding company would carry on scientific research for the development of by-products and extension of markets.

The issues involved in this attempt to restore the coal industry to prosperity constitute one of the most serious economic problems confronting the Nation. The situation in which the coal producers find themselves is almost identical with that of the oil producers when they recently attempted to limit production to the 1928 basis. The administration refused to sanction any evasion of the Sherman act. The Government's plan for control of production through an interstate compact has also struck a snag, and the industry is left to its wasteful competitive ways, at least temporarily.

Evidently the country is not ready for modification of the antitrust laws, and certainly the people and business interests are not in favor of Federal supervision. The other alternative is competition, under which practice these two resources of limited supply are being recklessly dissipated. What is the solution? Is it possible that American commercial genius, which is responsible for development of the most elaborate economic system ever known, will fail to find a way of conserving the country's fuel supplies?

ENVOYS TO THE POPE

By DR. LEO F. STOCK
In the New York World.

One of the many conjectures certain to arise from the recent settlement of the Roman question will concern the future relations between the United States and the Vatican City. Whether a diplomatic representative will ever be sent from America to join those accredited to the Holy See from other nations, will probably depend upon the benefit to be derived from such official contact.

The territory over which the Holy Father will exercise his prerogatives as sovereign ruler will be but little larger than the present Vatican grounds. Consequently future diplomatic relations with the new government, should they be opened, will obviously be for reasons quite different from those which prompted Polk, in 1848, to send Jacob E. Martin as first charge to Rome.

Consuls had represented American interests in the papal states since 1797. Among these were George W. Greene, grandson of Nathanael Greene, of revolutionary fame; William Dean Howells, who, although accepting the appointment, never served, and Edwin C. Cushman, Charlotte Cushman's nephew, who is remembered for an incident which brought charges against him that he had fought with the papal troops during an engagement with the forces of Garibaldi.

In his earliest instructions to Martin, Secretary Buchanan emphasized the necessity of distinguishing between the spiritual and temporal powers of the Pope. "You will carefully avoid even the appearance of interfering in ecclesiastical questions," he wrote, "whether these relate to the United States or any other portion of the world."

The diplomatic relations thus established (but not without bitter debate in Congress) covered a period of twenty years. Throughout most of this period political agitation and the din of war made it futile to enter into the projected commercial arrangements.

Throughout the period of struggle for Italian independence and unity, the personal sympathies of the American representatives at Rome were quite naturally with the revolutionary elements. On the whole, however, the American Ministers well understood the perplexing political problem, the misunderstandings and the lack of reciprocal generosity which made it difficult for the Pope to carry out his program of reform.

After Lincoln's assassination, John H. Surratt, who had been accused of complicity in the crime, made his escape, by way of Canada and England, to Rome, where he enlisted in the Papal Zouaves under the name of "Watson." His identity was in time discovered and reported to the American Minister. Although there was no extradition treaty between the two governments, the papal authorities acceded to the wishes of King and confined Surratt until definite instructions should be received from Washington. The prisoner later made his escape, narrowly missed death by leaping from a high precipice, was finally captured at Alexandria, Egypt, and returned to the United States for trial.

In 1867 the mission to Rome came to an official end. Congress refused to continue the appropriation for it.

Oh. Yes.

Atlanta Constitution: It has just been estimated that there is enough salt under the State of Kansas to keep the world supplied with the commodity for 500,000 years. Now we understand why Kansas has an oversuppply of Sockless Simpsons, Carrie Nations, and we might mention a few others more or less erudite.

Up To Lamont.

Baltimore Sun: Philadelphia's mayor has cheerfully expressed a prevalent hope regarding the Army-Navy football game, for at a luncheon in his city he turned to Secretary Adams, of the Navy Department, and remarked that "we need this game back here to redeem our municipal stadium, now dying a slow and painful death." And, of course, Philadelphia will meet competition if the game is renewed and bids are in order. Even Chicago once pulled enough wires to land a contest. This is a form of interest in the service teams which is more practical than sporting, and suggests that the proper place for arbitration of the dispute between them is somewhere in the Department of Commerce.

Farmer Talley.

Charlotte Observer: Marion Talley has made good her word, for she is now located in a Kansas wheat field, title to which is recorded in her own name. the farm consists of 640 acres, and what's more, it is located 400 miles from the nearest big city, which goes by the name of Kansas, and 200 miles from the next nearest, which is Denver. The nearest town is named Colby, and it is 12 miles distant. It is Farmer Talley's purpose to cut off the wheat crop and stock the farm with horses cows, chickens, turkeys and guineas. She is at present under obligation to finish her contract with a record company and after she completes that, she will return to her farm, build a house and settle down to the life she has chosen, to the mystification of the foot-lights world. She will continue studying music, but with no intention of making a comeback to the stage. And it will be years and years before the musical and social world will cease to wonder at what it was that came over the famous singer.

If a Man in Africa Celebrates the Fourth of July, You Know He's an American.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is a law of probabilities, as there is a law of averages; and when the discovery of facts is impossible, you can use your reasen and discover the thing that is most probable.

A reasonable probability is very close to the truth—so close that courts of justice accept it as evidence.

Struggling through the mists of time in search of truth, men come to a great chasm beyond which no facts are seen.

But there are no barriers to reason; and when it is linked with intelligent imagination, it reaches into the dim past and finds truth in the probable.

In the folklore of many lands there are tales of dragons—great creatures with jaws like alligators and bodies like snakes and scales like the armadillo's.

Why did our ancestors in different lands imagine terrible beasts so much alike? Why did they not imagine giant tigers or giant wolves? Surely nothing could be more terrible.

Probability answers: Because the earth never has known giant tigers and giant wolves, and it has known giant beasts like the fabled dragons, for men of science have dug up their skeletons.

But, you say, these creatures have been extinct for a million years. No matter. Folklore passes from father to son through 10,000 generations. The race remembers, long after it has ceased to understand the thing it remembers.

In far distant lands, oceans apart, primitive people treasure a legend of a flood. In lands far apart, with oceans between, primitive people use similar bows and arrows. The oldest cultures are similar.

Did the different races, unknown to one another, hit by accident upon the same improvements and invent the same legends, or was the parent stock, possessed of common knowledge and a common history, scattered to the four corners of the earth?

History is silent, but probability answers.

In all lands, oceans apart, men of different color and different speech do homage to a Supreme Being—a spirit ruling the universe.

In the earliest history of every race there is a record of worship—a belief in God.

How did these different peoples happen to imagine the same thing? Their customs, foods, raiment and habits are different. Why did their minds function in the same way to conceive the same "fairy tale?"

The facts are hidden, but probability answers: They received knowledge from the same source, and treasured it from generation to generation through the ages.

AVOIDING CONVERSATION.

In no field, perhaps, does our restless combing of the universe in search of the bluebird appear more fruitless than in the disuse of conversation. Save in rare instances, we will go to almost any lengths in order to avoid it, writes Stanley Jones in the North American Review.

Witness the radio, the queues before movies, the steady schedule of bridge, the eagerness of inherently intelligent persons to drink and become determinedly gay and abysmally boring to those who do not.

One must conclude that our idea of diversion is largely visual and auditory. Anything, it seems, to insulate the light and easy play of thoroughly capable minds from themes common to humanity.

Our urban restlessness, our acquired impatience with any passive state for more than a few moments, is responsible. Good talk is not born with the desire for it. Good talk is largely a matter of mood, of atmosphere. Among its chief requirements is a sense of unhurried ease. But we tend to shrink from any surcease of physical activity—unless it be for trivial games or frantic self-improvement—as a rather terrifying interval fraught with the perils of dullness.

If a topic is not immediately slapjacked into oblivion for fear of its assuming the bugabo of solemnity, it is all too apt to become bogged in the marsh of self-consciousness. This is equally reprehensible—and more wearing—than the prevalent practice of dismissing a subject with a few flip smacks of the seat of its trousers as it circles a group on its way to the door.

If we lay aside our slapstick, it is generally in favor of the machined, deliberate business of talking music, or books, or theater, because we feel we owe it to ourselves, our guests, or our hosts. The fact that such obligatory pronouncements smothers spontaneity, which is the breath of conversational life, does not seem to deter us.

Dimly aware of this unhappy condition, but apparently powerless to better it, we struggle grimly on, while the golden strand lying somewhere between the poles of stuffed-shirt gravity and arrant nonsense remains unpeopled save for a few rare souls.

HUMAN HAIR.

"Thus human hair is seen to enter importantly, as an economic factor, into practically all the food we eat." This curious and vaguely alarming statement, says the Detroit News, was made by a witness in recent tariff hearings before the ways and means committee. The witness was a manufacturer of "press cloth," who wanted the duty removed from human hair, and he told of an interesting industrial romance.

Press cloth, it appears, is used to make the bag in which cottonseed, cocoanuts, olives, cocoa beans, etc., are placed when they are squeezed in hydraulic presses to remove their content of edible oil. Prior to the war, it was believed that camel's hair was the only fiber that would withstand the heat and pressure to which press cloth is subjected in this process. But the World War, with accompanying disturbances in Siberia, cut off the supply of camel's hair and forced a search for a substitute. Then it was found that human hair not only served the purpose, but was even better than that of the camel. The supply of it comes from the queues of the Chinese and from the prolific scalps of the women of Sicily. It brings about 30 cents a pound in this country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Unknown Soldier's Tomb Needs No Elaborate Ornament.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Because personally I prefer the plain but handsome stone which marks the resting place of our Unknown Soldier to an elaborate memorial, I take the liberty of inclosing this poem sent me recently by the Rev. John Brittan Clark, D. D., for several years minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Washington. Mrs. Woodbridge is Dr. Clark's mother-in-law, and is 93 years of age.

The Unknown Soldier's Grave

BY IRENE A. WOODBRIDGE.

(There is planned an elaborate addition to the grave of the Unknown Soldier.)

No chisled marble can enhance
The Unknown Soldier's fame:
An eager Nation fain would write
On Stars and Stripes his name.
His soul its vigil keeps
Until life's ringing reveille
Through death's long bivouac sweeps.

O stricken heart that long has claimed
As thine the great Unknown,
With undimmed vision pierce the veil
That hides thee from thine own;
Then pray for those, the vast unknown
Whose dirge the low wind sings,
For those beside whose wooden cross
Peace folds her blood-stained wings.

Mr. Spreckels Suggests Sliding Scale Sugar Tariff as Just to All Concerned.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That our export trade with Cuba and other Latin-American nations will suffer if our Congress needlessly discriminates against Cuba which has supplied us with most of our sugar requirements for many years at reasonable prices and whose sugar is, and probably always will be, required to furnish the major portion of our sugar needs seems inevitable. In the unhappy event of war Cuba would offer the only adequate supply of sugar within a distance from which we could insure water transportation. It should be our national policy to deserve and preserve friendly relations with our Latin-American neighbors.

It is possible to establish a sliding scale of duty which would maintain the price of duty-paid sugar on a fair basis, and if Congress will determine what would be a fair minimum and maximum refiners' margin between the open market price of duty-paid raw sugar and the price of refined, and require refiners to pay the Government a penalty for violation in selling sugar above or below such margin, the American public would be duly protected, and the American beet and cane farmers, and the entire American sugar industry, as well as the labor engaged therein, would prosper within reasonable bounds.

It would also insure to the wholesale and retail distributors of sugar a fair merchandising profit by removing the highly speculative and hazardous conditions which now prevail in the marketing of sugar.

RUDOLPH SPRECKELS.

Favors Action by Congress and the People in Sending Wheat to Relieve Famine in China.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with a good deal of interest your letter in this morning's Post on "They Call It Politics," as to farm relief, and particularly the suggestion that mutual help might be afforded the farmers and the starving people of China if some action could be taken immediately which would utilize our surplus wheat.

There can be no question that with a surplus here and a great need in China something could be done by a great country like this other than merely to talk about it. It would seem to me that a movement could be started if Congress would agree to an appropriation and a proposal to the American people to give a dollar to match every dollar given by Congress. A definite price could be agreed upon, and I think it would particularly appeal to our people to give so many bushels of wheat rather than to contribute a sum of money.

As has been suggested, the Shipping Board could furnish the ships, and I think it would be more appealing to give the wheat than to give flour, as it could be sent more quickly, particularly if Dr. Wu would gaurantee the proper distribution of the wheat on the other side.

It seems a shame that such a humane solution of the two problems should not be carried out. I believe the altruism underlying the act would affect the whole world. Why not make an effort to bring the various people together who could put this thing through? I think it would appeal to Senator Borah, and that he would aid Senator Nye in a matter of this kind.

F. L. MIDDLETON.

FEWER WHALES.

The whale is headed for extinction, according to Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History. He estimates that 30,000 whales are being slaughtered annually, and that the number of living whales has reached its lowest level. Certain species, like the California gray whale and the bowhead whale are on the verge of extinction, says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Whales formerly swarmed in all of the oceans, but now they are found in numbers only in the Anarctic Ocean. Improved vessels and weapons have reduced the taking of whales to a science.

The American Society of Mammalogists has sponsored the organization of the council for the conservation of whales. Its task is not an easy one, but that it is possible to save whales from extinction is suggested by what was done with seals in northern waters.

The work of the council will undoubtedly be an effort to persuade various nations to agree to suitable laws for the regulation of whaling. This looks like a larger task than seal conservation, for whales range far and wide, and more countries are involved.

It is a difficult thing to bring competitive commercial enterprises around to conservation measures, even when a single nation, or a single state, is involved. They desire to use their capital to the largest extent, and when the business gives out, move on to something else. That seems to be more appealing than restraint in output, especially sufficient restraint to increase a resource to normal conditions.

Chief Justice To Celebrate Anniversary

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Chief Justice and Mrs. William Howard Taft will celebrate their forty-third wedding anniversary today. In Murray Bay, Canada, where the Tafts have a summer home and where their neighbors have been neighbors for a score of years, this anniversary and the Chief Justice's birthday in September are gala days. There is always a constant stream of callers at the Taft's wide-winged comfortable home and the gardens roundabout are robbed of their choicest flowers as tribute—in spite of the fact that it's a case of carrying coals to Newcastle, since the Chief Justice's own garden is a riot of flowers at this season.

Occasionally Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft have an informal reception, to which "all Murray Bay" is invited, in celebration of their anniversary or later to mark the Chief Justice's birthday. But it is not likely that there will be any "party" this year, as the Chief Justice is convalescing from the illness which necessitated the postponement for a few days of his departure.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft celebrated their silver wedding when he was President. The garden party they gave at the White House to mark the anniversary still lingers in the memories of those fortunate enough to have been present. If memory serves, there never has been before or since a White House garden party given in the evening, with a moon etching long shadows on the grass, Japanese lanterns painting gay pictures in the trees and the world and his wife dancing out-of-doors to the music of the Marine Band. Letters and telegrams had poured in from princes and potentates all over the world, and the President and Mrs. Taft received hundreds of beautiful silver gifts, which now grace their house in Wyoming avenue.

There are ten grandchildren in the family of Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft, most of whom visit at Murray Bay some time during the summer. One is Helen Manning, small daughter of Mrs. Frederick Johnson Manning, who was Helen Taft, and the others are divided about equally between the boys, Robert Taft and Charles P. Taft 2d.

Miss Mabel Boardman is a neighbor of Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft in Murray Bay. Mrs. Hamilton Fish, jr., is another who has been going there for years, and still other Washingtonians who never miss a holiday visit to the quaint little resort at Pointe-a-Pic are Miss Laura Harlan and Miss Ruth Harlan, daughters of the late Justice Harlan. They used to own a cottage there, but more recently have been going to "Chamard's," a unique and engaging little establishment in a bower of roses that all remember who have ever visited the St. Lawrence country. Miss Anne Squire is also going to Murray Bay for part of this summer.

The Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi have as their guest in Newport Mr. Robert van Royen, son of the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Guest of Mrs. Couzens.

Mrs. James Couzens entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Villa Rosa. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was a guest, and others in the company were Mrs. Claude A. Swanson and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, close friends of Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson has just returned from Princeton, N. J., where she attended the anniversary celebration of President Wilson's class at Princeton University.

Representative and Mrs. Richard Yates will leave Saturday for Detroit, Mich., to make the acquaintance of their fifth grandchild, Jane, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pickering. Mrs. Pickering was formerly Miss Catherine Yates, eldest daughter of Representative and Mrs. Yates. Little Jane is the youngest in a family of five children, two boys and three girls.

Representative and Mrs. Yates will sail on July 17 on the Transylvania for Glasgow, Scotland, for a two-month visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson, the latter formerly Miss Dorothy Yates.

Representative and Mrs. Hart Fenn have gone to Wethersfield, Conn., for the summer.

The Counselor of the Bolivian Legation and Senora Jorge E. Boyd and their children will close their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel at the end of the week to motor to Norfolk and other points in Virginia. They will return to the hotel before motoring North later in the season. They will pass some time in New England and then will go to Canada for the rest of the summer.

The Italian Consul General at Boston, Marquis A. Ferrante, is at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Miss Gertrude Lamont, daughter of the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont, who has been with her parents at the Wardman Park Hotel, went yesterday to New York. Mrs. Lamont will go soon to New York to join her and they then will motor to Lake Forest, Ill., for the remainder of the summer.

The Secretary of the Legation of Panama and Senora de Chevalier have returned from New York, where they spent several days.

Mrs. Ashton Rollins May Not Wed Prince.

The wedding of Mrs. Ashton Rollins, the former Miss Amylita Gardner, to Prince Bogdon, of Roumania, has been indefinitely postponed. Mrs. Rollins, who recently was divorced, announced her engagement to the prince, a member of one of the oldest titled families of Roumania, on May 24 in the Paris Herald. At the time the wedding was set for the middle of June and it was stated that the couple would take a wedding trip to New York. Now it is rumored that the wedding is not to take place.

Miss Janet Sheppard, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard, returned last evening from New Haven, where she attended the Senior Prom at Yale. Miss Sheppard and her younger sister, Miss Susan Sheppard, will go July 1 to Camp Holton, Naples, Me., where the former will be one of the counselors.

Mrs. Henry Lane Eno, of Princeton, N. J., is passing several days in New York, at the Ambassador.

The final rush of entertaining for Miss Nancy Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton, whose marriage to Dr. Victor Ricardo Alfaro, son of the Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, will take place Monday, will start tonight, when Mrs. Frank Hamilton will entertain at a family dinner for her cousin. The guests will include members of the Alfaro and Hamilton families. Tomorrow, two of Miss Hamilton's out-of-town bridesmaids will arrive, Miss Jessica Holton, of Bethlehem, Pa., and Miss Elma Binns, of Uniontown, Pa., to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton. In the evening Miss Adelaide Henry will entertain the bridal party at dinner at her home in Chevy Chase.

The Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro will entertain at dinner for the bridal party Friday evening; and Saturday, after the morning rehearsal at St. Matthew's Church, Mrs. John Hamilton will entertain at a luncheon. One of the bridesmaids, Miss Exilona Hamilton, will give a dinner Saturday evening. On Sunday, Miss Jessica Holton will give a luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club. The final entertainment will be informal and will be a picnic arranged by Mr. Louis Peak one of the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Newbold will leave Washington July 1 for their summer home in the Adirondacks. They will be joined on the Fourth of July by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allan A. Ryan, jr., who will remain with them most of the summer.

Miss Romona Lefevre, who has been visiting in Washington with her mother, has gone to New York and is staying at the Ambassador Hotel. She is a sister of Senor J. E. Lefevre, who was long attached to the Panama Legation, and was a belle here while her brother was on duty in Washington.

Mr. J. Carroll Noell, assistant secretary of the Federal Reserve Board, has returned to town after attending the finals at the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va. He took part in the twentieth reunion of his class, '09.

Mrs. Robert F. Beresford will entertain the wives of members of the Exchange Club at an informal tea today in her apartment at Tilden Gardens. She will be assisted by Mrs. Godfrey L. Munter.

Maj. Julian C. Smith Weds Mrs. H. W. Byrd.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Whitfield Cherry have announced the marriage of their sister, Mrs. Harriotte Wannamaker Byrd, to Maj. Julian Constable Smith, of the Marine Corps, on Tuesday. Mrs. Byrd, the widow of Capt. William C. Byrd, has spent the last year in Washington and attended the National School of Fine and Applied Arts.

After a short wedding trip Maj. and Mrs. Smith will go to Wakefield, Mass., where Maj. Smith will assume command of the Marine Corps pistol and rifle team, which will represent the Marine Corps in the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in September. At the completion of the matches Maj. and Mrs. Smith will return to the Marine Barracks at Quantico, Va., where the former is now stationed.

Wedding Set for Early Autumn

Bachrach.

MISS KATHERINE BROOKS MORSE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brooks Morse, who has sailed to spend the summer abroad. On her return she will be married to Mr. Julian Ashton Devereux, the wedding being one of the important events of early autumn.

Senator Edge Joins Summer Bachelor Unit

His Wife to go to Maine; Walcott Acknowledges "Housekeeper" Role.

Mrs. Walter Evans Edge and her children will start tomorrow for Bath, Me., the home of Mrs. Edge's family, the Seawalls, where they are to spend the summer. Senator Edge will remain here because of his duties with the finance committee of the Senate, which is to work on the proposed tariff legislation while the Senate is in recess. He will at once join the senatorial group of "semidetached husbands" who are to be in possession of Tuxenden, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman's house in Edgemoor, for the summer months.

The others of this little coterie are Senator Hiram Bingham and Senator Frederic C. Walcott, of Connecticut; Senator David Aiken Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Senator George H. Moss, of New Hampshire, all of whom have committee assignments which will necessitate their being much in town.

Senator Bingham is even now "in residence" at Tuxeden, Mrs. Bingham having left for Connecticut several weeks ago, and Senator Walcott, who has been lingering at the Hoover house in S street, expects to move to the country soon. He has been elected housekeeper because, as he puts it himself, he is "young and innocent in the ways of the Senate"—which has a way of giving undesirable assignments to its youngest members.

Since Mrs. Walcott went to Connecticut a few weeks ago the senator has been maintaining a bachelor menage at the house which he took over from President Hoover, frequently dining in the lovely garden at the rear and spreading the while a bountiful meal for the birds which haunt that bit of woodland in the heart of the city. The factotum of the senator's establishment is a manservant who worked for Mr. Hoover and Mr. Walcott when they lived togeather years ago, and who was with President Hoover for a dozen years before he became President.

Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, will leave this morning for a motor trip to Indiana, Pa., to visit his sister, Mrs. M. W. Steele, for a day or two. He will then return to Washington.

Mrs. Thomas C. Hart, wife of Rear Admiral Hart, who is now stationed in Newport, will sail next week to spend some tme in Europe.

Admiral and Mrs. Hart were previously stationed in Washington. She is the daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Willard Brownson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mondell have returned from Europe and are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Mondell. They will remain through the summer. Mrs. Mondell was, before her recent marriage, Miss Dorothy Lambert.

Dr. and Mrs. George Tully Vaughan have as guests their daughter, Mrs. William R. Crute, and her children, who have arrived from their home in North Carolina for a visit.

Dr. and Mrs. Vaughan and Mrs. Crute will be at home on Thursday evening, June 27, from 9 to 12 o'clock. No invitations have been issued.

Mrs. Blaine Lipscomb closed her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel and started last night for Pittsburgh, where she will pass a week. Mrs. Lipscomb's daughter, Mrs. Thomas Dresser White, will arrive from China on June 26 to pass several months with her mother at the hotel.

Fleming, president of the American Bankers Association, and Mrs. Fleming headed the exodus yesterday from Washington to Montauk Point, Long Island, where the bankers will hold their annual convention this year as they did last season. Montauk is situated on a high point overlooking the sound, and offers every advantage for an outing. Mr. Fleming will be there to welcome the members and guests of the association who arrive today and he will act as host until Saturday, when he retires as president to be succeeded by Mr. Wilmer J. Waller.

Others who are attending the convention from Washington are Commissioner and Mrs. Sidney Taliaferro, Mr. R. Golden Donaldson, Mr. I. T. Fleming, Mrs. R. S. Fleming, Mrs. George Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McQuade, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Whiteford, Mr. Howard Moran and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Asher.

CHASE NETS DRIVER FOLLOWING CRASH

Capital Resident Is Charged With Intoxication and Fleeing Accident Scene.

GIRL COMPANION INJURED

Eugene Ritchie Wood, of 1447 Clifton street northwest, yesterday was held for action of the Prince Georges County Police Court on charges of driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident without stopping to render assistance and making known his identity, by Justice of the Peace Thomas D. Griffith, of Forestville, Md. Bond was fixed at $1,000, which was furnished by Elmer Pumphrey, professional bondsman.

Wood was arrested by County Policeman Frank Prince after a chase of nearly 6 miles, following an accident in which his car was in collision with the car of Charles B. Swann, 2007 H street northwest, near District Heights, Md.

The arrest of Wood cleared up the mystery of how Alice Selma, 30 years old, 3221 Hyatt place northwest, a cashier, received injuries which were treated at Casualty Hospital early yesterday morning. The woman was brought into the hospital by L. Gaskin, 1714 B street southeast, who found her wandering on the Marlboro pike near District Heights, apparently dazed and covered with blood.

Gaskin, who was accompanied by his wife, took the woman to the hospital, where she was found to have lacerations on the forehead, cheek and left knee. Dr. P. A. Stebbing treated her and allowed her to go home.

She refused to say where she was injured except that she was with "Eugene Wood." Maryland police knew that Wood had a woman companion, but could not locate her at the time of the accident and his arrest.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE FARM RELIEF BILL EXPLAINED.

Sir: I am a farmer and the way I need relief is nobody's business. I could use some at once, but I don't quite understand how it works. Would you mind helping me? PUZZLED.

Ans.—1. The bill creates a Federal board of nine members and gives eight of them a salary of $12,000 a year, rain or shine. This will relieve the average farmer by assuring him there is that much money in the world.

2. This board is authorized to make loans from a revolving fund of $500,000,000. This fund revolves at the rate of 26,000 revolutions per minute and the farmer's job is to get aboard while it is in motion without getting his ears torn off in the mechanism.

3. The money is to be passed out through stabilization corporations (or fairy godmothers) when, as and if. The stabilizers are authorized to buy, sell or exchange surplus wheat, sweet corn, cabbages, onions, tomatoes, cucumbers and other vegetables (except spinach and cauliflower).

4. This is how the plan works. When a farmer is in a jam with his crops and needs relief he proceeds to the nearest stabilization corporation. Stabilization corporations will be stationed about the country at convenient points and will be distinguished by squeaky shoes.

5. Upon visiting the stabilization tent the farmer will be told to go home and write a letter. He will write the letter and send it in. A stenographer will open it and destroy it.

6. The farmer will send a second letter. The board will reply by sending him a set of blanks to be filled out. The blanks will contain 168 questions, all a little more involved than those found in income tax blanks.

7. At this point the farmer calls in his lawyer and has the thing interpreted.

8. He sends the blank back to the stabilizing board, which promptly returns it to him with a stinging rebuke for not printing his name instead of writing it and for answering the question, "How long since you have had varicose veins?" on the wrong line.

9. The farmer corrects the blank and returns it with a plea for immediate assistance. He sends along a liquid tomato to indicate what is happening to the crop.

10. The board sets a date for a hearing.

11. The farmer reports for the hearing after a drive of 656 miles and discovers that it has been adjourned, as two of the board members had to attend a fly-casting tournament.

12. The curtain is lowered one year to denote a lapse of time.

13. The farmer sees a few political bosses and gets an audience the following November. He states his case and is turned over for cross-examination. He becomes confused answering questions such as "Where were you on the evening of June 3, 1928?" and decides to plead guilty.

14. He pleads that he was in a daze when he asked farm relief and didn't know what he was doing.

15. The board, taking into consideration his age and the fact it is his first offense, suspends judgment and lets him go home on a promise he will never bother it again.

16. The farmer abandons farming and opens a gasoline station and hot-dog stand.

(P. S.—Are there any further questions?)

U. S. WILL MAKE SEPARATE AGREEMENT WITH GERMANY

agreement after American experts had such a large share in bringing the agreement about. The commitments between the allies and Germany were not regarded in State Department circles as involving the United States in any phase of the contingent debt cancellation plan.

Disappointment Seen Abroad.

Secretary Stimson is understood to have felt that the Young report represented a major achievement of such far-reaching magnitude that any suggestion of lack of approval in America would be most unfortunate. The President's statement does not imply lack of approval on the part of the Government of the United States, but it may cause some disappointment to the allied statesmen who have anticipated that America would be a signatory to the agreement along with the other interested powers.

It would have been a distinct diplomatic victory for the allied nations if they could have obtained America's signature to an agreement linking reparations and allied debts to America, even though the linking process was conditional and dependent upon future events. So far every effort of the nations of Europe to persuade America to link debts and reparations has failed. The United States has been unwilling to even discuss the matter. The Young report represented another effort to commit the United States indirectly to the allied program of merging debts and reparations, and President Hoover's statement has the effect of again reminding Europe of the position which the United States Government has consistently taken since the war.

Premier Poincare of France has made it clear that he expected America to be a signatory to the Young report. In a statement in the July issue of Foreign Affairs, published on Monday last, Poincare pays generous tribute to the American experts, especially Mr. Owen D. Young, and calls on the governments concerned "not to delay an hour" in acting upon the findings.

Mr. Young, in a message to Mayor Walker, of New York, has indicated that he fully expected the United States Government to sign the report.

Rev. Hector Papi, Of Woodstock, Dies

Authority on Canon Law Succumbs Suddenly at Apostolic Delegation.

The Rev. Hector Papi, of the Society of Jesus, widely known authority on Catholic canon law and a priest who enjoyed the confidence of every apostolic delegate to the United States and of many Catholic prelates of the country, died yesterday at 12:30 at the Apostolic Delegation here on Biltmore street. He had been professor of canon law at Woodstock College, Maryland, for 27 years, and was professor emeritus at his death. He was 67 years old. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Father Papi had been at the delegation on a visit for almost a week. Monday night he suffered a heart attack, but yesterday morning apparently was recovering, when he collapsed at noon. The Very Rev. Mgr. Paul Marella, auditor of the delegation, administered the last sacraments.

It was a coincidence that Father Papi should die at the delegation, since his coming to this country, in 1895, was to assume the post of secretary to the first apostolic delegation to the United States. Born in Rome, he had been educated and ordained a priest there, and before coming to America had been vice rector of the College of the Propagation of the Faith. Two years after his arrival here he entered the Society of Jesus and has since been stationed at Woodstock.

The body was taken to Woodstock last evening. The funeral mass is to be celebrated there Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

missioners had asked that the Federal and District Governments share the cost on a 50-50 basis, under the terms of the resolutions, the District would be paying nearer to 75 per cent of the cost.

Then came an outcry against suggestions that a site outside the District limits might be selected for the airport. The Board of Trade wrote a letter to Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, chairman of the Congressional Airport Commission, protesting against location of an airport in Maryland and Virginia that would be supported by local taxpayers.

Bingham's reply was that the commission had not yet reached any decision with regard to a site, and would not make a decision until money was available to acquire it, and there the matter has rested.

CAPT. ALBON C. HODGSON RITES

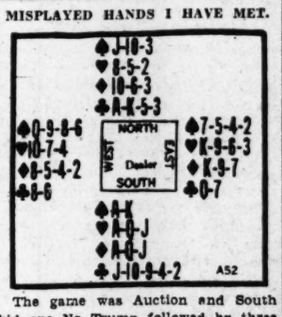
Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at St. Paul's Catholic Church for Capt. Albon Chase Hodgson, retired, U. S. N., 2141 Wyoming avenue northwest, who died Sunday at North Hero, Vt. Capt. Hodgson was born in Athens, Ga., July 10, 1853, and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1875. He served several terms as instructor at the Academy and during the World War commanded the U. S. S. Maine. He retired in 1920.

Mrs. Julia Von Schrader Hodgson, the widow, survives him. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

WORK ON BRIDGE

Mr. Work has prepared a booklet giving detailed information concerning the correct way to play Progressive Auction Bridge. This booklet will be sent to all readers without charge. Mr. Work will also answer without charge any Bridge questions. Requests must be accompanied by an addressed, stamped, return envelope, and addressed to Mr. Milton C. Work, care of this newspaper.

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The game was Auction and South bid one No Trump followed by three passes.

In Contract, South would bid three No Trumps, and North would be one point short of the 9 needed to make a slam bid of four No Trumps or four of a minor. Counting his Tens, North would have the minimum for the bid; but Tens should not be counted in slam bidding. The slam is obtained because the adverse Kings happen to be where wanted and the Club Queen happens to fall. A lucky break does not prove that a slam bid is justified.

In the play, West led his fourth best Spade, which South won. Noting that he had nine Clubs in his two hands, Declarer determined not to finesse; so he led the Deuce and won with the Club King in the North hand. He then led a Diamond and won the finesse; next, another small Club from South, winning once more in North; when the Queen dropped, all South's Clubs were established.

Another Diamond finesse succeeded, but South was obliged to lose a Heart and be content with twelve tricks. Could Declarer have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South should have made up four Club entries in the North hand by playing South's Four under North's Five and his Deuce under the Trey. He should have led the Jack of Clubs instead of Deuce to trick two, and played North's King regardless of West's play; then a Heart or Diamond finesse, next the lead of the Ten of Clubs taken by the King. The fall of the Queen makes North's Five and Trey of Clubs entries for the two more finesses needed by the South hand.

South's lead of the Club Jack at trick 2, besides serving the purpose described, may induce West to play the Queen. The play described gives Declarer a grand slam.

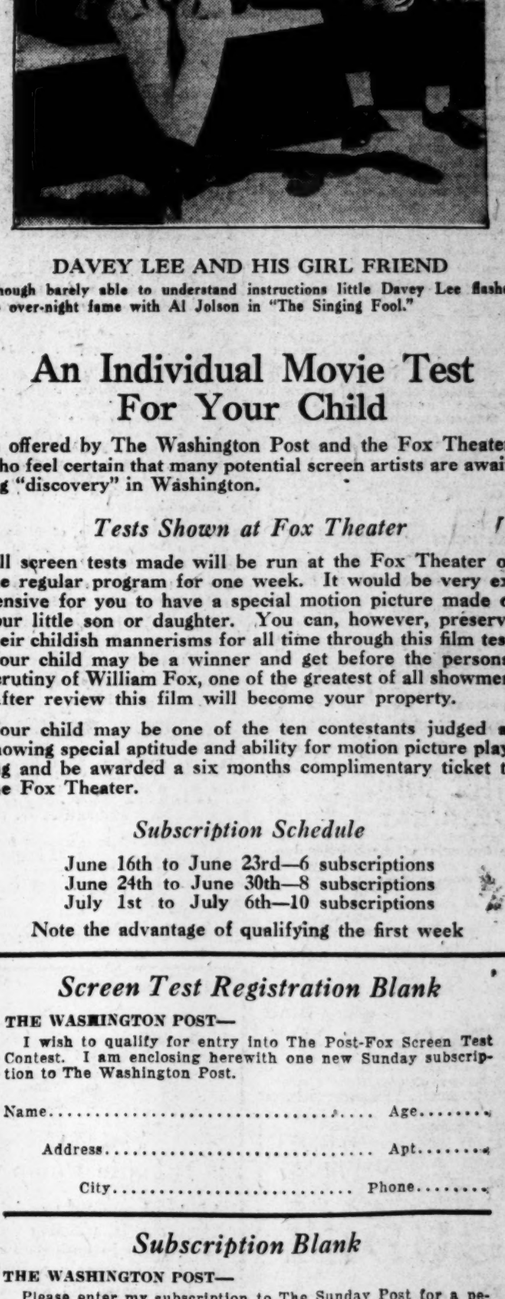
A Message to Mothers of Washington

Do you believe that Davey Lee or any member of the famous "Our Gang" has more talent than your child? It is instinctive for children to act. Your child, if given an opportunity, might become famous. The question is, have you the vision to recognize this and act for the best interests of your child?



DAVEY LEE AND HIS GIRL FRIEND

Though barely able to understand instructions little Davey Lee flashed to over-night fame with Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool."

"Wheezer" was not "lucky" except in the sense that his parents possessed the vision and desire to raise him above the great mass of routine workers.

BAPTIST PACIFISM ROW LIKELY TODAY

MILITARY TRAINING IS HIT

Denver, June 18 (A.P.).—A resolution presented today denouncing war and compulsory military training promises to stir up the first wholehearted debate of the Northern Baptist Convention here.

After laying plans to combat the divorce evil and voting for a renewed temperance educational campaign, the convention today elected officers, selected Cleveland, Ohio, as the 1930 convention city, then sidestepped for the moment a resolution on the compulsory military training question.

That the resolution will stir up a debate tomorrow was indicated by Maj. Alva J. Brasted, of Fort Logan, Colo., Army chaplain, who was prevented from launching an attack on it by the maneuvering of the convention managers. A. M. Harris, retiring president of the convention, announced when the war resolution was reached that he would entertain a motion to defer the remainder of the report of the resolutions committee until tomorrow. Those opposing the resolution declared they would maintain that by adopting a blanket denunciation of war the Baptists would make themselves fervid conscientious objectors.

The only controversy which was allowed to develop over the resolutions, which were presented by the Rev. Ambrose M. Bailey, of Lowell, Mass., chairman of the resolutions committee, grew out of a proposal to establish "for the Northern Baptist Convention a depository of the records of pastors and churches." Discussion from the floor of the convention revealed a fear on the part of some that the depository would serve merely to keep a record of "black marks" against churches and pastors failing to cooperate with the denomination as a whole.

Alton L. Miller, of Boston, was elected president of the convention. The entire slate of nominations, including the Rev. Dr. David Jones Evans, of Kansas City, Mo., for vice president, was accepted.

Robert Crain, 28-year-old son of the Maryland politician for whom the Crain highway was named, arraigned yesterday in Police Court on charges of assault and drunk and disorderly conduct, growing out of an altercation early yesterday morning in a Chinese restaurant, asked for a jury trial on the assault charge and a continuance on the other and was released under $400 bond.

He was arrested in a restaurant in the 300 block of Ninth street northwest and was held during the night at the First Precinct Station. Crain appeared in court with an inch and a half cut on his forehead, said to have been inflicted with a cleaver wielded by one of the attendants. The altercation started, it was said, when Crain found a fly in his chop suey. Crain, a former newspaper man and stock broker, resides at 1855 Wyoming avenue northwest.

U. S. INQUIRY OF GAS FIRM'S SALE IS URGED

SUSPECTS TRUST SCHEME

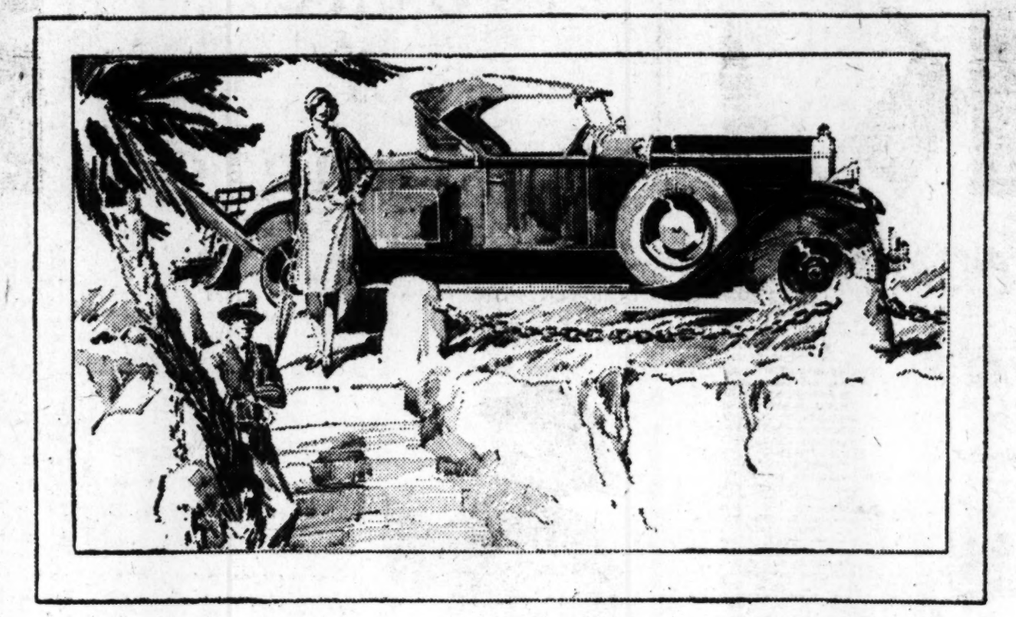
Formal request to Attorney General Mitchell that he direct the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice to conduct an inquiry into sale of controlling interest of the Washington Gas Light Co. is to be made by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the District Public Utilities Commission.

Informal request for such an investigation was made Monday by William W. Bride, corporation counsel, in a conversation with J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the department, and Patrick, at a conference with Bride yesterday, asked that the corporation counsel draft a formal request to be transmitted to the Attorney General. This is expected to go forward today.

D. A. Pearson, who engineered the campaign to buy controlling interest in the gas company here, is connected with the New York brokerage firm of Pinchon & Co., it is said, and District officials want to know whether the real purchasers of the gas stock are persons whose ownership would make the sale of the company a violation of the antitrust law.

The request for help in ascertaining the true ownership of the stock was made of the Department of Justice because of the lack of facilities at the command of the District government to do the necessary work. Chief Investigator Hoover, in his conversation with Bride, indicated that favorable consideration would be given to the request, but declared that nothing could be done until a formal request had been presented.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE
PACKARD



Greatest Spring Sales in History

PACKARD sold more cars in the month of May than in any May in the company's history. April before it was the greatest April in point of sales that Packard has ever enjoyed.

After all, the motoring public is the final judge of merit — and the greatest spring business in Packard's thirty years of history can only be a tribute to the quality and reputation of Packard cars.

Even more important is the tribute to Packard supremacy found in the records of Packard ownership.

Two-thirds of all Packard Standard Eight business comes from those who give up other makes of cars to become Packard owners. This is most significant when country-wide records indicate that ninety-six per cent of all Packard owners remain in the Packard family—replace their old Packards with new ones.

These figures prove that Packard leadership is not only established, but month by month is becoming more outstanding.

More Packards Sold Than Any Other Eight

Packard is selling and delivering more eight-cylinder cars than any other manufacturer in the world—is truly the largest builder of fine cars. A growing clientele, appreciative of the straight-eight principle and a single standard of highest quality, has rewarded Packard with a gratifying patronage.

If you are considering the purchase of a new car, investigate the three Packard Straight-Eight lines—Standard, Custom and De Luxe. Prices range from $2275 to $5985 at the factory. You can buy now or at any season with confidence, for Packard does not depreciate the characteristic Packard beauty and distinction by frequent and radical changes in design. A Packard is always a Packard.

Our facilities for handling used cars are excellent. When may we appraise your present car and put a Packard Eight at your disposal for a demonstration drive? A phone call will bring the Packard to your door.

If you prefer to buy out of income, instead of capital, you will find the Packard Payment Plan most attractive. Many take possession of their new cars without any cash outlay — and with the small monthly payments made smaller because the used car allowance exceeds the down payment on the new car more entries each hour and a number of contestants already are qualified to have screen tests made.

Maj. Lee Reappointed To War Memorial Body

The ten best screen tests made will be submitted to the Fox executives, and from them this great film company may choose one or all as the "types" for which they have been seeking. Directors and producers have been scouting the Nation for new faces for the films, and The Post-Fox contest is just what the doctor ordered. Any one is eligible to compete, and beauty is not a qualification in the contest.

John E. Campbell, director-producer of The Post-Fox contest, reported yesterday that contestants ranging in age from 12 to 68 years of age had entered in the competition. Character actors and actresses, child stars and young men and women are needed by all the motion picture companies. Huge salaries await those who make good. The Washington Post is offering the chance of a lifetime to "crash" the usually impregnable gate of moviedom.

Girls who participated in The Washington Post's "Coquette" contest recently, by which Miss Janet Coon won a trip to Hollywood, are among the forerunners in the screen test contest. Miss Dorothy Brandt, 1420 Harvard street, one of the first five in the "Coquette" contest, has obtained the six subscriptions to The Sunday Post necessary to assure her a screen test, as has Mary Shomette, another of the "Coquette" girls.

There is everything to gain and nothing to lose in the making of this screen test. The winners all may be children, all may be young men or women or all elderly people. Only the camera can decide. Of course, it is probable that there will be various ages represented when the final ten are selected. From these ten, all of whom will receive six-month passes to the Fox Theater, the Fox Film Corporation may select one for an offer of a place among the actors and actresses whose names now adorn the billboards of the movie houses.

Six subscriptions this week, eight next week or ten the third week are the requirement. The sooner you start, the easier it is to qualify for the screen test. John E. Campbell, fourth floor of The Post Building, Main 4205, will give you all the information you need and the necessary subscription blanks. Your screen test may surprise you. Many an "unknown" has been raised to stardom overnight. This is your chance.

Motoring is at its best in the springtime. Among the used cars advertised in the classified columns of The Post are to be found all types, sizes and prices.

"THE VALIANT" ALL-TALKING FOX MOVIETONE TRIUMPH
now at the FOX, F at 14th
"The Evening Star" said:

"In the short and spasmodic history of the sound picture 'The Valiant' looms as a triumph and a promise. For sheer dramatic power and for a truthful handling of human emotions, it holds rank among the few great pictures that have been produced since the cinema was recognized as an artistic medium.

"The triumph of 'The Valiant' is twofold. First of all, it marks a step toward sincerity and dramatic truth that is rare in the movies; secondly, it is a great personal achievement for its star, Paul Muni.

LARGEST AIR LETTER BROUGHT TO HOOVER

Score of Cleveland Citizens Travel in Three Planes to the Capital.

MISSIVE IS 5 FEET LONG

Escorted by a score of Cleveland citizens in three planes, the largest letter ever to be delivered by air mail arrived at the Anacostia Naval Air Station late yesterday afternoon. The letter will be delivered to President Hoover today by John D. Marshall, Mayor Cleveland.

Measuring about 3 feet wide by 5 feet long, it is an invitation to the President to attend the national air races at Cleveland in August. One hundred thousand schoolchildren of the Ohio city signed it.

Early in the afternoon a group of Cleveland newspaper men arrived in a Lockheed Vega monoplane, followed shortly by a Martin cabin biplane carrying the letter, in charge of Maj. T. J. Herbert, commander of the aviation unit of the Ohio National Guard, and Lieut. Frank J. McManamon, U. S. N. R. The plane was piloted by Edward Rembert.

The final plane of the convoy, a trimotored Ford, arrived at 7:30, with a party of fifteen, including Mayor Marshall. They were met by Lieut. Comdr. R. F. Molte, aid to David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics.

After landing, the party was driven to the Carlton Hotel, where they will spend the brief time they are in Washington. They expect to hop off again for Cleveland about 1 o'clock today.

Shot Man Refuses To Prosecute Wife

U. S. Attorney Asks Nolle Prosse in Affray at Police Court.

A charge of assault with intent to kill against Mrs. May C. Brown, 40 years old, of 815 C street northeast, which grew out of the shooting of her husband, Charles A. Brown, 40 years old, in the Police Court Building last February 1, was dropped yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover.

When the case was called for trial before Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in the District Supreme Court, the Government counsel entered a nolle prosse, announcing that Brown declined to prosecute his wife.

The shooting occurred after a Police Court magistrate had granted continuance of a trial of statutory charges against Brown and Miss Lillian Johnson. Mrs. Brown encountered her husband and the other woman as they emerged from the courtroom, and, in a fit of anger, shot her husband five times.

Hoover Is Praised By Religious Press

Achievements Are Lauded as Editorial Council Ends Meeting.

A resolution commending President Hoover for the achievements already attained under his leadership looking to the peace of the world, for his resolute course for the full enforcement of the prohibition law, and his conservation of "the vital spiritual values of the Nation," yesterday was adopted by the Editorial Council of the Religious Press at the final session of its annual meeting at the Washington Hotel.

President Hoover has availed himself of the new and sincere evidences of friendly statesmanship in Great Britain, the resolution stated; has lent to Europe the technical skill and cooperation of distinguished Americans, with satisfying results; has manifested a disposition to promote the mutual welfare in Mexico and in all countries to the south by the spirit of equality and fraternity rather than by superior economic and political force; and by his plain teaching and personal example, inspired the respect of his countrymen and their reasonable hopes for actual brotherhood among all peoples.

The Proper Cleaning of RUGS and CARPETS

IT cannot be denied that proper and thorough cleaning not only improves the appearance but prolongs materially the usefulness of floor coverings.

These results however cannot be attained by "hit or miss" methods. Each fabric carries its own problem — the satisfactory solution of which is primarily one of the selection of the proper cleaning method.

More than 86 years of experience and intimate knowledge of the manufacture and care of rugs and carpets guides us in this important matter.

You clean your car daily or weekly for appearance and wear. Why not clean your floor coverings once a year for exactly the same reasons?

Telephone Main 7262 for our representative to call and give fuller information and estimate on cleaning, repairing and storage.

Symphony to Play Italian Music on Air

De Loca and Stanburg Will Sing Arias From Leading Composers; Request Program on WMAL. Maryland Hour, WBAL.

A broadcast based exclusively on works of Italian composers will be heard as the Mobiloil Concert at 7 o'clock tonight, via WRC. The symphony orchestra, under the direction of Erno Rapee, will be assisted by Adelaide de Loca, contralto, and Douglas Stansbury, barytone, two well-known radio vocalists. The complete program follows:

"Dance of the Hours," from "La Gioconda" (Ponchielli), orchestra; "Had You But Known" (Denza), Miss de Loca; "The Voice of the Chimes" (Luigini), orchestra; "Largo al Factitum," from "Barber of Seville" (Rosini), Mr. Stansbury, and "Carnival of Venice," orchestra.

Phil Dewey, barytone, will be the featured soloist of the Happy Wonder Bakers at 7:30 o'clock from WRC. As an appropriate contribution, Dewey will sing "Little Grey Home in the West." He came to New York from his farm home in Rochester, Ind. Dewey received high honors in music at Indiana University, was awarded scholarships at the Juilliard Musical Institute in New York, and has played in "Lady Do" and "Good News." He is a member of the Happy Wonder Bakers Trio.

Another program of popular favorites of the past and present will be broadcast in the Palmolive hour over the coast-to-coast network of the NBC at 8:30 o'clock. Olive Palmer's solos will be "Lo! Hear the Gentle Lark" and "The Glow Worm." With Paul Oliver she will sing the tenor-soprano duet, "You Were Meant for Me." The Revelers will sing "Moonlight on the Ganges," "Baby's Awake Now" and "The Scandinavian Girl."

The slumber music selections for 10 o'clock include the overture to "Der Freischutz" (Weber), "First Symphony" (Beethoven), "Slavonic Dance" (Dvorak), "Ballet Suite" (Gretry), "Entr'acte" from "Rosamunde" (Schubert), and "Elegie" (Massenet).

The United Symphony Orchestra, with George Rymer, tenor, will present a light musical program in a broadcast from WMAL at 8 o'clock. The overture to Offenbach's "Orpheus" will open the hour, followed by Johnson's "Butterflies." George Rymer has selected Mendelssohn's "Wings of Song," "Dream Cloud" by Shure, and, as a contrast to the rest of this hour, Schumann's "The Two Grenadiers." Victor Herbert's "Chinese Wedding March" will be the closing selection by the orchestra.

Dale Wimbrow, song writer and radio entertainer, will sing some of his own original compositions as a feature of the La Palina Smoker at 8:30 o'clock. His latest numbers are "That's What I Call Heaven," "Wife o' Mine" and "Every Moon's a Honeymoon."

The program to be heard during the Kolster Radio Hour from WMAL will be as follows:

"Pastorale Symphony," first movement, Beethoven; "Valse Brillante," Chopin; Scherzo, from "String Quartette Opus 18, No. 4," Beethoven; prelude to "Tristan and Isolde," Wagner, and "Dreams of Love," and "It Is Night," Mrs. V. D. Black.

A DX request program will be broadcast by Stanley Bell and Les Colvin, from WMAL, at 11 o'clock.

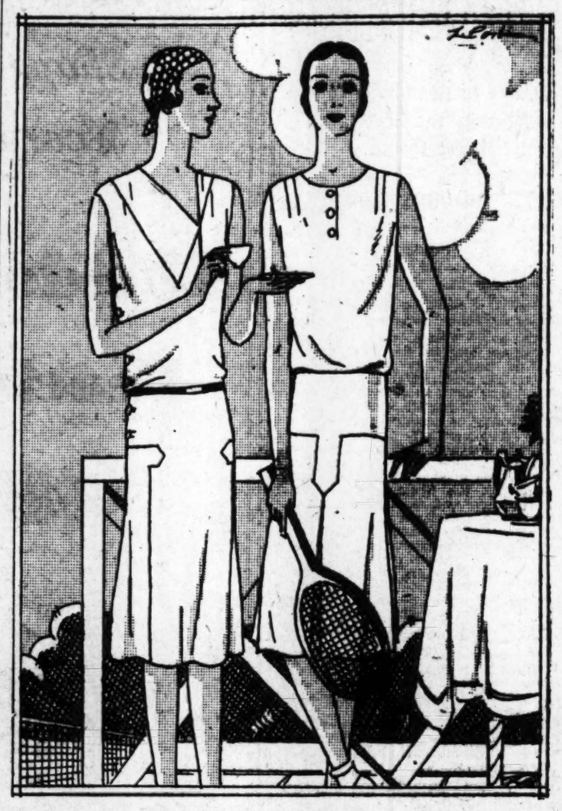
WJSV will be on the air at 11:30 o'clock this morning with a musical program, followed by a farm news program, a current events period, and farm reports.

The Civic Hour will be presented at 6:30 o'clock, followed by the Castillians. Hook Kennedy, the Jolly Scot, and Grace Stanley Stevens will be heard in a joint recital at 10 o'clock.

The Marylanders Hour will be broadcast by Station WBL, Baltimore, from 10 to 11 o'clock. Station WPG, Atlantic City, will offer an hour of dance music, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Funds have been appropriated by the Seventieth Congress for the expansion of the market news service for the South, administered by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture. The Department's broadcast at 4:30 o'clock today from WRC will tell the Southern farmers what they may expect when this supplemental service is put into operation.

From Tennis to Tea



The tennis court, as always, will be a center of activity this summer in the country and at the seashore. It will be the setting for many small dramas, both in championship sets and sartorial triumphs. In the latter the player and the spectator will be as interesting as the love games themselves.

Types of costumes, which are equal successes on the court, the bleachers and at the tea table are shown in the illustration. Tuck-in blouses have a youthful appeal that is paramount this season, but only the woman with the slight figure will wear them to superb advantage. The silk crepe blouse on the figure at the right is a simple one with a round neck and no sleeves. The skirt won with it uses white jersey for fabric. It has a neatly shaped yoke with three inverted pleats to give it fullness. The other costume is one of the delightfully simple sleeveless models that are so well adapted to cottons Here, men's shirting is the fabric. Its irregular neckline is finished with a collar. Shaped circular godets trim the skirt, and there are buttons and buttonholes up the sides of the blouse.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AMBITIONS.

"Why do they struggle and what do they seek,
Who go to their labors, week by week?
What's in the minds of them all?" said he.
And I said: "It's as simple as it can be.

"These thousands of toilers who pass us by
Are just as ambitious as you and I.
And the things they seek in the dust and din
Are the self-same things which we hope to win.

"Piano lessons for children small,
Something new for the home they know,
And a little garden where roses grow.

"They are working not only that they may live.
Their dreams are of something which they can give.
Back in their minds, if we only knew,
Are the self-same ends which we keep in view."

Mrs. Hoover Will Speak To 4-H Clubs

Program to Be Broadcast From WRC on Saturday Night, Marine Band to play; Radio Beacon Service Is Extended.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover heads the list of speakers to address a coast-to-coast radio audience when the annual program of the 4-H Club for boys and girls is broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co. on Saturday night at 10 o'clock.

It will not be the first radio talk by Mrs. Hoover, but it will be the first time the "first lady's" voice has been heard simultaneously in all parts of the country. She consented to face the microphone for the sake of the young members of the 4-H Club, for whom she is believed to have a particular message.

The entire program originates in Washington, where the annual camp gathering of the 4-H Club will be held. Other speakers include the presiding officer, Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of extension work for the United States Department of Agriculture; Isabel Bevier, dean emritus of home economics at Illinois University; Dean A. R. Mann, of Cornell University, and prize-winning members of the club.

Musical features will be provided by the United States Marine Band.

to steer a "bee line" course from airport to airport has now been extended west of Cleveland by completion of a radio range installation at Goshen, Ind., according to an announcement from the Department of Commerce.

The new directive radiobeacon is located about two miles west of the town and lays out a course due east and west, it will be effective from the Toledo airport in Ohio to the Lansing airport in Michigan.

At Toledo the course joins up with that established by the Cleveland radio range, and at Lansing it will connect up with radio range being installed at Cicero Field at Chicago.

The Goshen radio range operates on a frequency of 284 kilocycles, and it transmits the letters "A" and "N" which interlock to form a long dash on the course. The letter "A" will be heard in the northwest and southeast quadrants and the letter "N" in the northeast, southwest quadrants.

The Goshen radio range, as well as other radio ranges between Chicago and New York, will be operated at any time upon request from pilots of airplanes equipped with radio receiving sets. The requests should be made to any of the department's airways communication stations. They will also be operated when thick weather or bad flying conditions prevail.

An 8-month-old baby that not only sits at a piano and thumps the keys, but thumps them loudly and with gusto, has been found in Woobdine, N. J. Milton J. Cross, announcer and director of the National Broadcasting Co., Sunday morning children's program from WJZ, received a letter from the baby's mother, Mrs. Frederick Bowers, telling of its talent. Mrs. Bowers offered to allow the infant to take part in one of the programs.

What Today Means to You

"Gemini."

If June 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

There will be a tendency to talk too much on this day. "From trivial affairs great contests oft arise." Keep your secrets to yourself! This is a poor time to divulge new plans. Do not believe half that you hear!

Children born June 19 will not be naturally industrious, and work must be made attractive to them. They will, however, be ambitious, and their ambitions will always be a bait to prod them on to achievement. They will be exceedingly proud, and could easily become snobs.

You are very temperate in all things; you do not seek excesses; you drain no pleasure to the lees. By being master of self, you are able to be master of all situations in which you may find yourself. Your judgment is usually very sane and correct. You are cautious, but not cowardly; courageous, but not foolhardy.

Hard work, study, perseverance and originality will be the corner stones of your success. You can command, for you are willing to obey. As an executive of any kind, you liberally encourage and praise your assistants. You do not seek all the glories for yourself. You speak plainly and frankly, but never without diplomacy. You can tell the truth without stinging or hurting, for you are kind, and just. You have a very sympathetic ear, but you are very close mouthed in regard to your own affairs. You neither brag about your victories, nor moan about your failures. You have generous impulses, but you are wise enough to guard your own interests. You are careful, but not niggardly. Your tastes are good, but not extravagant. You will not fall in love readily, but when you do love, it will be the real thing.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A RECENT visit to London afforded an opportunity to study English fashions of this season at first hand. One of the best places for this, naturally, is the theater, and at a performance of "Big Fleas—" we saw a number of interesting toilettes.

A day dress worn by one of the principals was of red and white printed crepe de chine. The underdress was very tight, and the flat box-pleated tunic was edged in beige and a darker red. This was completed by a little fichu collar of beige lace, and was worn with a crepella coat.

An attractive pajama suit worn by another principal was most attractive, being cut on nautical lines, with flaring trousers. The armholes and neckline of the sleeveless jumper were trimmed in lace, and three-cornered lace pockets were placed on each side. This was of peach-colored satin, and the three-quarter length coat was of peach georgette, with circular flounces.

A stunning evening gown of ivory satin beaute was worn by still another member of the cast. The bodice was embroidered in strass in diverging stripes. The skirt was very long at the back, flaring at the sides, and was edged in sable fur. Incrustations of the same satin on curved lines provides the final touch of beauty.

Another bow to modernism has been made by the manufacturers of toilet articles, and the new dresser sets of modernistic designs are surpassingly beautiful! Can't you just see one a couple of centuries hence being considered "quaint" and typically mid-vio something or other by your sufferistic-ated granddaughter?

There was one set, a mirror, comb and brush of heavy silver finished in dark grey. The handles to the mirror and brush were long and straight with square corners, while the bodies were square with the corners cut diagonally. The comb was simple and straight and had also diagonal corners. Oh!

Croise (krwah-zay)—twilled.

A beach ensemble for every occasion is provided by the ingenuous outfit I illustrated for you today. The bathing suit worn underneath is a blue, white and yellow jersey. Long beach trousers of yellow jersey—if you take kindly to this type of pajama—can be worn with or without the jacket. This jacket is blue, white and yellow jersey—and then, what? A blue pleated skirt, and the bathing suit becomes a daytime ensemble!

Two very smart beach robes are in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you may send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. Should you have no particular desire for a beach robe, they will do very nicely indeed for bathrobes!

You will be greatly interested in Mme. Dare's weekly letter in the Sunday Post. Look for it.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Ways of the Coconut.

How many eyes has a coconut?

That may sound like a riddle, but it is just a simple question which you can doubtless answer if you have ever seen a coconut without the outside husk.

A coconut has three "eyes" or soft spots. You can open the shell at these places much more easily than at any other part of the shell. People sometimes drink the milk of a cocoanut through holes made at the soft places, but that was not Nature's purpose in providing the "eyes."

What Nature wanted to do was to help the growth of new coconut trees. A coconut may be called an overgrown seed. From the hole above a young shoot starts out and it will turn into trunk and palm leaves. From the two holes below roots will come forth and bury themselves in the ground.

After growing for seven years, the coconut palm will bear about fifteen nuts. Three years later it will produce from 50 to 70 nuts a year. The nuts are clustered around the trunk.

Coconut trees grow in the tropics. It has been said that monkeys sometimes pick off the nuts and throw them at people who come near, but I can not guarantee that story.

There are many uses for coconuts. The milk is a refreshing drink (for those who like it) and the "meat" may be used for food. Probably you have eaten coconut cookies or cakes with coconut in the frosting.

Sometimes the coconut meat is pressed for oil instead of being eaten. The oil may be used for making soap or candles, as well as for the "butter" known as margarine.

A great part of the coconut crop comes from trees growing wild, the nuts being gathered by natives and sold at shipping ports. Success has been found, however, in planting and raising "tame" coconut trees, and groves of such trees have brought big returns in the Philippine Islands.

STOCKS REACT LATE WITH PROFIT TAKING

CALL FUNDS 7 PER CENT

New York, June 18 (A.P.).—The recovery in stock prices, which has been underway for a fortnight, showed signs of petering out today on the approach of the expected midyear credit stringency. While the bulk of the day's activity was on the side of rising prices, with at least a score of issues pushed into new high ground. Professional traders took profits freely in the late trading on the belief that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction. Closing quotations disclosed marked irregularity.

Resumption of the flow of gold from Great Britain to New York, with takings of $7,000,000 reported in London today, was one of the most important financial developments of the day. This was expected to alleviate the midyear credit strain which has become decidedly involved this year through the calling for payment of more than $1,000,000 in stock subscription "rights."

Call money held steady at 7 per cent all day, with a fair supply available due to the heavy accumulation of funds here by large corporations, in preparation for July 1 disbursements, but bankers look for a stiffening within the next day or two. Time money showed further relaxation, with all maturities available at 8 per cent. Widespread publicity was given to a statement by Arthur Reynolds, Chicago banker, that a relaxation of the Federal Reserve Board's credit policy was likely in order to facilitate the movement and storage of crops.

New Utility Holding Company.

Official announcement was made during the day of the organization of the third large public utility holding company by the Morgan interests. This apparently stimulated the demand for the public utility and electrical equipment issues, new high records being established by American Power & Light, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Standard Gas & Electric, General Electric and Westinghouse Manufacturing. Profit-taking cut down some of the gains.

The Associated Press index of 20 leading public utilities registered another new high record, on a gain of nearly 5 points. The indices of 50 industrials and 20 rails showed small net declines. Trading continued moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales falling just below 3,350,000 shares.

Despite the fact that second quarter earnings of the General Motors Corporation are expected to set a new high record for that period, and first half-year earnings of other manufacturers are likely to make excellent comparison with the same period a year ago, the motor stocks showed signs of heaviness.

Price Cuts Are Feared.

Selling presumably was based on the theory that the increasingly keen competition may bring about price cuts and impair profits in the last six months. Graham-Paige, in which a new pool has just been formed, was a conspicuous exception, retaining 2¾ points of its extreme gain of 4 points. General Motors, Chrysler and Studebaker lost a point or more and Auburn dropped 2½.

Further selling also developed in such recent favorites as Commonwealth Power, Lago Oil, Michigan Steel, Montgomery-Ward, National Distillers, Murray Corporation, Sears Roebuck, F. G. Shattuck, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Wright Aeronautical, all off 2 to 4 points.

Baldwin Locomotive, which will shortly announce a 4-for-1 stock split-up, according to current rumors, jumped 18½ points. A. M. Byers, International Telephone and R. H. Macy also were conspicuously strong.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling showed a slightly firmer tendency presumably in reflection of the demand for bills to pay for gold imports. French francs advanced to another new 1929 high and the Argentine Peso Bank to a new low.

Wheat and corn advanced about a cent a bushel and cotton closed unchanged to 50 cents a bale lower, with weather reports the chief influence in all markets.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 18 (A.P.).—Reports pointing to necessity for soaking rains in the spring wheat region south of the Canadian line led to late upturns in wheat values today. Besides, there were persistent advices that parts of Alberta Province, Canada, are yet badly short of moisture and that farm relief plans are already taking shape. Under such circumstances, offerings of wheat future delivery contracts here became scarce toward the last and buyers were in a decided majority.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong 1c to 1¼c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼c to 1c up, oats at ¾c decline to a shade advance, and provisions varying from 3c setback to a rise of 17c.

Highest prices of the day in wheat were reached just as dealings came to an end. The fact was evident that the pit had been drained of surplus offerings early. Commission houses were active buyers during price breaks, which took effect at the outset of business and which resulted largely from news of future rains in Canada on top of yesterday's downpours. Unlooked for sharpness of declines in Liverpool quotations today tended also to promote early setbacks here, and so likewise did favorable European and domestic crop reports, especially dispatches saying Kansas wheat was maturing fast and should be moving to market freely by July 1.

Much late buying of wheat futures today, though came about on account of trade gossip that plans for making farm relief effecting with greater promptness than was generally assumed would be the case, have been authoritatively outlined in advance. Talk was also current that steps to start a wheat stabilization body to work under the new farm board have likewise been taken. Meanwhile, some freshly harvested wheat from the Southwest is rapidly going so faraway centers, a notable instance being one shipment from Oklahoma which has reached millers at Minneapolis, grading there as No. 1 hard.

Unfavorable wheat threshing returns from parts of the Southwest, principally Oklahoma, were also a subject of considerable notice near the end of the day. In some quarters, fear was expressed that recent high expectations concerning the wheat yield in Oklahoma would not be realized, and that a similar condition prevails in the southern part of Kansas.

Corn and oats sympathized with the late strength of wheat. Rural sales of corn to arrive were small compared to what was looked for, and a good shipping demand here was in evidence. Reports were also heard that a large organization of growers has advised the holding back of corn at present prices.

Provisions held within narrow limits and developed only moderate activity.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS ARE HEAVILY TRADED

FOREIGN GROUP IS DULL

New York, June 18 (A.P.).—Dealings in two convertible issues, American Telephone 4½s and International Telephone 4½s, completely overshadowed the remainder of the bond list today.

The former had a turnover of approximately $2,700,000, par value, and closed 1⅝ net higher at 127¼, the best price in several weeks, on the strength of the stock into which it may be converted after January 1. The International Telephone issue jumped 5½ points to 131½, a new high, on sales of about $470,000, par value. The two telephone bonds accounted for nearly one-third of the total business for the day.

Other convertibles also found higher ground, notably Public Service of New Jersey 4½s, which made a new 1929 high at 217½ after a rise of 9 points, thus more than recovering yesterday's slump. Sales of this bond, however, were small.

With time money at 8 per cent for all maturities, other sections of the list responded to somewhat better sentiment, with the result that the combined price average of representative issues moved up. Rails, utilities and steel company obligations absorbed most of the interest, and although selling depressed quotations in spots, the trend was to slightly higher ground.

Rails making the best response to the moderately broad inquiry for obligations in this group included Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific general 4s and refunding 4s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Pennsylvania consolidated 4s and general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Southern Pacific refunding 4s, Southern Railway general 4s and Union Pacific refunding 4s. Canadian National 4s, Seaboard All Florida 6s, Wabash 5s and New York Central 4s receded fractionally.

Among the utilities, strength developed in Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, New York Telephone 6s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s and North American Edison 5s.

The industrial list was marked by activity in some of the steel issues, and the price changes were mostly upward. Illinois Steel 4½s moved up a point, Indiana Steel 5s advanced ½ and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s improved ⅜. Lackawanna 5s lost nearly a point.

United States Government issues found enough support to gain small fractions. Foreign bonds were dull, the feature being Kingdom of Italy 7s, which made a net advance of ¼ on a moderately heavy turnover.

MACKS ROUT HADLEY AND BRAXTON IN 7-6 TRIUMPH

PETE AND POP —Turfmen True— ARE MISSED

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, June 18.—If the life and adventures of Old Pop Cheek, the one-horse campaigner of the leaky-roof tracks were substantially as they have been reported since his death last winter, the more is the pity that Peter Burnaugh had to die before him. Peter was a young man from the Blue Grass section of Kentucky, who could write the smell of sweaty horse-leather, the muffled stomp of hoofs in a stall and the leggedy scamper of a new foal into a piece for the papers.

I would not say that he was the only one in his time who could put a horse-race or a derby crowd into breathless phrases, but when it came to writing about the horses themselves and some, but not many, of the people connected with the horse business, he worked with a feeling something like Kipling's feeling for the British Tommy. He never would have called it the horse-business, either.

Racing Was a Devotion, Not a Business, to Pete.

It was distinctly not a business but a devotion to Pete. He did not care particularly for the owners of race horses as a class, because he realized that any crapshooter, bootlegger or suddenly rich speculator with social ambitions could buy a string at the sales, pick out a set of colors and become an owner. He had seen no few of them do so, with consequences that stirred resentment and aroused a certain snobbishness in him.

For trainers he had a distinct aversion, regarding most of them as constitutional liars and the best of them as no better than the high-pressure football coach, who sweats the athletes and hops them up with psychology for revenue only.

But for breeders, and especially for the Lexington breeders, with whom he neighbored around, Peter had a regard which, I imagine, corresponded to Kipling's for the British officers. If you ask me why such a writer left no books, but only some withered newspaper pieces behind him, I can only insist that he was all I say he was, nevertheless and explain that he always was going to write fiction some day, like many another good writer for the dailies, and was still going to do it some day when he died.

Pop Not Mentioned Among Three Civil War Pensioners.

Peter died a couple of years ago about this time of the year. Old Pop Cheek was found dead in a stall at Havana last winter with his last horse, Basha, standing over him. He had claimed to be 104 years old and to have soldiered in the Mexican War, as well as in the Civil War.

As to whether he really soldiered in Mexico there is no way of knowing definitely. I noticed a small piece in the papers just lately stating that there had been, I think, only three pensioners of that campaign on the Government roll as lately as a year back, and saw no mention of Tom Cheek's name. Still, there was considerable unofficial warring down that way, and Pop may have served in some informal command. Or it could be that he came out of it fit and able and too independent to bother about wheedling a few dollars a month out of the Government in connivance with some rural politician.

At any rate, he was independent enough to go it alone, and I can set forth enough material taken from the clippings and little grabs of reminiscence to intimate what a story the old man might have been. Peter Burnaugh should have attended to Pop Cheek, though. He knew how.

Virginia Was Horse Country When Pop Was a Lad.

Pop, then, began riding horses down in Virginia 92 years ago, when he was 12 years old. This would have been not long after President Andrew Jackson wrote a letter from the White House to the Maryland Jockey Club accepting the honorary membership but declining to attend the races because "I experience in the advance of old age that change in the relish of amusements which would lead me, as a matter of choice, not to partake of those of the turf."

Virginia was serious horse-country when Pop Cheek was born there. The diary of a prominent Virginian named George Washington, who lived just a generation before him, contains an itemized list of his expenses attending the races at Annapolis.

These include, besides, some purchases for which he might be shot in the back under government auspices today an item one pound, six shillings lost on the races and a final entry

Upsets Mark Golf Tourney Of Women

Mrs. Nicolson Wins Way to Finals Aided by 79 Card.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MRS. DOROTHY WHITE NICOLSON, the defending champion, and Mrs. J. M. Haynes, the medalist in the qualification round, yesterday survived the first round of match play in the women's annual District golf championship now being played on the course of the Columbia Country Club. As they are in opposing brackets, there is a possibility that they will meet in the final round Friday, although the other six players still remaining in the championship flight may occasion an upset. Both Mrs. Haynes and Mrs. Nicolson had easy matches yesterday, although the brand of golf exhibited by the latter would have discomfited the best woman player in this section, Mrs. Nicolson, who missed the qualification medal by two strokes, had a card yesterday of 40 out and 39 for a total of 79, establishing a new woman's record for the course.

Mrs. Nicolson Misses Chance for 78.

She had a fine opportunity to reduce her score to 78, for on the eighteenth green she took two putts instead of one to hole out from a distance of 5 feet. Her card:

Out—5 5 5 3 5 5 5 3 4—40
In —5 5 5 2 5 3 4 4 6—39

Quite unexpectedly three well-known women players yesterday passed out of the first sixteen into the consolation flight. The trio were Mrs. L. O. Cameron, who recently won the Siamese Cup for women at Chevy Chase, playing the final round in 78; Mrs. H. A. Knox, Congressional, a frequent winner in women's tournaments, and Miss Susan Hacker, Chevy Chase, and winner of the French High Commission Cup for women in the early part of this season. They will find competition, however, in the defeated eight, for among the losers yesterday are many good players, including Mrs. Perry B. Hoover, champion of the Indian Spring Club.

19-Hole Struggle One Of Day's Features.

The card of Mrs. Nicolson and the 19-hole struggle which ended in a victory for Mrs. J. L. Fieser, Washington, over Mrs. E. M. McClelland, Manor, in the third flight, were the features of yesterday's play.

It so happens that the four players who are matched against each other and who will lead the procession from the first tee this morning will not have easy victories, no matter who wins. Mrs. Haynes is paired against Mrs. S. F. Colladay, the champion of the Columbia Club, and they have met many times in the past in club and sectional events with varying results. Mrs. B P

Al Brown Strengthens Claim to World Title

Brown, already recognized as 118-pound king by the National Boxing Association, outclased the courageous little Spaniard and dropped him three times in the thirteenth round.

Test Nearing For Yankees And Macks

Babe Ruth in Line-Up; A's Due to Slump, Harris Believes.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, June 18 (U.P.).—The big test comes for the Philadelphia Athletics this week when they meet the New York Yankees in a five-game series in three days at Yankee Stadium, beginning Friday.

Up until now, no team has been able to check the Athletics and they have piled up a big lead in the run-away American League race.

Unless the Athletics are playing way over their heads, Connie Mack has assembled one of the great baseball machines of recent years. The Athletics have gotten off to one of the fastest starts in history. It took the Yankees until July 4 last season to pile up their 13½-game lead which was later whittled completely away by the Athletics.

A's Have Overpowered All Opposition.

Apparently it will take a crushing blow from the Yankees, similar to the one they dealt the Athletics in the vital September series last season, to prevent Connie Mack's Club from coasting home to the pennant.

The swift pace set by the Athletics can't be kept up all season unless Connie Mack has a super ball club. The Athletics did not lose two games in a row all season until this week.

Thus far the Athletics have been able to overpower all opposition, winning most of their games by wide margins. They have had several long winning streaks, including one of thirteen games. They have won 24 out of their last 29 games.

What would happen to the Athletics if the Yankees took five straight or four out of five from Philadelphia lends itself to unlimited discussion.

Macks Due for Fall, Says Bucky Harris.

Bucky Harris, Detroit manager, believes the Athletics are overdue for a slump.

"The Athletics are not invincible," Harris said. "They are playing wonderful baseball right now, but I don't think they can keep it up. The time is ripe for the Yankees to start the Athletics downhill. If the Athletics should win a majority of games in the coming series, they may never be headed."

Ty Cobb, veteran American League star, who closed his career with Athletics, does not think the Yankees can beat Connie Mack's team this season.

"The Athletics have acquired a winning psychology this season," he said before sailing for Europe Saturday. "I don't think the Yanks can win the pennant even if they sweep the coming series. The Athletics have learned not to lose heart when they drop a few games. That last September series against the Yankees helped to make the Athletics a great team."

Mack has Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw primed to work against the Yankees. Grove has won ten out of eleven games. Earnshaw has won his last six games. Walberg has won seven out of nine. Quinn, who has won seven out of nine, also will work in the series.

Cubs Turn on Cards To Win Easily, 13 to 6

Chicago, June 18 (A.P.).—Chicago hammered Harold Haid from the mound in the fifth and defeated St. Louis, 13 to 6, in the second game of the series here today.

Hack Wilson led the Chicago assault with his twelfth and thirteenth home runs of the season. The second came with the bases filled in the fifth.

Sheriff Blake ended a long losing streak that had reached eight straight, but he couldn't finish the game. He was relieved by Guy Bush in the seventh.

Manager McCarthy of the Cubs switched his line-up and put Hornsby in third place in the batting order. Cuyler was dropped to fifth and Wilson returned to the clean-up role.

Robins Defeat Giants Twice, 7-6 and 8-7

Brooklyn, June 18 (A.P.).—Babe Herman's home run over the right field wall in the ninth inning of the second game against the Giants put the finishing touches upon a perfect afternoon for the Robins. Brooklyn won the first game, 8 to 7, and the second, 7 to 6.

Bill Terry got nine hits, one a homer, in ten times at bat in the two games. Melvin Ott got his fifteenth homer in the first contest.

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, June 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Unless Dame Rumor is talking through her bonnet again, Rabbit Maranville is in imminent danger of being appointed manager of the Boston Braves. President Emil Fuchs, who startled the baseball world by assuming the field direction of the team this spring, although his experience in the pastime had been confined entirely to the counting house, is reported ready to step down. For a time it looked as if the judge might confound his critics, for until May 9 his odd assortment of athletes led the National League procession.

But, as water will find its level in time, so will a team like the Braves, and in the latter case the time was short. They shot down the league ladder like firemen sliding down a station house pole, barely pausing on successive rungs. The early season collapse of the Cincinnati Reds is keeping them out of the cellar at the current writing, but the Braves threaten to occupy that position within a week or so.

Rabbit's Managerial Career Short But Hectic.

The appointment of Maranville as manager would occasion almost as much surprise as Fuch's appointment of himself did. Most fans will recall Maranville's short but hectic career as manager of the Chicago Cubs in 1925. In seven weeks as helmsman the Rabbit steered the dizziest course ever seen in big league waters. His convivial habits and penchant for getting into trouble previously had caused his dismissal by the Braves, with whom he served eight years, and by the Pirates after a four-year term. After his dismissal as manager of the Cubs, he was shipped to the Brooklyn Robins. But the Rabbit had not reformed, and soon drew his unconditional release.

After signing with the Rochester club of the International League in 1927, he publicly announced that he was through with the stuff that cheers and also inebriates. He played great ball and was brought back to the big tent by the St. Louis Cardinals, playing a big part in their pennant-winning campaign last season.

Preferring a younger man—the Rabbit will be 37 next November—the Cards last winter let him go back to Boston, where he has been playing fins ball on a demoralized club. His belated reformation "took," and fans all over the country, to whom he has given many a laugh and many a thrill, would be glad to see him take over the Braves and make good as a manager.

Rowing, Total Monetary Loss, Balks Professionals.

One reason why intercollegiate rowing is one amateur sport that is wholly free from the odor of professionalism is that as a revenue producer it is much more than a total loss. It costs Columbia, for instance, about $40,000 a year to be represented on the water. Other institutions which go in for the sport on a larger scale pay, of course, a correspondingly greater price for the indulgence. It will cost California around $18,000 for the privilege of being represented in the Poughkeepsie regatta next Monday. With everything going out and nothing coming in rowing has no attraction for the harpies who prey so industriously on other supposedly amateur sports.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which has no football team to fill its athletic coffers, had a hard time financing rowing this year. Alumni and undergraduates, gratified by the good showing of the institute in a sport which is comparatively new to it, finally succeeded in raising enough money to send the oarsmen to Poughkeepsie. Since M. I. T. has no boathouse on the Hudson, the oarsmen brought along a big tent in which to house their shells

New York, June 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The New York Yankees can't stand prosperity. They batted Ed Morris, the best pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, into bits in the first game of a double-header today, and saw by the scoreboard that the Athletics, their pennant rivals, were behind in a game against the Senators.

Then they went out and played like public-school boys against a second-string left-hander, Bill Bayne, in the second game and lost. The scores were 9 to 0 in the first battle and 7 to 4 in the second.

Bill Bayne, kicked around from St. Louis to Cleveland and to the minors and back, and then to Boston, held the great hammering Yankee horde to nine hits, pretty well scattered. One of the hits was a home run by Bob Meusel. Two of them carried Earl Combs' consecutive game hitting string to seventeen. Lou Gehrig smacked his eighteenth homer of the year in the first game.

NATS' LEAD VANISHES IN 5TH-INNING ATTACK ON PAIR OF PITCHERS

SMACKED BY MACK

Grove Also Is Driven Out; Nats' Threat in 8th in Vain.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ROBERT MOSES (LEFTY) GROVE evidently thought when he went the route and beat the Nationals earlier this season that he had broken the "jinx" which the Washington Club had held over him ever since he became a major leaguer, but he now knows better. He attempted to give an encore yesterday and the result was that he was pounded from the peak for the nineteenth time in his twenty starts against the Nats. He was not charged with a defeat, however, because George (Rube) Walberg, who relieved him, held the home team while the heavy-hitting

JACK HIGH TRIUMPHS IN AQUEDUCT MILE FEATURE

Chestnut Oak, Favorite, Is Beaten

Latonia Feature Won by Republic; Leads Clog Dance.

AQUEDUCT RACE TRACK, N. Y., June 18 (A.P.).—George D. Widener's Jack High redeemed himself here today when he won the Shevlin stakes, a mile gallop for 3-year-olds. The Oak Ridge Stable's Chestnut Oak was second, and the Wheatley Stable's Flag Day third. Jack High was quoted at 9 to 5, but his backers were not so confident, which accounts for the liberal price laid against him.

Chestnut Oak was the favorite at 9 to 10, and he was away fast with Jack High right at his saddle girths Chestnut Oak held his slight margin of half a length as they turned into the stretch. At the three-furlong pole McAtee, who had the mount, sent Jack High up. The colt responded with a great burst of speed, and, taking command, drew away to win by three lengths.

Chestnut Oak beat Flag Day a length for the place. Flag Day might have been a keen contender with a better break. The race was worth $9,200 to the winner.

Latonia Race Track, Ky., June 18 (A.P.).—Republic, a 4-year-old colt from the Laffoon and Yeiser Stable, captured the big Stone Gap purse, a sprint of six furlongs for 3-year-olds and up, the feature event on the day's card here. R. S. Clark's Clog Dance was next best and Typhoon, from the Kenton Farms string, was third.

Republic, away well and racing under restraint, went into the lead at the three-furlong pole, and, holding on well through the stretch, won easily by a length and a half. Clog Dance, away fast and setting the pace for the first two furlongs, continued close up to the winner, making several bids during the first four furlongs, but could not match strides with the leader and finished second by a head in a hard drive.

Typhoon, away slowly and outrun and forced wide the first four furlongs, closed strongly when straightened in the stretch to take the small end of the purse by a length and a half. The race was worth $1,000 to the Laffoon and Yeiser Stable, and the winner paid his backers $3.78 for a $2 ticket.

Straw Vote Caps Washington Feature Over Milward.

Washington Park Race Track, Ill., June 18 (A.P.).—The Hillcrest purse, a sprint of six furlongs for 3-year-olds and up, the feature number on the day's card, was won by E. Cebrian's 3-year-old Straw Vote. Mrs. E. Denemark's Frances Milward was second, and J. J. Coughlin's Wacker Drive was third.

Straw Vote, away fast, was sent into the lead at once, opened up a long lead at the three-furlong pole and, holding on well under a hard drive through the stretch, won by a head. Frances Milward, away well but outpaced during the first three furlongs, closed rapidly through the stretch, and, with a stronger rider, might have won. She finished second by six lengths.

Wacker Drive, away well but badly outrun the first half mile, came strong in the stretch drive to take the show money by a head. Six horses accepted the issue, the winner paying his backers $9.72 for a $2 ticket.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY DAN, $10.08, $7.16, $4.74; CAREER, $43.60, $22.46; WOODLOT, $4.20.

MY DAN was hustled to the front soon after start, opened up a good gap when urged on the turn and was increasing advantage through stretch. CAREER moved up fast on far turn, was taken to outside in best going through stretch and finished resolutely. WOODLOT, in closest pursuit most of the trip, held on well through stretch, although repeatedly bothered by CAREER. UNITED ARMY closed with a rush final quarter.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Sulphur. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:34. Off at 4:29. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MA YERKES, $3.98, $2.36, $2.16; FAIR ROSALIND, $2.46, $2.28; FLO O'NEILL, $4.46.

MA YERKES, much the best, was sent into a long lead first quarter and, continuing well, won with much speed to spare. FAIR ROSALIND, always in closest pursuit of the winner, raced wide to far turn and, straightened out in stretch, closed resolutely. FLO O'NEILL, in closest pursuit most of the trip, held on well through stretch, although bothered by HONEY LOCUST.

SECOND RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:04. Off at 3:06. Winner, J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VALENCE, $17.22, $8.86, $5.14; HOLD FAST, $3.24, $2.62; CHIZ, $3.86.

VALENCE began fast, but was taken back until reaching far turn and, racing into lead, held on to hold HOLD FAST safe. Latter, forced wide for entire trip, came with a good burst of speed final eighth and was rapidly closing on leader near end. CHIZ suffered from crowding first part of it, moved up determinedly when clear through stretch, but tired badly final drive. ADAM EMELIE showed a good effort.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:32. Off at 3:33. Winner, H. P. Meadley's br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BETTY ANN, $6.72, $3.48, $2.90; WINGO, $4.20, $3.46; MICHIGAN BOY, $3.12.

BETTY ANN began fast, was rushed into good early lead and, continuing well through stretch, had much left in reserve. WINGO moved up strongly after reaching far turn, continued gamely all through the stretch, but could never menace winner. MICHIGAN BOY, forward throughout, but forced wide approaching stretch, closed courageously when straightened out. COLONEL HENRY had no mishaps.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Big Stone Gap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 4:01. REPUBLIC, forward under steadying restraint, shook off CLOG DANCE on the turn and, responding well through stretch, easily held opposition safe. CLOG DANCE forced winner's pace throughout, made several bids at winner in first half, but was not good enough. TYPHOON, outrun and forced wide first half mile, closed stoutly when straightened out in stretch. REENIE went well in worst going along the inner rail all through stretch and was tiring badly last sixteenth.

WHEATLEY AND BLOW NINES WIN PLAYGROUND TITLES

Eastern Clubs Win Both Series

Monroe Defeated, 13 to 1, for Senior Division Championship.

Janney School Bows in Junior Class by 11 to 3 Score.

NORTHEAST won a dual triumph yesterday when Wheatley and Blow schools, both of that section, captured the Municipal Playground Department's elementary school senior and junior baseball championships, respectively. Wheatley defeated Monroe, of Northwest, in the third and deciding game for the senior title, 13 to 1, while Blow won the junior honors, also in the third game of the series, by defeating Janney, of Tenleytown, 11 to 3.

Wheatley scored all of its runs in the first inning, while Monroe's lone tally came in the seventh. The Northeast tossers played a better brand of ball and deserved the victory that the hard playing Monroe youngsters contested in every inning of the three games. Daniels, the winning pitcher, allowed but one hit, although he walked eleven men.

Blow Clinches Title By Rally in Fifth.

Blow clinched its right to the junior title in one big inning also. The new champs scored six runs in the fifth inning to take the lead over Janney, never to be headed. Dorr and Hess, pitchers for the winners, permitted but one hit each.

Nock opened Wheatley's first with a single down the third base line and stole second on the next pitch. Marsh then got a life on Foxx's error, Nock advancing to third. Marsh stole second and Daniels scored both base runners with a single to left. The latter stole second and third and scored on English's sacrifice fly.

Monroe's run was scored on a walk to Giovanetti, who stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on Hodges' sacrifice bunt.

An unusual feature of the senior match was that the losers had men on the paths in every inning, in three innings having the bases loaded, due principally to the wildness of Daniels, but except in the seventh, they failed to count.

Winners to Get Trophies At Exercises Today.

The finals played yesterday culminated a season that has extended from early in March. In the two series 138 teams and nearly 3,000 boys have competed for league championships. Sixteen teams won their way to the two final series.

Racheteering Also Precluded By Cost of Polo.

International polo is another sport of no interest to the sports racketeers. There's no money in it. True, polo matches attract huge crowds, but the receipts do not begin to meet the costs of preparation. Expenditures for ponies, transportation and housing run into figures so staggering as to cause amateur sports promotors, out to make money, to stick closely to such sure-fire bets as track and field athletics and tennis.

Invitation Polo Finals Scheduled for Today

The finals in the invitation polo tournament will be played today when the Third Cavalry and Fort Benning teams meet at West Potomac Park at 4:30 o'clock. The winning team will receive the Infantry Cup.

Given a three-goal handicap in its game against the War Department Whites last week, the Fort Benning Four displayed a strong game in defeating the Whites by a comfortable margin. The Third Cavalry Team also exhibited power in advancing to its now present position for the finals. An interesting game should result.

Pullman Nine Takes Terminal First Half Flag

The Pullman Nine yesterday won the first series championship of the Terminal Y Baseball League by defeating the Express Nine, 4 to 3. Although outhit, the victors produced bingles at the right time, rallying in the eighth to count twice and come from behind after Express had tallied twice in its half.

Aqueduct Stewards Set Down L. Fator

Aqueduct Race Track, June 18.—The stewards of the meeting today suspended Jockey Laverne Fator for the rest of the meeting for his unsatisfactory ride on the odds-on favorite, Folking, in the second event. When the barrier went up there was a lot of crowding, but Fator, for some unknown reason, took Folking way out of the running, being at one time many lengths back of the field. In addition, he took the colt to the outside and finished in the middle of the track.

MOORE WINS 3 PISTOL MEDALS

D.C. Policeman Ranks High in National Shooting Event.

E. J. MOORE, local policeman attached to the Thirteenth Precinct, of 2054 Thirty-seventh street northwest, won three medals in Nation-wide pistol matches held recently by the National Rifle Association, it was announced last night, when all scores had been checked. Although the results of the matches were received by mail, the actual firing was conducted under the supervision of the association.

Moore, who is also an expert rifleman, gained tenth place in both the timed-fire pistol match and the slow-fire pistol event. He was fifteenth in the tyro slow-fire competition.

Moore Has 374x400 Score in Timed Fire.

In timed-fire competition he had a 374 score out of a possible 400, and 343 out of a possible 400 in slow fire. He had 379 hits in the tyro slow-fire matches.

The success of Moore against such a large field is all the more remarkable, the officials of the National Rifle Association point out, in view of the fact that the Metropolitan Police Department makes no provision of either time or money for training officers in marksmanship. Moore's remarkable showing they attribute to the fact that he obtained proper equipment and devoted his leisure to practice shooting

Canzoneri Has Choice Of Seeking Two Titles

Canzoneri last week accepted terms offered by Paddy Harmon, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, for a shot at Sammy Mandell's lightweight crown, on or before August 30.

YANKEES AND MACKS OPEN SERIES FRIDAY

Rommel, who has won six straight, probably will pitch the other game.

Babe Ruth is certain to be back in the Yankees' line-up when they open their crucial five-games-in-three-days series against the leaders.

The Babe worked out with the Yankees today, playing first base for a while during fielding practice. He hit two potential home runs during batting practice and wanted to get into the double-header against the Red Sox, but Miller Huggins decided against it. "Friday will be soon enough," Hug said. "That's when we'll need you most."

Hitting and not pitching is quite likely to be a winning factor. It may be the Yanks' siege guns—Ruth and Gehrig—against the Athletics' terrible trio—Foxx, Cochrane and Simmons. Foxx is hitting above .400 and Cochrane is just shy of that mark, with Simmons down around the .350 mark, but leading the league in runs batted in. Gehrig is now in a slump and just barely above .300. Ruth is batting .321.

Out of five games played between the two clubs this season, the Athletics have won three and the Yanks two. Last season the Yanks won 16 out of 22 played with the A's.

Three double-plays were turned in by the Nats, while Flagstead made a really great catch, but these were counterbalanced by errors by Bluege and Goslin, each of which figured in the making of an alien run.

The Nationals drew another open date on their schedule today and, because of the heat and the fact that the team has been playing day in and day out for some time, Manager Johnson has advised his athletes that they need not show up at the Griffith Stadium for practice this morning.

The schedule-makers also planned for the Nationals to idle again tomorrow, but this blank will be filled when one of the postponed games with the Boston Red Sox will be played. Another will be made part of a double-header to be staged here Saturday.

BROWN NINE PLAYS TODAY.

The Brown A. C. plays the newly organized Washington Cadillac Nine today on the West Ellipse at 5:30 o'clock. Manager Pratt requests all Brown players to report in uniform by 5 o'clock.

Joe Ready was elected captain last night at a meeting of the team, while Arthur de Marco, Maryland University star pitcher, was signed.

CHEVY CHASE N

Eastern Clubs Win Both Series

Monroe Defeated, 13 to 1, for Senior Division Championship.

Janney School Bows in Junior Class by 11 to 3 Score.

NORTHEAST won a dual triumph yesterday when Wheatley and Blow schools, both of that section, captured the Municipal Playground Department's elementary school senior and junior baseball championships, respectively. Wheatley defeated Monroe, of Northwest, in the third and deciding game for the senior title, 13 to 1, while Blow won the junior honors, also in the third game of the series, by defeating Janney, of Tenleytown, 11 to 3.

Wheatley scored all of its runs in the first inning, while Monroe's lone tally came in the seventh. The Northeast tossers played a better brand of ball and deserved the victory that the hard playing Monroe youngsters contested in every inning of the three games. Daniels, the winning pitcher, allowed but one hit, although he walked eleven men.

Blow Clinches Title By Rally in Fifth.

Blow clinched its right to the junior title in one big inning also. The new champs scored six runs in the fifth inning to take the lead over Janney, never to be headed. Dorr and Hess, pitchers for the winners, permitted but one hit each.

Nock opened Wheatley's first with a single down the third base line and stole second on the next pitch. Marsh then got a life on Foxx's error, Nock advancing to third. Marsh stole second and Daniels scored both base runners with a single to left. The latter stole second and third and scored on English's sacrifice fly.

Monroe's run was scored on a walk to Giovanetti, who stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on Hodges' sacrifice bunt.

An unusual feature of the senior match was that the losers had men on the paths in every inning, in three innings having the bases loaded, due principally to the wildness of Daniels, but except in the seventh, they failed to count.

Winners to Get Trophies At Exercises Today.

The winning teams will be presented with cups by the Playground department today at closing exercises. The new champions succeed Park View and Fillmore, senior and junior champions, respectively, of 1928.

The finals played yesterday culminated a season that has extended from early in March. In the two series 138 teams and nearly 3,000 boys have competed for league championships. Sixteen teams won their way to the two final series.

Racheteering Also Precluded By Cost of Polo.

International polo is another sport of no interest to the sports racketeers. There's no money in it. True, polo matches attract huge crowds, but the receipts do not begin to meet the costs of preparation. Expenditures for ponies, transportation and housing run into figures so staggering as to cause amateur sports promotors, out to make money, to stick closely to such surefire bets as track and field athletics and tennis.

Invitation Polo Finals Scheduled for Today

The finals in the invitation polo tournament will be played today when the Third Cavalry and Fort Benning teams meet at West Potomac Park at 4:30 o'clock. The winning team will receive the Infantry Cup.

Given a three-goal handicap in its game against the War Department Whites last week, the Fort Benning Four displayed a strong game in defeating the Whites by a comfortable margin. The Third Cavalry Team also exhibited power in advancing to its now present position for the finals. An interesting game should result.

Pullman Nine Takes Terminal First Half Flag

The Pullman Nine yesterday won the first series championship of the Terminal Y Baseball League by defeating the Express Nine, 4 to 3. Although outhit, the victors produced bingles at the right time, rallying in the eighth to count twice and come from behind after Express had tallied twice in its half.

Aqueduct Stewards Set Down L. Fator

Aqueduct Race Track, June 18.—The stewards of the meeting today suspended Jockey Laverne Fator for the rest of the meeting for his unsatisfactory ride on the odds-on favorite, Folking, in the second event. When the barrier went up there was a lot of crowding, but Fator, for some unknown reason, took Folking way out of the running, being at one time many lengths back of the field. In addition, he took the colt to the outside and finished in the middle of the track.

MOORE WINS 3 PISTOL MEDALS

E. J. MOORE, local policeman attached to the Thirteenth Precinct, of 2054 Thirty-seventh street northwest, won three medals in Nation-wide pistol matches held recently by the National Rifle Association, it was announced last night, when all scores had been checked. Although the results of the matches were received by mail, the actual firing was conducted under the supervision of the association.

Moore, who is also an expert rifleman, gained tenth place in both the timed-fire pistol match and the slow-fire pistol event. He was fifteenth in the tyro slow-fire competition.

Moore Has 374x400 Score in Timed Fire.

In timed-fire competition he had a 374 score out of a possible 400, and 343 out of a possible 400 in slow fire. He had 379 hits in the tyro slow-fire matches.

The success of Moore against such a large field is all the more remarkable, the officials of the National Rifle Association point out, in view of the fact that the Metropolitan Police Department makes no provision of either time or money for training officers in marksmanship. Moore's remarkable showing they attribute to the fact that he obtained proper equipment and devoted his leisure to practice shooting

Canzoneri Has Choice Of Seeking Two Titles

Chicago, June 18 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, former world featherweight champion, has the choice of engaging in titular bouts in two divisions.

Canzoneri last week accepted terms offered by Paddy Harmon, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, for a shot at Sammy Mandell's lightweight crown, on or before August 30.

Rommel, who has won six straight, probably will pitch the other game.

Babe Ruth is certain to be back in the Yankees' line-up when they open their crucial five-games-in-three-days series against the leaders.

The Babe worked out with the Yankees today, playing first base for a while during fielding practice. He hit two potential home runs during batting practice and wanted to get into the double-header against the Red Sox, but Miller Huggins decided against it.

"Friday will be soon enough," Hug said. "That's when we'll need you most."

Hitting and not pitching is quite likely to be a winning factor. It may be the Yanks' siege guns—Ruth and Gehrig—against the Athletics' terrible trio—Foxx, Cochrane and Simmons. Foxx is hitting above .400 and Cochrane is just shy of that mark, with Simmons down around the .350 mark, but leading the league in runs batted in. Gehrig is now in a slump and just barely above .300. Ruth is batting .321.

Out of five games played between the two clubs this season, the Athletics have won three and the Yanks two. Last season the Yanks won 16 out of 22 played with the A's.

Three double-plays were turned in by the Nats, while Flagstead made a really great catch, but these were counterbalanced by errors by Bluege and Goslin, each of which figured in the making of an alien run.

The Nationals drew another open date on their schedule today and, because of the heat and the fact that the team has been playing day in and day out for some time, Manager Johnson has advised his athletes that

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY

Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY.

(Copyright Protected Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited.)

In the third chapter Harry gets acquainted with the Viscount Dalwise and rescues him from an attack by a young Jap, who proved to be the discharged valet of the viscount. The Englishman invites him to have dinner with him, and puts up a proposition to Young King Brady to act as a sort of companion. Meanwhile Old King Brady shadows Mrs. Fairchild and the Princess to Monterey and registers in the same hotel.

THE TRAIL OF THE FAKIR OF FRISCO

HASHEESH DREAMS.

"Look here, Arthur," said Harry, turning upon the viscount. "I'm no opium smoker. I don't go in for that sort of thing at all."

Arthur rubbed his yellow eyebrows with every appearance of genuine surprise. "Why, my dear boy, neither do I," he exclaimed.

"What do you smoke then?"

"Why, tobacco of course."

"Well, that is different. This place looked suspiciously like an opium joint to me."

"But it isn't. The gentleman who occupies these appartments is Swami Vivaya, a wonderfully intelligent man. You will be pleased to meet him, I'm sure."

"I will be very glad to," agreed Harry.

"If you won't smoke, I will," went on the Englishman. "These pipes are wonderful. This long-stemmed Turkish fellow is my favorite." Thus saying he took down from the rack a pipe the stem of which was considerably more than a yard in length.

"It's a beauty," said Harry, examining it closely.

"There's the mate to it," said Arthur, pointing to the rack. "You'd better try some of the Swami's tobacco. It is fine."

The aroma of the tobacco was indeed delightful. It seemed particularly mild. Harry's fears were allayed.

"There's no dope in that, that is sure," he thought. Arthur proceeded to fill up the pipe, and then, flinging himself on a divan stretched out at full length, and resting his pipe on the floor asked Harry to light it.

Young King Brady put aside his suspicions and filled a pipe for himself.

"Lie down here with me, Harry," said the viscount. "There's plenty of room. Don't go off by yourself." The divan was wide enough for two so Young King Brady made no objection.

The viscount struck a match, and lighted the pipe, after which Harry stretched himself out on the divan.

"There, isn't that fine?" asked the Englishman.

"It is the most delicious tobacco I ever smoked," replied Harry. There was a peculiar fascination about it, too. As they smoked the viscount talked about life in India and proved to be very entertaining. The pipes were smoked out and refilled three times.

And now Young King Brady began to feel drowsy. The Englishman's voice seemed to be far away. "Great Scott!" he thought, "there is dope in this stuff," and he let the pipe slip out of his hand and tried to sit up.

"Lie still!" said the viscount, throwing his arm about Harry's neck. "The best is to come." Now he began to sing. And such a voice! Harry had never heard anything so heavenly in his life. It seemed to him as if the singing had been going on for hours—it was a dreamy love song—when suddenly it ceased, and the voice whispered in his ear:

"This is what I want. An intelligent companion to travel through Elysium at my side. Sleep, dear brother! Sleep, and awake in Wonderland!"

Whatever the stuff might have been that he had smoked, Young King Brady neither knew nor cared. For at that moment he felt his senses slipping away from him. Oblivion followed.

How long the time was before he awakened Harry did not know. But with the awakening came a wondrous change. He opened his eyes upon a new world. He was still lying on the divan, and his companion's arm was still on his neck. The viscount was slumbering peacefully; his yellow hair was tossed back and his face wore a seraphic expression. Harry thought he had never seen a face so beautiful. It was like the face of an angel. And yet he felt he must tear himself away 'est the fascination become too great.

He disengaged himself and staggered to his feet. The instant he did so it seemed as if the whole scene changed. He felt as though he was floating in the air above a vast forest. "This is India," a voice seemed to say in his ear. He saw darting among the trees hundreds of tigers, chased by men on feet and men on horses. One horse came dashing by without a rider.

The wish was no sooner made than he dropped into the vacant saddle and went dashing after the tigers. He could hear the snarl of the wild beasts and the crack of rifles. Then suddenly a vast ball of light seemed to descend from the heavens and drop directly in his path. It exploded with a loud report and in the same instant Young King Brady returned to his senses to find himself running around the room shouting like a madman. Filled with terror, he pulled up and tried to think. He knew now what had happened. "I have been smoking hasheesh! What shall I do?" According to Old King Brady, the effects of the dope lasted for hours and the visions kept recurring. He felt inclined to get out of the place and started to look for his hat.

The viscount was sitting upon the divan staring. "Harry, dear boy, don't go," he cried. "You'll like it after you get used to it!"

It was too late! Again strange sensations overpowered him. Harry caught the Englishman by the hand and he stood up. Harry tried to let go his hand as the viscount seemed to grow taller and taller, but he could not. And now, to his horror, he found himself growing tall, too.

"Why, you're a hundred feet high, Arthur!" he shouted.

"So are you! Up we go! I'm bound for the moon! Hold on tight! Oh, isn't this fun!"

"On to the moon!" shouted the viscount.

"On to the moon!" echoed Harry, and though he knew it was foolish, he couldn't help it.

Higher and higher they seemed to rise. At last Harry found himself with his head up in the sky, and the viscount's head was turned the same way. Above him he could see the moon. Its size was enormous. Bigger and bigger it seemed to grow, until all the sky was blotted out. Harry could see vast mountain chains, but they were upside down.

Now Harry perceived a city of immense extent, every house standing on its head, as were the people, a strange dwarfish race which swarmed the streets.

And still they seemed to rise when all at once Harry looked down at his companion's legs. They were miles and miles high. He looked at his own. They were the same.

"Oh, look at your legs, Arthur," he shouted, and then broke out into a fit of uncontrollable laughter.

The viscount joined in the laugh. They looked up again. The mountains and the city had vanished. It was night, and myriads of stars were shining above them.

"Come down! Come down!" a voice shouted below them. Harry looked down and saw far beneath them a black man with glittering teeth. It was the Hindoo.

He recognized him at once.

"Come down! Come down!" the voice repeated.

Then all in an instant Harry felt his legs give way beneath him. He was standing on nothing, still clutching the viscount's hand. They were falling through space.

The effects of hasheesh are not like opium. With hasheesh the visions and delusions are spasmodic, and are not accompanied by sleep. But the habit is even worse than opium. Once acquired it is next to impossible to give it up.

Harry's vision ceased on the moment and he found himself sprawled on the floor, with the viscount on top of him panting for breath. They were in the same room, and the Hindoo was bending over them.

"You fool!" he cried. "Didn't I warn you? Your heart won't stand it! You'll spoil all your plans. Remember what I promised you!" and he seized the viscount by the collar and lifted him to his feet. "But here, this thing must end right now. Take a pill, both of you." He produced a little ivory box and, opening it, passed it to the viscount and then to Harry. They each took a pill and swallowed it. Almost immediately things assumed normal size.

"We must break this up. You two must get into the bath at once. Strip!" and they did without any argument.

Pulling aside the curtains, the Hindoo opened a door. Here was a pool of cold water. "In with you both!" cried the Swami. "Dive! Head first now!"

Woman's Intuition No Keener Than Man's

Lincoln, Nebr., June 18 (A.P.).—A belief that women have the ability to read facial expressions better than men appears to be just "gentle fiction." This is the contention of Dr. J. P. Guilford, of the University of Nebraska, who has conducted an experiment with men and women students. The girls did no better than the boys when it came to telling what looks imply.

The fifteen young people who took part in the tests improved in ability rapidly during the ten days of the experiment. They judged a set of scientific pencil sketches taken from the face of a German actor. Dr. Guilford believes true emotion always can be read by an expert, no matter what the outward facial mask may be.

Mothers Are Beneficiaries.

Hartford, Conn., June 18 (U.P.).—Mothers are beneficiaries under about 20 per cent of all life insurance policies in the United States, the Travelers Insurance Co. has discovered.

THAT LOOKS LIKE HIM.
IT IS KILLER KANE! MAYBE I WON'T TAKE THAT GUY APART!
IN ONE MORE LEAP I WOULD HAVE BEEN ON HIM, BUT-- WOWEE! WHAT A SMELL!

ELLA CINDERS—Her Animal Instinct — By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb

NOW THAT YOU'VE WATERED AND FED THE HORSES, WILL YOU GIVE THEM EACH A BOOK TO READ AND PAY A LITTLE ATTENTION TO ME?
WHY— ELLA! YOU DON'T REALLY—
I ALWAYS KNEW A COWBOY THINKS OF HIS HORSE FIRST AND A WOMAN LAST, BUT AT LEAST YOU MIGHT SAY SOMETHING ENCOURAGING ABOUT THE POSSIBILITY OF FOOD!

UNDERSTAND, JIM, I'M NOT JEALOUS OF YOUR HORSE! A MAN WHO IS KIND TO DUMB ANIMALS IS SELDOM CRUEL TO HUMAN BEINGS!
THE GREAT OPEN SPACES MAY BE GREAT FOR A MAN, BUT THEY'RE JUST A BIG BLANK TO A WOMAN UNLESS SHE GETS AN EVEN BREAK WITH THE ANIMALS! AND I'M AS THIRSTY AS A CAMEL— AS HUNGRY AS A BEAR—AND AS MAD AS A BULL!

GASOLINE ALLEY — What Is So Rare?

WELL SINCE I TALKED TO MME. OCTAVE AND TURNED HER DOWN I HAVEN'T HEARD ANY MORE ABOUT SENDING SKEEZIX ABROAD TO SCHOOL.
SHE ALWAYS CALLS ME WHEN SHE COMES TO TOWN. SHE HASN'T SAID A WORD THIS TIME.
I ALWAYS LIKED HELENE, THOUGH IN SPITE OF HER INTENSE, SELFISHNESS.
THANK GOODNESS, SKEEZIX IS LIKE HIS FATHER, HENRI CODA, AND NOT LIKE HER.
SWING YOU SOME MORE, SKEEZIX?
WAIT, LORA, LET'S TAKE CORKY TOO. HE WANTS TO SWING.
NOTHIN DOIN'! THAT BUMP YOU GOIN' TO GET IS PLENTY WITHOUT MAKIN' IT TWO.
HOW DID YOU COME OUT ON YOUR COLLISION ARGUMENT, AVERY? DID YOU HAVE TO SETTLE FOR THE OTHER FELLOW'S CAR?
NO I HAD A PROPOSITION PUT UP TO ME. HE'S WILLING TO TAKE IT OUT IN SERVICE.
AT LEAST WE HAVEN'T ANYTHING TO WORRY ABOUT ANY MORE.
NO. OCTAVE USED TO SCARE ME BUT SHE MERELY IRRITATES ME NOW.

WHAT HABITS HAVE YOU?

Some people have a funny habit of saving things.

They retain all sorts of articles which they no longer use when they could easily dispose of them for real cash.

For instance, some people have lawn mowers, but no grass to mow! Some have birds; some have baby carriages, even though baby is now twenty-one years old or more.

You can get real money for all such discarded articles by advertising them for sale in the Classified Columns of The Post.

Now is the time to try this advertising service. Call Natl. 4205, and ask for an Adtaker. She will write your ad for you.

PRATT BEGINS WAR ON NOISY AUTOISTS AND HIGHWAY PLAY

Orders Police Enforcement Regulations Restricting "Talkie" Horns.

SAYS ILL AND SLEEPING SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Urges Force to Guard Children From Dangers of Playing in City Streets.

Automobile "talkie" horns and children at play in the street fell under the ban of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, in a general police order issued yesterday.

Just as the youngsters, now that vacation time is at hand, must be warned by the policemen to play in recreation centers or anywhere off thoroughfares, so, too must the officers warn the motorist that horns henceforth must be seen and not heard, at least not too often.

Maj. Pratt was particularly hot under the collar about the drivers who "sit" on their automobile horns to attract attention, particularly in the early morning hours, and at any hour in hospital quiet zones. He also took occasion to score the youths who a-motoring go and summon their girl friends from their homes by a loud and vociferous tooting of their horns.

"The practice of motorists in sounding their sirens or blowing the horns unnecessarily while the machine is not in motion for the purpose of attracting the attention of some one, is very distracting to those who are ill and to infants, as well as to persons who are endeavoring to obtain their rest, particularly during the early morning hours," his order declared.

Will Enforce Restriction.

"The men are directed to give their attention to the matter with a view of seeing that the regulations are complied with and unnecessary noises of all kinds prohibited.

"It is observed where traffic is held up at intersections drivers of automobiles continually sound thier horns in an effort to hasten the action of the officer in releasing traffic.

"Complaint is also made that persons frequently sound their horns to attract the attention of persons in buildings for whom they are waiting."

Urging an increased watchfulness on the part of individual officers in an effort to keep children off the city streets, directing them to playgrounds, and so decrease the number of serious accidents, and stressing the value of a good-will campaign among the children, the instructions concerning children said:

Child Protection Urged.

"Protect the children. With the advent of the school vacation season it is anticipated that a larger use will be made of the streets by the children for purposes of play, which practice, if indulged in to any great extent, will almost certainly mean an increase of accidents to the children with the probable loss of life and limb.

"This is a condition which must be met and corrected as far as possible by the individual officers on the beat, and you will, therefore, whenever children are observed at play in the streets on your beat, warn them against such practice and of the dangers attending the use of the public highways as playgrounds and at the same time direct them to the nearest playground.

"The individual officer on the beat can accomplish great results for the personal safety of the children in a missionary way. He should make it a point always to have the children look upon him as their best friend. He can, by his mere interest in them, bring them to believe that he is their protector rather than their enemy, and he should strive at all times to secure their confidence and assist them whenever possible in their personal safety and associations."

98-Degree Heat Is Shown at Kiosk

Weather Man Reports 90 Hot Spell to Continue; One Prostration.

Washington simmered through another day with an official heat mark of 90 degrees for a stretch from 2 to shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The downtown kiosk across from The Post building checked a peak of 98 degrees for a period around 3 o'clock in line with its usual custom of recording figures slightly higher than the Weather Bureau.

Despite the force of the sun during mid-afternoon, the 90-degree level fell short of the 92 degrees of last Thursday and the loftiest heat climb of the mercury during the month to 93 degrees last Friday.

A single prostration was reported during the day when Benjamin Compton, 70 years old, of 2310 Nineteenth street northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital after being overcome in front of Center Market. He was sent to his home later with no ill effects.

Continued high temperatures and possibly cloudy skies gave small promise of relief for Washington and this vicinity during the next two days.

COMMUNITY CHEST MEMBERS' INCOME LARGELY EARNINGS

Organizations Expend $3 for Every Dollar Given by 65,000 Contributors.

Y. M. C. A. HEADS ARRAY WITH BIGGEST REVENUE

Emergency Hospital Next; Social Agencies Receive Less Than in Other Cities.

Almost three dollars is expended by the 57 member groups of the Washington Community Chest to every dollar its 65,000 contributors donated during the year according to the analysis of the organization's budget committee made public yesterday from the headquarters at 1418 Eye street northwest.

The report of the committee, headed by Charles J. Bell, as chairman, and W. S. Corey, as vice chairman, tabulated the scheduled expenditures of the member organizations during 1929 at $3,412,537 17 in comparison with the budget of the Community Chest listing appropriations at $1,278,315.29.

This financial gap is bridged over in part by the expected earnings of the 57 member groups, together with their aggregate cash on hand at the beginning of the year, totaling $1,865,406.54. The income of the members from endowment and from miscellaneous sources reaches $272,143.02.

During the first five months of the year the Community Chest tendered to its 57 member organizations, inclusive of the expenses incurred in the operation of its own business, $497,836.60. The Community Chest accounted for $63,843.78 of this amount to head the list, following in turn by the Salvation Army with $34,869.29 and the Columbia Hospital with $29,074.87.

Y. W. C. A. Heads List.

The Y. W. C. A. heads the array with the greatest revenue, its total being $363,168.44, which is augmented by $12,000 from endowment. It is 84.5 per cent self-supporting, the Community Chest budgeting to the group $69,244 to swell its aggregate to $444,412.44.

Emergency Hospital, with $315,707, has the next greatest revenue. Income from its endowment is set at $10,421 to require an amount of $60,397.87 from the Community Chest to boost its total to $386,525.87. It is also 84.5 per cent self-supporting.

The Y. M. C. A. is self-sustaining to a percentage of 85 as third largest among the groups in its revenue of $218,000, received principally from dues and fee at its several units. Its added income from endowment, netting $6,600, leaves a contribution of $41,990 to hoist its entire moneys during the year to $266,670.

Less Than in Other Cities.

The budget committee found that Washington social agencies received somewhat less in income from endowment and from miscellaneous sources than similar central organizations in other large cities. The total income from these two general channels is $272,143.02, or about 8 per cent of their total. The Children's Hospital has the largest income from endowment here with $60,596.59. Its income from earnings totals $90,369.78, leaving a donation of $60,267.03 from the Community Chest to make its entire budget reach $211,233 40.

The second largest income from endowment here is that of $19,540.45, marked for the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital. Its earnings from pay and part-pay patients is $122,350, while the Community Chest budgets to it $21,885.96 for a grand total of $164,-106.41.

A close third in income from endowment is Georgetown University Hospital with $19,281.20, with its income from pay and part-pay patients reaching $180,000. The Community Chest budgets it for $13,221.44 to make its grand total $212,502.64.

The organization receiving the largest amount from the Community Chest is the Associated Charities, which, with its affiliated Citizens Relief Society and its summer outings committee, is due for $142,523.30. It receives only $11,-133 in income from endowment and has its revenue listed at $6,718, while its total expenses amount to $160,365.23.

Speaking Generally

—By JOHN J. DALY—

LORD MONTMORENCY, an old friend of the peerage—or, perhaps it was the steerage—chided several members at the club, contending that after all our boasted liberty America is not really a free country.

"For example, young fellah-me-lad," drawled his lordship, "take a case right here in Washington, your Nation's Capital. I refer to the arrest of seventeen members of Plasterers Union, No. 96, last Friday night, the eve of St. Bride's Day, in the 500 block on E street in the Northwest section, similar to Mayfair."

"Seventeen plasterers," repeated Lord Montmorency, "and all members of the guild."

"What were they doing?" we asked, to a man.

"That's the funny part of it," remarked his lordship. "You would naturally think they were plastered, as you Americans put it, wouldn't you, old tops? As a matter of fact, the plasterers were not plastered. All they did was sit on a fence railing down on E street, near Judiciary Circus."

* * * *

"SEVENTEEN plasterers on an old rail fence," mused Chauncey Potheringale, globe-trotter, just back from Europe. "Strikes me I've heard something similar to that in my travels."

"You are thinking of seventeen men on a dead man's chest, a line from one of the old Edward Guest poems," commented Harry O'Shaughnessey, the scholar.

"The point I wish to make," went on Lord Montmorency, disregarding the interruptions, "is that such a thing as the arrest of seventeen plasterers merely for sitting on a fence rail would never have happened in England, and we do not call that the Land of the Free."

"By the way, your grace," asked Martin Delsunay, the economist, "are there any plasterers now in England? I thought the war had killed 'em all off."

"There are plasterers in England, to be sure, said his lordship, "and when I say plasterers, I mean plasterers; though I will say for them, when they decide to hold a meeting they seldom if ever sit seventeen in a row on a rail fence. There are always the pubs, you know—another emblem of freedom you miss over here."

"The pubs! Oh, yes!" mumbled Donald McDonald O'Donnell, a far-away look in his eyes. "Was this a pub where the seventeen plasterers got arrested?

"Of course not, nor a blind pig, nor a speak-easy," went on Lord Montmorency, anxious to get over his point. "It was the meeting hall, or the lodge place, of the Plasterers Guild, and any country that allows the arrest of seventeen plasterers, doing nothing but sitting peacefully on a rail fence in front of their regular established meeting place will have a difficult time making me believe it's the land of the free."

* * * *

"PERSONALLY, I'm going to do nothing; but I'm mighty glad to know that these seventeen plasterers have employed a lawyer—and a good one, too—to see that they will never again be molested for sitting on a rail fence. The case, I believe, is now before Commissioner Dougherty. In the old country it would have been taken up by the king himself. That's the way we deal with these problems."

TWO MORE CHINESE LINKED WITH KILLING

Lee Din, One of First Suspects, Denies King Slaying After Arrest.

EXPECT TO GET TRIO SOON

Two more Chinese were linked with the killing of Lee King yesterday following the arrest of Lee Din, police announced.

Tracing of the two others is expected to be facilitated today after Din is questioned further with the aid of an interpreter at the Third Precinct, where he is being held. Inspector William S. Shelby said yesterday.

Din and James Lee were named by a coroner's jury as the killers of King. Police are now hunting for Lee. Din denies any connection with the killing, but admits that he dined with King shortly before he was slain. Din told police that he knew nothing of the killing until next morning. He was arrested early yesterday morning under the name of Lee Loy but later admitted his real identity, police said.

Indications that two others, besides Lee and Din, are involved in the slaying were given by police yesterday after they had questioned Din. The arrest of the other two and Lee is expected within a few days.

No final arrangements for the burial of King have been made, it was said yesterday at the District Morgue. It is expected, however, that he will be buried in Potter's Field at Blue Plains.

Street Light Shifts To Be Coordinated

District and Utility Companies to Work in Harmony.

Plans for closer coordination of the work of the Highway Department of the District and the gas and electric companies in the changing of street lighting systems were worked out at a conference called yesterday by Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner of the District.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the Highway Department, and representatives of the Potomac Electric Power Co., the Washington and the Georgetown Gas Light companies attended the conference which was held in Maj. Davison's office in the District Building.

The job of changing street lights from gas to electric presents many technical difficulties to avoid leaving streets in darkness during the transition period. Under the new plan the program of changing is to go forward by schedule arranged in advance so that all agencies will be prepared.

Foreign Wars Veterans Honor Judge Mattingly

Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of the Municipal Court, will be obligated in the Front Line Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the meeting tonight at the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club, Eleventh and L streets northwest.

Judge Mattingly will be given honorary membership, one of three allowed by the constitution of the post. It is being conferred because of the judge's continued interest and comradeship with veterans of all the service branches who served overseas.

Bride of Three Weeks Files Annulment Suit

Mrs. Dorothy Gardiner Newyahr, 17 years old, a bride of only three weeks, petitioned the District Supreme Court yesterday to annul her marriage to Bernard Newyahr on grounds of fraud.

The suit was filed through the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary M. Hide, of 704 Third street northwest. The parties were married at Rockville, Md., on May 24. The petition stated that Newyahr, in taking out the marriage license, falsely gave the girl's age as 19 and his own as 21. The petitioner claimed that Newyahr is only 19. Attorneys Fred B. Rhodes and Casoer B. Rhodes appeared for the petitioner.

New Treasury Force To Redeem Old Bills

Several hundred temporary employes will be added to the pay rolls of the Treasury Department shortly after July 1 to handle the redemption of old bills when the demand for the new small-size currency becomes heavy.

Public demand for the new size currency is expected to be heavy and these "money counters" will be employed to speed up the exchange of old bills for new. All employes will be taken from the civil service roll. There will be a reduction soon at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, once the new money has been rushed into circulation.

PAYNE ON PROBATION IN KELLEHER'S CASE

HAD MADE GUILTY PLEA

Freedom on probation was granted Charles D. Payne, star Government witness in the recent trial of Jack B. Kelleher, widely known sportsman, who was found guilty of a 23-count gambling indictment a week ago, by Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy yesterday in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court. Payne was jointly indicted with Kelleher but pleaded guilty in May, 1927, and became a Government witness.

Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins, who prosecuted Kelleher, informed the court that Payne had greatly aided the Government by testifying in the case and recommended a light sentence. The magistrate sentenced Payne to 90 days on each count of the indictment and then suspended the sentence.

Kelleher was sentenced to serve 8 years and 9 months in prison and pay a $7,500 fine on Saturday. He is now in the District Jail awaiting disposition of his appeal from the sentence to the District Court of Appeals. Daniel Thew Wright, who appeared as counsel for the "big shot" sportsman at the trial, withdrew from the case yesterday after informing the court that he had received a letter from Kelleher stating he wished to employ other counsel. It was learned that T. Morris Wampler will appear as counsel for the sportsman in the appellate tribunal.

The charges against Kelleher and Payne grew out of a raid at 1413 H street northwest on December 28, 1926. The indictment was returned in February, 1927. At the trial, Payne testified that he was hired by Kelleher to take bets on horse races and oversee a black jack game. He insisted that Kelleher and his attorney had advised him to plead guilty.

McCormick's Place Put Under Padlock

Ban Is Only Six Months, Because Owner Was Innocent.

A final "padlock" injunction restraining Frank McCormick, widely known in local sporting circles, and his associates from violating the prohibition law on the first and second floor of 212 Ninth street northwest was granted by Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday in the District Supreme Court.

The court decreed that the premises should be closed for only six months because the owner, Mrs. Anna Carry, was unaware that her property was being used for dry law violations. She offered no opposition to the "padlock." The injunction was petitioned by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and his assistant, Capt. Harold W. Orcutt.

Shortly after the proceedings were instituted against the premises, Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman, commander of the police vice squad, conducted a raid at the establishment. McCormick was found in the place but, according to Sergt. Letterman, escaped before the raid was completed. The sergeant was called upon by members of the House District subcommittee to explain McCormick's escape, and he did so satisfactorily.

Bus Line Wants Return To Its Old Rate of Fare

Public hearing on the proposal of the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Line, Inc., to return to its former fare of four tokens for 50 cents with 15 cents cash fare within the District, will be held in the hearing room of the Public Utilities Commission at 10 o'clock this morning.

The company operates buses from Ninth and Pennsylvania avenue to the District line at Bradbury Heights. The company requested that fares be reduced to ten tokens for 81 and 15 cents cash during April and May as an experiment. L. L. Altman, president, said it lost money during those two months and asked to go back to the former fare. Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, opposed this request, saying the losses shown by Altman's figures covered the entire operations of the company, whereas passenger figures for the two months indicated a material increase due to the lower fare in the District.

Driver Cleared in Death of Girl, 5.

A coroner's inquest yesterday at the Morgue exonerated Calvin Speakes Willett, 22 years old, 1105 East Capitol street, of the death of Mary Edna Horsmon, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Horsmon, 1347 Massachusetts avenue southeast, who was fatally injured when she was knocked down by an automobile several doors from in front of her home, Monday night.

Dr. Frank Ballou Expresses Satisfaction at Faculty Achievements.

"We see in these boys and girls the result of our efforts, and it is a great satisfaction to see such splendid examples of our work."

Thus Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of Washington public schools, characterized the 86 graduates of the four-year course at the Business High School last night at the commencement exercises.

Joshua Evans, jr., of the District National Bank, paid tribute "to the courage and wisdom" of Allan Davis, principal of the school, for being the first to advocate business training in the high schools.

"The fundamentals of business usage are more and more opening the doors for men and women," Evans said in the course of his address. He declared that the masculine monopoly in banks has passed and that women workers are found satisfactory in that field formerly occupied exclusively by men.

Leisure Time Counts.

"It is what you do with your leisure time that counts," he said. "If it is properly employed you will go forward to leadership.

"Wheel horses are necessary, but you must go beyond and be a creator; keep up and keep ahead of the times," he urged.
